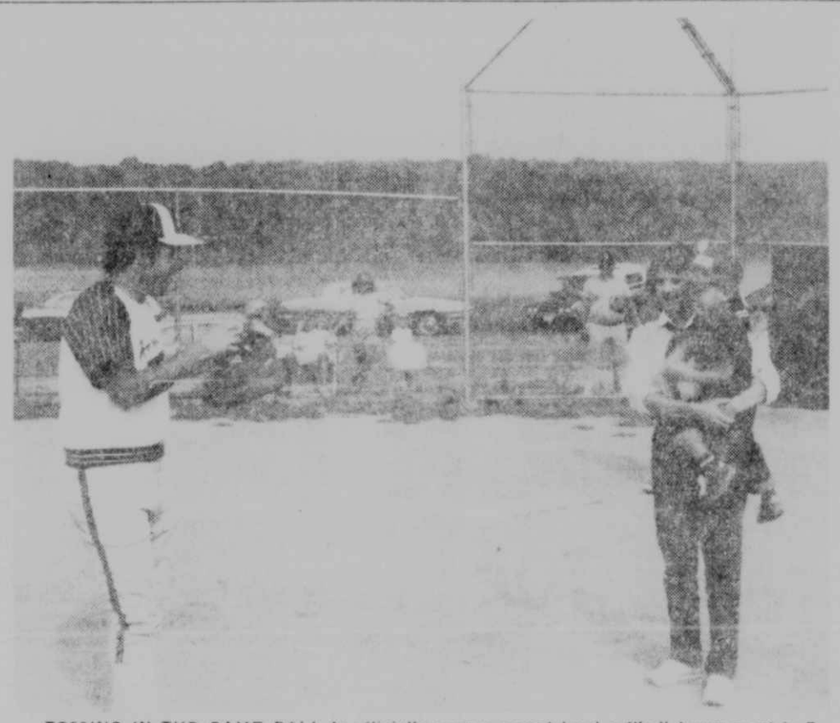
Bambacus Seeks Info On Drought Aid Needed Here

Sen. John Bambacus assured area agriculture representatives last Thursday that if there is a need for drought assistance in this county, he will move at once to seek whatever type of aid is available.

Rainfall has been only 65 percent of normal this year, and has been so "spotty" that one area may have no corn at all while nearby has an excellent crop. Farmers agree, however, that corn production is down 35 percent and hay meadows and pasture have suffered severely from the lack of rain, with 50 percent normal growth. This may translate to increased costs of at least $214 per dairy cow this winter.

Gov. Hughes requested federal disaster relief for farmers in all 23 counties in Maryland of John R. Block, the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture last week. Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., state agriculture secretary, delivered the latest aid request to Block in a meeting of federal and state agriculture officials in Chicago.



Cawley had originally requested aid for six counties - Frderick, Carroll, Howard, Washington, St. Marys, and Calvert - in the form of low-interest federal loans. However, after a helicopter tour of "much of the state," Cawley said that he will ask for surplus grain to be made available to Maryland farmers so they can feed their livestock.

Since he had heard nothing from local farmers, Bambacus met with Clark Kolb, state director for the Maryland Farm Bureau; Nevin Umbel, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau; Brooks Hamilton, board of director member for the local bureau; James Simms, agricultural extension agent for the University of Maryland; Granville Halterman, with the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; John Reckner and Shaun Sanders, Soil Conservation Service.

All agreed that low-interest loans appear to be the most beneficial offering to drought-afflicted farmers, and Bambacus promised to get back to the group as soon as he can find out anything about such aid.

Halterman also suggested that a lower interest rate for FHA loans would be a big help.

TOSSING IN THE GAME BALL to officially open a recent local softball tournament is P. Brandon Frantz, four-year-old son of Paul and Debbie Frantz, Deer Park, who was critically injured last month when a stray bullet fired from a hand gun accidently struck him in the head while he was riding in a pickup truck with his father. After lying near death for several days in a Cumberland hospital, Brandon is now making what physicians and the members of his family say are a remarkable recovery. The softball tournament, held by the Mt. Top Softball League as a benefit for young Brandon to help his family pay the expenses of the incident, included 29 teams from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D.C. Net proceeds from the event amounted to $2,353, all of which was presented to the Frantz family. In the photo with Brandon are his mother, Debbie, and Tom Bosley, member of the LAOC team, which went on to win the championship in the A division.

Park Bridge To Be Closed Next Week For Replacement

Work will begin on the State Park Road Bridge September 12 by contractor Mattingly Construction Co., Inc., Cumberland, the company's project coordinator Steve Merrick reported Tuesday.

The construction firm received the bid from the Garrett County commissioners August 25 for the removal of the single lane bridge over Meadow Mountain Run and replacing it with a new steel bridge for two-lane traffic.

The bridge will be closed to traffic beginning September 12.

Merrick said traffic would be detoured from U.S. 219 to Rock Lodge Road to get into the park and will be directed out that way also.

Signs will be erected next week to direct traffic, Merrick said.

The project, bid to the firm for $284,101, is expected to take six months to complete.

WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP — Robert Householder, Oakland, holds the trophy he won in the International Chili Society Maryland State Championship Cook-Off held Saturday, August 27, in Cumberland. The event, sponsored by Old Milwaukee Beer and the Ali Ghan Temple, raised money for Shrine crippled children and burn center hospitals. The contestants cooked up their pots of chili Saturday and sold each spoonful for 25 cents. Householder, an employee of Bausch & Lomb, Inc., Oakland, and boss clown of the Harige Clown Unit, will compete in the International Chili Society Cook Off in Rosamond, California, for a grand prize of $35,000. An auction and bread baking contest were also held during the chili cook-off Saturday afternoon. Events began Friday night with a party for the 1,200 members and guests of the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Association, representing seven states.

Swanton Woman Killed Saturday In West Virginia Auto Mishap

A young Garrett County woman, Mrs. Karen M. Friend, 23, Swanton, died Saturday night as the result of a single-vehicle accident near Upper Tract, W. Va.

A passenger in Mrs. Friend's auto, Deborah Simms, 26, also of Swanton, sustained lacerations and bruises, and was admitted to Grant County (W. Va.) Memorial Hospital in Petersburg. She has since been released.

The mishap occurred approximately 9:23 p.m. as Mrs. Friend was operating her auto along a secondary route in the Smoke Hole-Big Ben Recreation Area.

The local Medevac helicopter was called to transport Mrs. Friend to Cumberland's Memorial Hospital from Grant Memorial, but the young woman died at 12:15 a.m. She was reportedly four months pregnant.

According to the reports, the mishap occurred on a narrow dirt road. Apparently, the vehicle left the roadway, which is elevated above the south branch of the Potomac River, and began to roll down the embankment. Miss Simms reported she was thrown out halfway down the embankment.

The auto continued toward the river, and came to rest on the driver's side at the edge of the water. Trooper R.D. Gillespie said Mrs. Friend was also thrown from the vehicle at that point.

Gillespie reported that Miss Simms managed to crawl back up the embankment, where she flagged down a passing motorist.

Fire and rescue squads from Upper Tract and Franklin as well as the South Branch fire department, responded to the call. The victim was brought from the water's edge via the stokes basket and ropes system. The vehicle was a total loss.

Born in Newport News, Va., Mrs. Friend was a daughter of Jack O. Timberlake, Newport News, and Joyce Hall Timberlake, Norfolk, Va.

She was a sales representative for the Avon company.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her husband, Alfred D. "Tike" Friend, Jr.; a son, Joseph O. Friend, at home; two sisters, Sharon Joyce and Angela Timberlake, a brother, Michael Timberlake, all of Newport News; and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Thelma Timberlake, State of Virginia.

Friends were received in the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Ellis Harvey officiating. Interment followed in the George Cemetery, Swanton.

Bottle Deposit Backers To Begin Walk Wednesday

Supporters of legislation for a beverage container deposit law in Maryland will begin their walk across Maryland Wednesday, September 14, at 8:30 a.m., on Route 39 at the Maryland-West Virginia line.

Joining those on the walk, organized by Citizens Against Waste, will be a 73-year-old retired lawyer from Bethesda. The purpose of the walk is to arouse grass roots support for the bill which is to be presented at the 1984 General Assembly session.

The walkers, who expect to reach Annapolis on October 1, will assemble for their walk at 8 a.m., on Wednesday morning and expect to reach the outskirts of Oakland at 11:30 a.m.

They will proceed to the plaza at the Garrett County Courthouse where a rally will be held. Among the speakers at the rally will be Lottie Brenneman, owner of Brenneman's Store in Bittinger. Local musician Rob Smith will perform during the rally.

The walkers welcome anyone from the county to join them at any point along their walk.

After the rally, they will leave Oakland, walking eastbound to Swanton via Rts. 135 and 495, and will stop for the night at the Swanton Community Center. On Thursday, the group will leave Swanton at 10:30 a.m., and walk towards Westernport along Rt. 135.

When they reach Annapolis on October 1, there will be a final rally at the State House steps between 2 and 4 p.m. Music and speakers of national prominence will be featured during the rally, said Ajax Eastman, one of the walk

Garrett's Jobless Rate Up Slightly, Maryland's Down

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate continued its decline in July to 6.3 percent from 6.6 percent in June, marking the lowest unemployment rate recorded so far this year. Since reaching this year's peak of 9.0 percent in January, the unemployment rate has declined, cumulatively, by 2.7 percentage points.

Garrett County's jobless rate in July, however, showed a slight increase, from 14.2 percent in June to 14.3 percent in July. The 1982 rate for Garrett County was 15.3 percent.

According to statistics released by the State Employment Security Administration, this month's state rate is the lowest since November 1980 and the lowest rate for a July since 1979. In addition, the June to July decrease of 0.3 percentage points is the largest decline for a July since 1975.

This July also marks the seventh consecutive month that the State unemployment rate has been lower than the level recorded for the corresponding month of a year ago. In July 1982, the unemployment rate was 8.4 percent.

Also, for 18 consecutive months Maryland's unemployment rate has been less than the national rate. However, after 22 consecutive months of higher unemployment than the corresponding month of a year ago, the national unemployment rate joined Maryland in being lower than a year ago.

Statewide, 2,075,990 persons were employed in July and 139,619 unemployed which, combined, gave the State a

Two Baltimore Men Arrested

Two men spotted cruising around this area over the three-day weekend were returned by police authorities to Baltimore after local police investigated and found that the car they were driving had been stolen from the Highland Psychiatric Unit.

According to Chief Deputy Van Evans, he and Deputy Gnegy had stopped the vehicle along Old Route 135 after residents reported seeing a state vehicle driving around the vicinity. A routine check by the local authorities revealed that the car had been stolen, and that one of the men in the car was wanted by Baltimore county police.

Arrested were Samuel Bernard Jacobs and Ronald John Iwanicki, both of Baltimore. Jacobs was found to be wanted by Baltimore county police, so authorities from Baltimore city and county police departments arrived late Monday to return the two to Baltimore. Highland unit officials who did not realize the car had been stolen, until the men were stopped here, picked up the car on Tuesday.

Chief Deputy Evans expected that the two men would be charged with auto theft.

Grand Jury Members Chosen

Members have been chosen for the September term of Garrett County grand jury, according to Clifford DeWitt, clerk of circuit court.

Bambacus Suggests New Task Force For Unemployment

In a letter to Governor Harry R. Hughes, State Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) Thursday suggested the formation of a high-level task force to address "the very critical unemployment situation facing western Maryland."

Bambacus, who serves as chairman of Senate Select Committee #1 for Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, stated "it has become clear to me that what is needed is a consolidation of the many efforts being made by all the agencies which are directing their energies toward finding solutions to the problem . . ."

"Governor, we must be thinking more comprehensively and systematically as we public officials face this dilemma," Bambacus wrote.

The Senator, serving his first term in the Maryland General Assembly, has conferred with the Governor and several state officials who are working on the problem. Although he is pleased that the statewide unemployment rate is dropping, "that is certainly not the case here. Indeed, things are getting worse. A cutoff in the state's additional benefit program could greatly compound the problems we already face." Bambacus made reference to 9,500 Marylanders who will lose unemployment benefits by the end of the month because the state unemployment rate is dropping.

Citing the "strong and willing work force of men and women who stand ready to work," Bambacus also pointed out the great strides that have been made in the area of labor relations, as evidenced by the success of the Cumberland Area Labor Management Committee (CALM). "The commitment within the community is strong, and we must continue to support that commitment."

"It occurs to me that a substantial benefit would accrue by the formation of a task force at the highest level of State government. With the full weight of your office behind it and with, perhaps, Lieutenant Governor Curran at its helm, such a panel could more finely focus the efforts currently being made by several cabinet-level agencies," Bambacus stated.

Bambacus praised steps already being taken by the state, such as the grants being made available to local institutions (Allegany Community College, Frostburg State College, Hagerstown Junior College) for worker retraining programs. Further, as co-sponsor of the newly-enacted Jobs Training Partnership Act, Bambacus considers the act to be a "powerful and efficient ap-

Lake Property Owners Get Review Of Sewer Progress, Lake Plans

Members of the Deep Creek Property Owners Association got a comprehensive look at the sewerage project progress, lake management plan, and planning studies during their Labor Day membership meeting at Garrett Community College Saturday morning.

President Richard Barnes opened the meeting and then introuced Robert Blasingame, member of the Deep Creek sewerage project sewer user rate study advisory group. Blasingame in turn introduced Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, who reported on progress of sewer construction.

Beitzel said that the basic system is approaching 50 percent completion, with over 400 grinder pumps installed and some 300 to go. Several contractors have all but finished their segments of laying pipeline, and the sanitary commission is seeking a grant amendment for funding for the expanded system.

The commission should know by October if the grant will be awarded, and construction is expected to start next spring.

Beitzel also pointed out that the commission is in the midst of discussion with the Department of Natural Resources concerning hooking Deep Creek State Park to the system.

Blasingame then gave a resume of advisory group meetings, noting that Ed Starr is now the secretary of that group which has been formulated to recommend ways to distribute repayment costs for the local share of the system. It appeared to be the concensus of the group Saturday, and others who have written to the advisory group, that the front-foot assessment method is unfair and that an alternate method would be more acceptable.

Property owners were also informed that they will be individually responsible for getting contractors to hook their properties into the new system when the system is complete.

There was also a great deal of concern over allocation of taps remaining available in the sewer system, which was designed to have 70 percent use. Allocation of the other 30 percent is to be recommended by the advisory group, which recently asked that no sewer taps be granted other than those shown on maps for contracts one through eight, until recommendations are complete.

Beitzel said that the commission will not allocate taps to large users until an allocation policy can be devised, but reported that the sanitary commission feels it is only fair to allow a tap to prospective home builders who have already received their building permits.

Planning, Zoning Review

Kelly Smith, POA representative on the zoning committee, introduced Tim Dugan, county planning commission administrator, who reviewed work on a planning review of the lake area. Dugan was accompanied to the meeting by Charles "Bus" Bender, chairman of the planning commission, and Anna McNallie, assistant planner.

Dugan assured the property owners that the goal of his commission is to protect and conserve the positive features of the lake while permitting use and development which does not endanger the lake. He also addressed concerns expressed by the property owners about the timing of such a planning review, saying that this is merely coincidental to the completion of the sewer system and does not mean that the sewer system will mean all holds are lifted concerning development.

His department is compiling a complete record of what exists now and plans to use this information to allow orderly growth, and Dugan assured the group that policy deliberations on the planning update will not take place until spring, when more input can be expected from the summer residents around the lake.

POA member Robert England was applauded when he said he feels priority should be given to setting standards for lake use before oversaturation occurs.

Want To Vote

Members of the association passed two motions Saturday dealing with local politics.

The first was a motion by a Mr. Bailey that the board study the possibility of developing a fund whereby the association can support the candidates in the 1984 election that reflect the views of the association. After Bailey amended the motion to include "with the advice and consent of Property Owners Association counsel," the motion passed with a show of hands vote.

The second motion was made by R. E. England and requires that the board of directors of the Property Owners Association direct the POA counsel to study the legality of seeking State of Maryland legislation authorizing the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners (not already voting residents) to vote for elected officials of Garrett County (at minimum county commissioners), and if counsel's report is affirmative, that the PRESENTS FLAG — U. S. Senator Jennings Randolph, left, presented the Town of Mt. Lake Park with a U. S. flag during a ceremony Sunday night at the town hall. Approximately 80 people attended. Randolph purchased the flag, which had flown over the nation's capitol, and gave it to the town because he has vacationed there almost every year since he was an infant. Standing with Randolph are, left to right, Russell Alexander, Mt. Lake Park mayor, and Marvin Jones, coordinator for the evening program. Jones presented the U. S. Senator for West Virginia with a gallon jug of maple syrup on behalf of the citizens of Mt. Lake Park.

Police Investigate Numerous Mishaps

Maryland State Police, McHenry detachment, investigated a series of accidents over the holiday weekend which resulted in injury, property damage, and citations for some drivers.

Thomas E. Lewis, 40, Frostburg, and his wife, Joanne T. Lewis, 36, also of Frostburg, were treated at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, for injuries they received Friday night in a single-vehicle mishap which occurred along U.S. Route 40 near Church Run Road in the Long Stretch area.

According to police, the Lewis auto was traveling west on the highway when the driver was forced to veer off the highway to avoid a collision with cattle which were wandering in the roadway.

The cattle belonged to William Platter, also of Frostburg.

When Lewis observed the cattle, he swerved to the left and ran into the cemetery at the Mount Zion United Methodist Church, damaging 10 memorial markers. Both the driver and his passenger were ejected from the vehicle. Northern Rescue Squad transported the injured to Sacred Heart.

An Oakland man escaped serious injury Friday when a honey bee decided to join him inside his shirt.

William T. Miller, Jr., 25, Oakland, told police he was traveling on Rt. 39, near the Oakland-Rosedale Road, when the bee flew into the car and down the driver's shirt, stinging him in the process. Miller's vehicle went off the right side of the roadway, striking a mailbox owned by Rev. Ralph Jacks. The 12:30 p.m. accident was investigated by Tfc. Jay Resh.

Tracey Sisler, 19, and Kimberly Spear, 22, both of Friendsville, were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Thursday morning following an accident along the Old Morgantown Road, near Rt. 42 in that town. The vehicle struck a fence and a tree as the driver, Miss Sisler, was attempting to maneuver in heavy fog. Tfc. Chester Miller investigated the 2:35 a.m. accident.

A Mt. Lake Park youth and his passenger were both treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital following a Friday night accident in Loch Lynn.

According to police, Roy Alan Zimmerman, 16, Mt. Lake Park, was traveling west on First Avenue when he lost control of his vehicle and struck a utility pole. Zimmerman sustained dental injuries, bruises, and a slight concussion. His passenger, David Saunders, 17, Crellin, also sustained facial cuts and bruises.

Zimmerman was charged with negligent driving.

An Oakland man, John Michael Henderson, 32, escaped serious injury when his vehicle left the Swallow Falls road on Saturday evening and struck a tree.

Police say the driver lost control near the bridge over the Yough River.

Henderson was charged with negligent driving.

A Frostburg man, Kenneth Kerr, 20, was charged by state police with speeding and driving while intoxicated after his vehicle, which was traveling west on Rt. 40, near the Green Lantern Road at an apparent high rate of speed, entered the Hen House West restaurant parking area, and struck a tree.

The vehicle bounced backward and came to rest in the opposite direction. A passenger in the vehicle, Diane R. Davidson, 19, also of Frostburg, was taken to Frostburg Community Hospital, along with Kerr, by Northern Rescue Squad, where they were treated and released.

Kerr told police that an unknown vehicle backed into the highway, causing him to lose control. No vehicle was located by police.

In a separate accident, Daniel O. Meyers, 66, Grantsville, was treated and since released from Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following a fall from a ladder at 9:31 p.m. on August 31 at Stanton's Mill. He was transported by Northern Rescue Squad, dispatched by Garrett Central Alarm.

Coroner's Report Not Complete On Joseph Temak

The Maryland coroner's office in Baltimore still has not released the cause of death of Joseph Michael Temak, 35, whose body was found August 26 in the Casselman River at Grantsville.

According to Maryland State Police Sgt. Charles Hinnant, results of the autopsy are being held pending complete blood tests. Sgt. Hinnant also noted that state police have been conducting an extensive background investigation while awaiting the coroner's report, but gave no further details at this time.

BREATHE EASIER — The Allegany-Garrett Regional Council of the American Lung Association of Maryland will sponsor a Pulmonary Education Program for those with chronic lung diseases, their family members and any interested persons tonight, September 7, at the Garrett County Health Department auditorium from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Eric Tribbey, respiratory therapist for the health department, members of his staff, a local physician and a pharmacist will conduct the information session on healthy and diseased lungs, medications, breathing exercises, therapies, and general health measures. Friend Arrested For Disorderly Behavior Sunday

A Swanton area man was arrested Sunday morning about 10:30 after being subdued by an off-duty deputy at White Oaks Trailer Court near that community.

According to a report filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, Deputy David Crossland was off duty when he received a call for aid from the Sheila Boyce residence at the trailer park. When he arrived, he found Eric Friend there and refusing to leave. Friend, 18, reportedly picked up a chair and struck the deputy, who then subdued Friend and called for assistance. Friend was transported to the county jail by Deputy Larry Gnegy and was charged with battery, disorderly intoxication and trespassing and was released later in the day on his own recognizance.

Clarification Noted

In a news article published last week, a list of young persons involved in a trespassing and destruction of property incident at Southern High School in May of this year failed to include Donald Wade DeBerry, and Derek Latin, both of Oakland, who were charged later in the case. A third person's file was declared nolle prosequi in district court, and sent to juvenile court, with several other juveniles who allegedly took part in the incident.

Summer Weather Still Lingers

Typical summer weather is lingering past Labor Day and into September, as the temperatures remain in the 80s or upper 70s during the day and the overnight lows do not approach the frost mark.

High temperature for the week was recorded last Wednesday when the mercury topped off at 85 degrees. Overnight low was last Thursday, when temperatures reached 47.

High last Thursday was 78 degrees and some .35 of an inch of rain was noted. Friday was very similar, with a high of 79 after the previous night's drop to 47. High on Saturday was again 79 degrees after the overnight low of 50.

Weber's weather station near Oakland had no readings for Sunday and Monday. Both days were partly sunny, although Monday did bring some rainfall, with highs in the low 80s and overnight lows in the upper 50s.

Low Monday night was 51, and Tuesday the mercury climbed to 81 degrees. Tuesday also brought .16 of an inch of rain. Overnight low last night was 67 degrees and showers were forecast through today.

Owner Reports $2,000 In Fishing Equipment Stolen

A Skipper's Point homeowner reported the theft August 26 of over $2,000 worth of boating and fishing equipment, according to a report by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Charles Elvie Gibson told Deputy Larry Gnegy that between August 24 and 26, someone had removed a Mercury 9.8 horsepower outboard boat motor, Sea Trac Fish Finder and numerous items of fishing lures and tackle from a Thunderbird motorboat while docked at the Gibson property.

Deputy Gnegy estimated the total loss at $2,094.35.

Several household items were removed from a home on Bray School Road owned by Russell M. Jurmu between August 26 and September 2. Loss was estimated at $155 by Assistant Chief Deputy Paul Pratt.

Margaret Spaulding, Deer Park, reported the theft of a battery from her 1975 Dodge during the night of September 2. The battery was later found in the park at Deer Park, damaged beyond salvage. Deputy Gnegy estimated the loss at $55.

Investigations into the above incidents are continuing and the sheriff's department welcomes any information concerning these or other recent cases. Anyone with information may call either the sheriff's department at 334-2141 or Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-3111.

Rabies Clinics Are Continuing

A new assembly of worshipers has formed the Fellowship Bible Church, located, for the present time, in the building on the grounds belonging to the Mt. Lake Park Camp Meeting Association, adjacent from El Lobo's Restaurant in Mt. Lake Park.

The Fellowship Bible Church, which formed on August 31, will be pastored by Rev. Robert Lee, a 1970 graduate of Southern High School. Lee was graduated from Tennessee Temple University in Chattanooga, with a bachelor of arts degree in communications. He studied further at Temple Baptist Theological Seminary, Chattanooga.

Rev. Lee invites interested persons to visit the Sunday morning service, which begins at 11 a.m., and the Sunday evening service, which begins at 6 p.m. At the present time, a Wednesday evening service is held each week at 7:30 p.m.

Longyear Named Garrett National Trust Officer

The board of directors of the Garrett National Bank recently announced the appointment of Michael J. Longyear to the position of trust officer.

Longyear will be assuming responsibility for all trust and estate planning functions for the bank effective immediately.

Longyear is the son of Mary E. Longyear and the late Leslie W. Longyear, Port Byron, New York.

Upon graduation from Port Byron Central High School, he attended Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y., where he obtained his bachelor of arts degree. While attending Eisenhower College, he served as chairman and vice-chairman of the student senate, as well as class president. He received his masters degree in teaching from Colgate University in 1977, and taught in the New York State school system until 1980. During his term of education, he was granted a Fulbright Scholarship to study and travel abroad for the New York State University. In addition, he received grants from the Robert A. Taft Foundation and the New York Bar Association.

Longyear entered the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, where he served as president of the Student Bar Association and class president for 1982. To supplement his law studies, he worked as a law clerk for the firm of Currie and Clermont in Ithaca, N.Y., and completed a trust internship with Pittsburgh National Bank in 1982. He graduated from Pitt University with a juris doctorate in law. In July of this year, he sat for the Maryland Bar in Baltimore. He is also a member of the American Bar Association, participates in environmental and conservation activities and enjoys swimming, skiing, tennis and hiking.

Consumer Slide Show Being Used, According To Sachs

The Consumer Protection Division in the office of Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs announced this week that its half-hour consumer education slide show has been shown nearly 100 times to community groups, civic organizations, senior citizen clubs, social service projects and educational program across the state since its debut a year ago.

"Educating members of the public about their consumer rights and obligations is the surest way to protect them," Sachs said. "We're delighted that our slide show is performing that important job every week."

The Attorney General noted that the Consumer Protection Division now also has a half-hour video tape program advising consumers on how they can protect themselves in the marketplace.

The slide show provides a detailed description of Maryland's major consumer laws and gives easy-to-understand advice on how consumers can avoid problems in such areas as automotive repairs, home improvement work, mail order shopping, consumer credit, warranties, contracts, landlord-tenant disputes and door-to-door sales. The video tape cassette, prepared in cooperation with WBAL-TV in Baltimore, features reports by the station's award-winning "Legaline" reporter Dick Gelfman on such topics as Maryland's small claims courts, the Consumer Protection Division's arbitration program, credit and debt problems and auto repairs.

Both the slide show and the video tape are available free to the public and will be mailed on a rotating basis to all who request either one. For either the slide show or the tape program, advance notice of 30 days is required and two alternate dates for use should be given. Those interested in either program should write the Consumer Protection Division, 7 North Calvert Street, Third Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202. The slides and tape cassette, which are packaged in a reusable mailing container, must be mailed back to the Consumer Protection Division within a week.

The slide show comes with an accompanying audio tape cassette. Those requesting the slide show must have a carousel slide projector and screen, as well as either a tape player that can be attached to the projector so the audio cassette will be synchronized with the slides, or a standard tape player that can be operated manually to accompany the slide program.

The ½ inch video tape program must only be used on VHS format machines.

CAVEAT EMPTOR

"Caveat emptor" is a Latin expression meaning "Let the buyer beware." Its significance is probably more important in the purchase of real estate than in any other transaction because of the large amount of money usually involved. Boiled down to two simple words it means: "Be careful!"

Sure, this is the age of consumerism. We have city, county, state, and federal consumer bureaus. There's also the Better Business Bureau, the FTC, and Ralph Nader. The media - newspapers, magazines, radio, TV - all give advice on consumerism, too. They all do a good job when you have complaints, or at least try to help you.

But the best way to avoid problems when buying something, especially a home or investment property, is still to forestall them by checking everything BEFORE purchase. By "everything" we mean all financial matters, clauses, papers, past histories, etc., as well as the property itself. If one seemingly minor factor is overlooked or forgotten or not even known about, it could result in a problem involving thousands of dollars. We, as Realtors, consider "everything". We have to, since our business and reputation depend on it.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

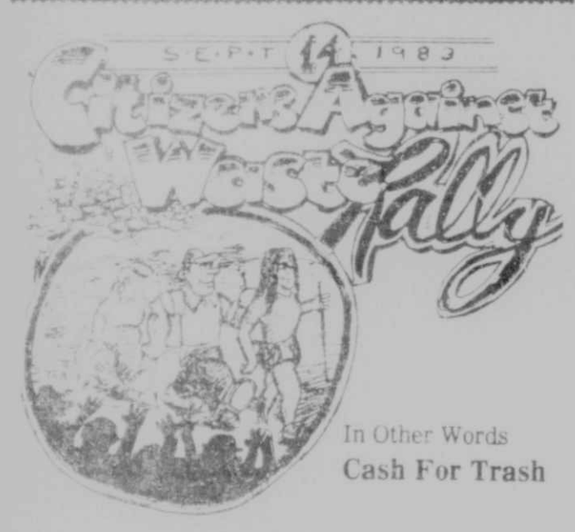
A Fine Line . . .

President Reagan's 17-minute address to the nation Monday evening in response to the Soviet Union's shooting down of a Korean civilian passenger jet last week has, as usual, drawn a variety of comments. While many of those in authority expressed generally positive opinions, there were a significant number who were displeased with the speech. The latter felt that the president was too lenient toward the Russians, not in words, but in proposed actions by our nation against the Soviets to make them pay for such an horrendous act. Arch conservatives want the president to end arms control negotiations, cancel all grain sales to Russia and cut back diplomatic representation.



We tend to agree with the president's statement that vengeance is not the answer and we believe that the proposed actions are just about all we can do right now, short of military action. While military retaliation might ease the widespread feeling of outrage, it is this very type of impulsive act which could quickly lead to the next, and probably last, world conflict.

Economic sanctions against the Soviets, such as another grain embargo, are at best mildly effective. It is the poor masses of the Soviet Union who suffer from such an action, not to mention the American farmer. One can rest assured that Mr. Andropov, Mr. Gromyko and others in authority will have all the personal grain products they desire, regardless of U. S. actions.

The breaking-off of arms control negotiations is definitely not in the best interest of our nation and the rest of the world. Despite such continued acts of aggression by the Soviets and their apparent disregard for basic human rights and life itself, verbal negotiations are our only option, again, short of military action, which would prove fatal to both sides.

The president must walk a fine line on this issue. On the one hand, he must condemn and punish the Soviets for their actions, but on the other hand, he must not be too harsh or too hasty, so as to break off all negotiations and destroy what progress has been made in those talks.

We believe that the eventual natural consequences of this type of barbarism will be the alienation of the Soviet Union from the entire rest of the world. When this happens, the decline of the nation and its power will be rapid and irreversible.

In Other Words
Cash For Trash

by Carol Fox

A much-needed beverage container deposit law, originally introduced to Maryland's General Assembly in 1971, will again make a plea for passage in the 1984 session.

The bill, sponsored by Citizens Against Waste, has been blocked from passage by millions of dollars spent by retail grocers, bottlers and brewers, and bottle and can manufacturers who cite added expense to mark each container with "MD 5¢", the cost and trouble of collection and handling of empty containers, and a significant loss of jobs as results of passage of the bill.

On the contrary, Citizens Against Waste offer many more solutions than problems in the bottle bill, including the fact that a five-cent beverage container deposit throughout the state will give citizens a dollars and cents reason to reuse, recycle, or turn in bottles and cans that now litter highways, beaches, and waterways.

The deposit laws are tried, proven effective, and even popular in six states at the present time, and deposit laws go into effect this year in three more.

One of those states in which the bottle bill is a proven fact is the beautiful northern state of Maine. My husband and I had the pleasure of a vacation trip to Maine two years ago, and one of the lasting memories of the trip is the incredible cleanliness. I was not aware of the bottle bill controversy at the time, and continually remarked about the absolute non-existence of trash in that state. Just for fun one afternoon, we made a concerted effort for more than two hours to try to find one—just one—can, bottle, or other piece of litter in the section of the state we were in. We searched the cities, the countryside, a beach area, and miles and miles of roadway, and found not even a gum wrapper. The results of the bill in that state can be argued by no one.

It's no secret that landfills across the state are filling up. Most Maryland cities and towns face serious solid waste problems, including Garrett County, not to mention the millions of dollars to be saved by recycling and reusing all beverage containers. Discarded soda and beer cans currently line our roadsides, parks, and fields, costing an estimated $6,000,000 annually just to pick them up along the highways. That does not include costs to pick up in state, county, or municipal parks, shopping centers, or private properties.

Maryland's proposed deposit law is straightforward and workable. It gives people an economic incentive to help solve the important litter and waste problem, promotes socially responsible behavior, and is a step in the right direction toward a truly sustainable society in which our children will have the resources they need for a good life.

Let your state senator know if you support the bottle bill, and contact Citizens Against Waste, P. O. Box 16258, Baltimore, Md. 21210, for further information.

Another group of walkers will leave Ocean City and walk from there to Annapolis, also expecting to arrive on October 1.

The bill, supported by the Citizens Against Waste, would require a 5-cent deposit for every beer or soft drink sold in cans and glass and plastic bottles in Maryland.

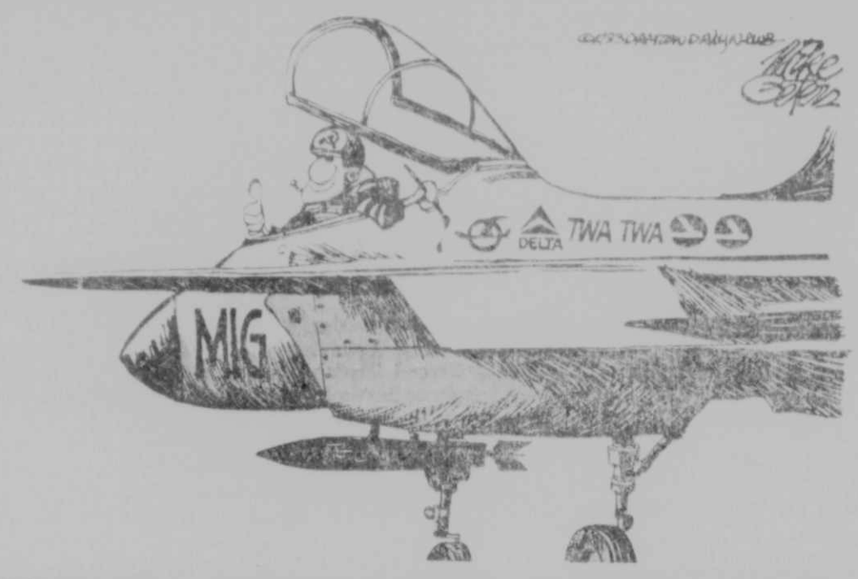
The law has been opposed by distributors, grocers, organized labor and companies in the state which make steel or aluminum beverage cans.

Supporters of the bill argue it would have no great impact on businessmen or labor, but instead would prove beneficial. They point to states with the law, noting in those states there has been an increase in the number of jobs and, at least, no decrease in sales of beverage cans.

Rate Reduction Requested By Columbia Gas

Columbia Gas of Maryland (CMD) is reducing costs to its more than 29,000 customers by about 6.4 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas (Mcf), and prospects are good that gas pricing will increase very little over the next year, Cumberland Area Manager, Thomas Lindsey, Jr. said this week.

"Based on the best information available to us now, we see an excellent possibility that our costs of buying gas for our customers will about level through 1983 and well into 1984," Lindsey said.



The lower gas costs are a result of successful efforts by CMD and its principal supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., to lower costs of gas purchased from producers and from other interstate pipelines, Lindsey said.

CMD has filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission to put the reduction into effect for gas supplied on and after September 2.

For the average customer, who uses an average of 10 Mcf of gas per month during a year, the change will mean a savings of 64 cents per month.

"The moderating trend in gas pricing has arrived, and we believe it will continue to improve, particularly if Congress enacts needed legislation that Columbia has suggested," Lindsey said.

"The legislation would help correct pricing and gas-contract problems between gas purchasers, like Columbia Gas Transmission, and gas producers, problems resulting from provisions of the federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978," he concluded.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Each year we look forward to the festivities surrounding Autumn Glory.

It is to our disappointment that a girl from Garrett County will not reign as queen this year because of Allegany County girls being able to compete.

As a citizen of Garrett County, I feel that money has been wasted.

To think a girl from Allegany County will wear a Garrett County banner across her shoulders and ride on our float simply is not fair.

We are proud to be from Garrett County. Can our 1984 Autumn Glory Queen say the same?

To the Editor:

I am a new member of Sand Flat Assembly of God Church and am upset about your article and the editorial written by Carol Fox. I would like to state a few things as I know them.

As in every church there are various cliques (though all are one body); so it is at Sand Flat Assembly. Being a new member lets one view the situation more clearly.

To Carol Fox I would suggest that she attend a meeting with these "vigilantes". I agree that a church cannot close its doors to those who go to worship . . . but one only has to attend a so-called "worship" service with these people to know that it's not far from being a Klu Klux Klan meeting. They did not go to this meeting at Sand Flat to build up God's Church, but to tear down!

Some of our members were disciplined and they know why! Anyone who attended our business meeting this spring can testify to a brawl-like scene played out by some of these "prominent" members. Had Jesus been there in body he would have tossed them out just as he did the money-changers! Yes Carol Fox, church is a place of worship. Freedom to worship yes! Freedom of wills no!

Through all of these ordeals Rev. Grant has acted Christ-like. Did your paper staff bother to find out what effect this has had on him? No! He has been harassed by phone with death threats, has had shots fired over his home, and has been told by these "worshippers" to get out of town. Surely God has been with him, or he could never have stood these attacks of Satan.

Yes, our church is dividing, and the very members who don't understand it are the ones who are causing it!

To the Editor:

I too, question the value of the grievance proceeding recently instituted by two members of the Garrett County Teachers Association. The value of the few hours of time seems unimportant when compared to the impact this action may have on the attitudes of students.

As one who has been both student and teacher in a variety of situations, it appears to me that students—particularly young persons—respond in part to the example that is given them by their instructors.

I should think that the teachers' admonitions to work with diligence and to give the extra effort required to do a superior job, might sound rather hollow and hypocritical in the ears of students as they return to class this year.

Fortunately, most of our teachers bring a more professional and thoughtful attitude to the task they undertake in the classroom.

To the Editor:

During World War II, opposition to Hitler and his regime was quelled by execution.

At the time of Martin Luther, opposition to the Catholic religious body was dealt with via excommunication.

Today, members and others who attend the Sand Flat Assembly of God who oppose the current pastor, W. Gregory Grant, and/or the handling of policies at that church are simply asked not to return. They are, in fact, commanded not to set foot in the church. If they do, as proven last week, they are arrested.

Apparently, the Sand Flat Assembly Congregation is politically motivated by the pastor and the board. Never have I heard of a house of God that bans one from entering due to his opinions of the presiding minister. Apparently, the 26 who were issued court summonses had begun a ball rolling in order to bring about change in the present structure. Historically, there have been two ways to handle an argument . . . resolve it or somehow make the opposition ineffective. Obviously, the majority does not rule on decisions at Sand Flat.

The Bible tells us we are to be "fishers of men." Are we to surmise that Mr. Grant has elected to throw back the "illegal catch?"

Now that the public is aware of the situation, perhaps the next time we turn on the radio and hear the paid advertisement by Mr. Grant, it might go something like this . . . "Rrrrring . . . That must be Pastor Greg Grant of the Sand Flat Assembly of God. Let's hear what he has to say today!

"It's great to be alive! It's great to know that Jesus Christ loves and cares for you. It's great to know that if you disagree with me or the deacons, or attempt in any way to ask questions about the workings of the church, I'll have you arrested! Now, you have a nice day!"

Second Impression

Sticks and stones

by Harry Fox

Robert Burns once spoke of how he prayed for the rare gift "to see ourselves as others see us." Indeed, this is a human commodity just as scarce as its complimentary virtue—that of standing in another's shoes before rendering judgment on his behavior.

Jesus Christ once applied this benevolent principle when the church leaders of his day cunningly devised a plot to test his loyalty to Jewish religious law. They brought before him the terrified, groveling form of a woman caught in the very act of adultery—an unspeakable crime for which she now expected to suffer the extreme penalty of stoning.

The Jewish leaders (remember, they're the clergy!) thought they had placed Jesus between a rock and a hard place. If he allowed human compassion, so obviously part of his character, to sway him they would have clear cause for accusing him of apostasy. Yet, the writer of John's gospel records that, for one long moment Jesus said nothing, but only knelt and wrote in the dust with his finger. John leaves us wondering exactly what he wrote.

As the drama continued, he rose, not to point an accusing finger of condemnation at the "guilty" party, but to say, in effect, "Yes, you're right. Go ahead. If any one of you has not sinned, throw the first stone."

As the familiar story concludes, he tells the terrified woman, "Where are your accusers? I am not condemning you—go, and do not sin again."

All this comes to mind in the light of the news stories and opinions that have been publicly aired concerning the troubled congregation at Sand Flat and its pastor, Greg Grant.

As the strife apparently simmered for many months, then boiled over in unrest and resulting legal action, there has been much casting of stones—and just as much appealing to the rigid yardsticks of law, be it civil or church policy, or calls to reason by "helpful" commentators!

From these noisy, if confusing, sticks and stones comes no judgment—but the uncomfortable recognition that only "those without sin" should attempt to point the accusing finger of blame. Ladies and gentlemen, please step forward and identify yourselves?

The benevolent Lord of the church prayed, according to the same gospel of John, that his flock might be sheltered against the storms of party strife—"that they may all be one."

As those who are "guilty," we are caught in our weakness. As participants, congregation, and especially those of us looking on from the outside, we might rise from the dust where we grovel to hear the gracious words "I am not condemning you—go, and do not sin again."

School Board To Take Action On Year's Budget

The Garrett County Board of Education is expected to take action on this year's budget, including salaries for teachers and employees, during their meeting Thursday.

Action on the budget is scheduled for approximately 5:40 p.m., as part of Board action on various administrative matters.

Teachers began work last week unsure what their salaries would be this year since the Board had indicated it would not be able to meet the negotiated raise of $700 for teachers after it received a smaller than expected allotment from the county.

If the Board approves the budget, it will be in time for the first paychecks for this school year to come out in October.

The Board will begin its meeting at 1 p.m., with an executive session and will open up its meeting to the public at 2:30 p.m., when it will receive a report on the opening of county schools.

At 2:45 p.m., the Board is to review instructional concerns and is to take action on a kindergarten curriculum guide, a seventh grade residency program at Camp Hickory and a revision to the Northern High School Vocational Education Program. Other matters to be discussed will be revisions to elementary report cards and a report on values education.

At 4:15 p.m., the Board is scheduled to take up administrative concerns. Planned for Board action, besides the budget, is the capital improvement program for fiscal year 1985 and the Southern High School Open Space bid award.

Other items to be discussed will be the construction management proposal for the Northern High School project, state ethics commission regulations and a tentative schedule of Board of Education meetings.

Among items scheduled after 6 p.m., is discussion of personnel concerns.

The worst part of any trip is the leaving. I would almost rather do anything else than to pack.

The most anxious moments of a trip are the few minutes before you exit the house, i.e., are the utility bills paid?; is the cat out?; does the bird have seed and water?; did you remember to leave a light on?; and lastly, the question which has caused more travelers to turn around en route and rush back home - is the iron on?.

I don't mind traveling by car because I can at least take most of the comforts of home with me. The airlines, however, frown on my five suitcases and a Cuisinart.

I don't like to fly, but not because I'm afraid to fly. I got over my initial fear of flying years ago when someone told me the law of gravity had been repealed.

I'm not a big fan of airport terminals or airline service. When I arrive at the airport late the only thing that progresses more slowly than the line at the ticket window is a woman approaching 30.

It's very embarrassing to have your personal belongings X-rayed for concealed weapons. On my last flight the guard rummaged through my clothes and suggested I wash them in warm water instead of cold.

Locating your seat assignment is always fun. I either get placed next to the grandmother with a flight bag of grandchild photographs who describes how her grandson skunked the competition during the Peoria Elementary spelling bee, or I sit next to a potbellied executive who had a lenghty layover in the airport lounge and tells me my future is in plastics.

The airlines do attempt to entertain you. I've occupied myself during long flights trying to figure out what I just ate. Airplane food is one of life's greatest mysteries.

The flight attendants present you with in-flight magazines which inform you of the wonderful attributes of all the exciting places where you aren't going. I've been published in some of those magazines and have spent flights announcing that to the other passengers. They in turn have thrown things at me.

An airplane is the only place where you cannot walk out on a dull movie. I don't appreciate zooming over the Pacific and viewing "Death Wish" with Charles Bronson.

Providing one survives the rigors of air travel, one has the pleasure awaiting of locating a hotel. Of course, a hotel is a place whose owner offers you a room to retire at a price which enables him to.

Thornton Wilder must have been a well-seasoned traveler when he wrote, "When you're safe at home, you wish you were having an adventure; when you're having an adventure, you wish you were safe at home."

By the time this is in print, I will have flown to the North Pole. My principal anxiety now is that the flight is only a stone's throw from Soviet air space and, as of late, the Russians seem to have a peculiar sense of air traffic control.

On this flight I won't have the usual worry about whether I left the iron on. This time I brought the darn thing with me.

Police Called For Motorcycle Crash; Youth Center Clash

A Potomac Park woman, Carol E. Divelbliss, 32, was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday evening at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a motorcycle accident which occurred just before noon on the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

According to Tfc. R.J. Resh, Ms. Divelbliss was a passenger on a cycle operated by Gary Paul Divelbliss, 34, who apparently lost control of the bike when it ran off the right shoulder of the road, struck an embankment, and overturned.

Ms. Divelbliss was initially taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue, and then transported by them to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland.

Gary Divelbliss was charged with negligent driving.

In other police action, a fight between residents of the Savage Mountain Youth Center, located on Avilton Road, near Lonaconing, called in extra personnel and additional state police.

There were six minor injuries reported, with the young men being treated at Memorial and Sacred Heart emergency rooms.

Approximately 24 of the 35 residents were involved in the fracas, either directly, or attempting to break up the disturbance. Charges are pending in the incident, but director Bob Allen reports that things are now back in good order at the center.

Snails usually bury themselves during the day and emerge only at night or during rain.

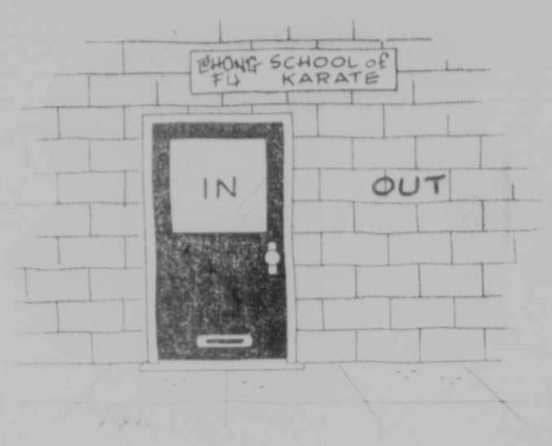
Accident Housing Group To Meet

The annual meeting of the members of the Accident Community Housing Corporation will be held on Tuesday, September 20, at 7:30 p.m., in the lounge of Town View Village. The purpose of this meeting is to renew memberships, elect three directors to replace those whose terms expire in 1983, and to transact other business to come before the meeting.

The corporation is a non-profit organization which was organized in 1978 by a group of individuals from Accident and the surrounding area whose sole interest was in the construction of a home for senior citizens. The building was completed and ready for occupancy by July 1981. The 20 units are all occupied.



All interested persons, as well as the residents of Town View Village, are welcome to attend this meeting.

Historical Society Notes Annual Tour

The annual Garrett County Historical Society tour held Saturday, August 27, featured parts of the Youghiogheny River basin between Sang Run and Ohiopyle.

The group left from Garrett Community College with John Hinebaugh, a knowledgeable resident of the area as tour guide for the Sang Run community.

According to Hinebaugh, the area was earlier known as

Crabtree Bottom. Among the sites pointed out on the trip were the grave site on the Sebold farm; the John Friend cave, where a rare bat supposedly dwells; Ginseng Hill, the site of Meshack Browning's home and grist mill, Sang Run Cemetery, where the ashes of Charles Hoye are buried, the buildings which housed the general store and the election house, and the picnic area, which is still used today.

Before the bus crossed the bridge over the Yough River, a second tour guide, James Ross, Sr., another versed in area history, took over. He called attention to various sites of former buildings, an old Indian culture, and various spots along the route from Friendsville through Selbysport, Garrett County's first organized town.

Following that, the group headed toward Addison, Pa., then to Confluence, and on to the Yough Dam site, where David Wash, a park specialist, gave the group a tour and lecture of information about the reservoir and spillway.

From the dam site, the tour continued across a wooded park of the Laurel Highlands to Cucumber Run picnic area, where a lunch break was taken. After spending time at Ohiopyle, the group went to Fallingwater, where a tour of Frank Lloyd Wright's home, was conducted.

Pearl Harbor Group To Picnic

Drought Aid

Most Maryland counties have sought help since rainfall this year has been 30 percent or less of normal.

Halterman has already requested aid through a federal program channeled through the U.S. Department of Agriculture ACP program which would pay 80 cents of each $1 spent on lime and fertilizer to help rebuild pastures and meadows. This could provide up to $3,500 per farm, with one ton of lime and 400 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer or equivalent per acre.

Much of the county's 59,675 acres of farmland is in pasture or meadow, according to Simms.

In commenting on the recent increase in requests for Soil Conservation help to develop ponds and springs because of low water table levels, Reckner noted that this summer they receive more requests in one week than in a normal year.

Before concluding the meeting, Sen. Bambacus told the group that Representative Beverly Byron and Senators Paul Sarbanes and Charles McC. Mathias had been in touch and said all are willing to help in any way they can.

labor force of 2,215,609. The labor force increased by an estimated 27,066 persons from June to July, employment grew by 31,325 and unemployment decreased by 4,259 persons.

In June, hiring continued in construction, agriculture, eating and drinking places, hotel and lodging places, health services and federal government. Hiring was also noted in city and county governments' summer jobs programs.

Nonetheless, layoffs for unpaid vacations were scattered in manufacturing, particularly in apparel and textile industries, as well as in trucking, among school bus drivers, in water transportation services and in education. Hiring in manufacturing has been lower than a year ago for 22 consecutive months, construction for 25 months and local government for 31 months.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate fell from 7.5 percent in June to 7.1 percent in July. Estimated employment increased by 18,002 persons and unemployment decreased by 2,827 persons, Baltimore City's unemployment rate dropped from 8.9 percent in June to 8.2 percent in July. Harford County was the only county statewide where the unemployment rate changed by at least a full percentage point from June. Its rate advanced from 6.8 percent to 7.6 percent, primarily because of unpaid vacations in manufacturing.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the unemployment rate declined from 4.2 percent in June to 3.9 percent in July. Employment increased by an estimated 7,189 persons and unemployment fell by 1,794.

Western Maryland's unemployment rate remained at its June level of 10.5 percent. Employment increased by an estimated 1,976 persons and unemployment increased by 136. There were continued seasonal layoffs in public education.

On the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland, the rates were diverse with increases in five counties and decreases in six.

Statewide, the July unemployment rates ranged from 3.3 percent in Montgomery County to 14.9 percent in Somerset County.

He also said that he never checks with the Board of Election Supervisors to see if a person with an opinion or suggestion is a registered voter before considering his ideas.

Lake Management Plan

Gary Yoder, Deep Creek Lake manager, presented several items of information concerning lake management, informing the group that his department is in the process of preparing, "at governmental breakneck speed," lake management regulations which should be in the hands of the public for review by the end of October.

The regulations will address such issues as number of boats, boat length, power ratio, dock configuration and location, noise levels, channel markers and buoys, and speed limits, and property owners were assured they will have ample opportunity for input before the regulations are adopted by DNR.

Yoder noted the Penelec license was recently amended to allow certain decisions without going to the Federal Regulatory Commission, which will permit the local officials to make more decisions, particularly in the area of shore erosion control, than they could in the past.

Boating safety was also a concern expressed by several property owners in the light of numerous accidents on the lake this season, and it was suggested that boating laws be mailed out with dock permits and be posted by commercial boating establishments so the public can be informed.

Sgt. Buckley of the DNR police was also present for the meeting.

Directors Reelected

Board of directors members reelected were Sue Spence, district one; John Gooding and Jesse Miller, district two; Robert Squibb and Carl Rebele, district three; and William Foster, at large.

Campus Parties Ordered To Stifle Noise, Rowdiness

FROSTBURG, MD. (UPI)—Local Police have decided to stop ignoring rowdy campus parties at Frostburg State College and start handing out citations to over-enthusiastic partiers.

Police Commissioner Robert Connor, Tuesday, told the Frostburg City Council that his officers have begun a campaign to stop unruly activities at the 3,600-student school.

Connor said 23 citations have already been doled out to students hosting noisy house parties, another nine citations were issued for urinating in public.

The commissioner said that Frostburg State students have been treated leniently for rowdiness in the past and problems have continued. He said the move is designed to make the community "more liveable" for the year-round residents.

Mountain Lake Park

by Margo Vandiver, Council Member

Trick or Treat! At a recent town meeting a proposal was made that a Halloween party for the town's children be held instead of door-to-door trick or treating. The mayor and council agree that the idea has merit, however, there is no provision in the town's budget to pay for a party.

A suggestion was made that if residents are in favor of this approach they might donate the money that normally was spent on Halloween treats for the town party.

If so, the children will bob for apples with their friends and still go home with plenty of treats. Parents won't have to worry about their whereabouts or safety AND we grown-ups won't have to stay home to answer the door all evening!

Let me hear your views, and if you would like to send a donation in support of the party, please address it to the town hall. Mark it for the "Halloween Party" and be sure to give your address and name, so if the donations aren't sufficient it can be returned. Police Probe Various Incidents

An Ohio man, Nathan Wayne Steinrich, 21, of Willoughby, Ohio, was released on bond after being involved in a police chase Friday morning at 3:30 a.m.

Tfc. Chester Miller reported that Steinrich was allegedly found to be driving 92 miles per hour in a 40 mph zone. When the officer pursued the driver, several other traffic violations allegedly occurred.

Steinrich was charged with speeding, failure to keep right of center, reckless driving, and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

An escapee from a Michigan prison was apprehended in Garrett County by State Police on Thursday and was being held without bond pending an appearance before a judge.

Delmar Joseph Wall, 28, who was living in Westernport, was apprehended near a Green Glade Road camp. He was being held in the Michigan prison on a charge of burglary.

He did not resist arrest, according to Tfc. Gary Berkebile and Cpl. E.D. Selby.

Wall refused to waive extradition, and is being held in the Garrett County Jail.

A state trooper and deputy sheriff were investigating a reported abandoned vehicle parked on Garrett Road near Route 560 shortly after midnight Wednesday when Curtis D. Keller, 24, Mt. Lake Park, allegedly attempted to strike Tfc. L.T. Tracy. Keller was found asleep in the vehicle, and had to be subdued by Tracy and Deputy Paul Pratt.

He was charged with assault and battery.

CHECKING THE ROSTER while members of the Southern High School football team go through calisthenics are the members of the Rams' coaching staff for the 1983 season. They are, left to right, Tom Woods, head coach; and assistant coaches Jim Bosley, Fred Gregg, Mike Green, and Dave Bosley. The Rams, expected to be one of the area's top teams, will open their season this Friday at Pocahontas County, W. Va.

GOING OVER THE FUNDAMENTALS with the Northern High School football team is the coaching staff of the Huskies during a recent practice. The Huskies lost a number of seniors from last season's Class C Region I championship team, but hope to gain success this year with a solid nucleus of returnees, good size on the line and a host of new young players. Coaches in the photo, left to right, are Harv Speicher, Joe McKenzie, and head coach, Jack Settle. Also assisting with the Huskies is jayvee coach, Elmer Smith.

Laden With Experience

Excellent Season Expected For Rams As 15 Starters From '82 Return

After labeling last season "a disappointment," Southern High School head football coach Tom Woods is hoping to improve on the 5-5 finish of 1982 and with 15 returning starters, nine of defense and six on offense, there seems to be little doubt that the Rams will do so. The Rams have been picked as the number three team in the area by one pre-season poll.

"We started last season expecting to have a mediocre year," Woods said. "But after the first few games, we thought we could have an excellent season. Then with back-to-back losses to Central Preston, Musselman and Keyser, we lost our chances for a playoff spot and we never really recovered. We had to play on pride alone and hoped to salvage our season by defeating Northern, but even after leading 10-0, we lost that game. The silver lining to the season, though, was that we played a lot of younger kids."

Many of those "younger kids" are now veterans and the coaching staff is expecting great things from, them particularly on defense. Woods is among the many coaches who believe that a team wins and loses according to the quality of play of the defense.

The entire Ram defensive line is composed of returning lettermen with Danny Clark, a 5-10, 178-pound senior at nose guard; Scott Germain, 6-5, 277 pounds, and Clark Reams, 6-1, 202 pounds, both seniors, at the tackle positions; Jeff Beeman, 5-10, 170-pound senior, and Chris Foley, 5-9, 160-pound senior, at defensive ends. Jay Marple, a transfer student from Florida, 5-11, 220 pounds, will also see considerable action on the line.

Returners Tim Tharp, 5-9, 192-pound senior, and Dave Terrant, 5-11, 178-pound senior, will anchor the linebacker positions, with Scott Colaw, 6-2, 188-pound junior expected to substitute regularly.

Jim Freeman, 6-0, 170-pound senior, will return at the strong corner position. Free safety starter will be J.R. Gibson, 6-0, 170-pound junior, also returning, and the weak corner will be filled by Dave McLaughlin, 5-10, 168-pound junior. Troy Lundquist, a 5-9, 155-pound senior will play the rover position. Also expected to see action in the defensive backfield will be Steve Bennett, 5-9, 145-pound junior, and Alan Sharpless, 5-9, 155-pound junior.

The Rams' offensive unit is almost as solid as the defensive squad and will no doubt put an abudance of points on the scoreboard.

J.R. Gibson, who Woods said is one of the finest all around athletes he has ever coached, returns as the Rams' single caller. Tim Tharp returns as starting fullback, Terrant will fill the tailback position and McLaughlin will start at slot.

The returning center is John Thayer, a 6-2, 230-pound senior. Starting at guard will be Scott O'Neill, 6-1, 188-pound junior, strong side, and Anthony Andrews, 5-10, 175-pound junior, weak side. Danny Clark and Chris Foley are also expected to see action at the guard positions.

The strong side tackle starting position is still a toss-up between Scott Colaw and Mark Younkin, a 6-2, 240-pound senior. Clark Reams, 6-1, 202-pound senior, will fill the weak side tackle spot.

Starting at tight end will be Jim Freeman, with Mike Hill, 6-0, 185-pound junior, expected to come in on a regular basis. Steve Bennett will start at split end.

Place kicking will be handled by Gibson,who has been "extremely impressive" in field goal kicking practice, according to Woods. Punting chores will fall on Gibson and Bennett.

Woods expects a close, tough race in the Region I Class C race this year. "It's the first time since I have been at Southern that we have to totally prepare for each and every team on the schedule," he said. "A number of good teams could end up with only a .500 record this year because of the competition. There will probably be more close, exciting games for the fans this year."

Woods believes that he will know what kind of season the Rams will have after the first four games. Southern opens Friday as the favorite against Pocahontas County, but then faces Central Preston, Musselman and Keyser, three teams which defeated the Rams last year and should field strong teams again this season.

Woods will oppose a former college classmate and fraternity brother, Mike Smith, this Friday at Pocahontas. Smith, who is PC's new coach this season, brings with him a wealth of experience, having coached seven years at Western Michigan College and West Virginia State College.

Pocahontas County lost its first game of the season Friday to Nicholas County, 26-10, and will hope to avenge its 39-0 loss to Southern last year in Oakland. Woods says Pocahontas has a "very much improved" defense and a power-oriented offense. "I also have a lot of respect for Mike Smith," he said. "and I don't expect an easy contest."

Pocahontas is led by 6-1, 190-pound senior tailback, Tim Arbogast; 6-6, 190-pound tight end/defense end Mark McCartney; and Mike Liptak, 5-9, 140-pound speedster flanker.

Fans planning to travel to Pocahontas Friday night and in need of directions should follow U.S. Rt. 219 south through Elkins, W. Va., to Sutton and take Rt. 250 to Bartow, W. Va., pick up Rt. 28 to Dunmore, look for the signs that indicate Pocahontas High School and Seneca State Forest and take this county road approximately four miles through the state forest. The field is located approximately two miles past the state forest right along the roadway.

Once again reflecting on the upcoming season, Woods said that the Region I Class C race is "wide open."

"The health of our players and the number of breaks and mistakes will have a lot to do with the success of our season," he said.

Lose 13 Seniors

Huskies Face Rebuilding Year, But Settle Says Team Will Be "Competitve"

Although 13 members of the 1982 Northern High School football team, which won the Region I Class C championship, were lost to graduation, Husky coach Jack Settle is pleased with his team's pre-season workouts and scrimmages and believes the Huskies will be "competitive" in every game this year.

Settle stated that this would have to be considered a rebuilding year for the Huskies, however, he has found great enthusiasm in his ten returning lettermen and is counting on them to help build the confidence of some of the younger players as the season progresses. "The kids have worked hard and we're anxious to get underway," he said.

Gone from the Huskies' backfield is running back Rob Carr, who shattered a number of school rushing and scoring records. Also gone is quarterback Scott Graham, who led the 1982 team to a 9-1 regular season record. The Huskies finished 9-2 overall, losing to Mt. Hebron in the State Class C semi-final contest.

The new signal caller for the Huskies will be 5-10, 150-pound Steve Zumpano, a junior, who has progressed well during practice, according to Settle. Zumpano served as backup to Graham last season and saw only limited action.

Returning to the backfield will be wingback Roy Miller, a 5-9, 150-pound senior. Other returnees filling the fullback and tailback spots, respectively, will be Jeff Graham, a 5-10, 160-pound senior, and Greg Diehl, 5-11, 175-pound senior. Also expected to see considerable action in the backfield are Howard Finzel, 5-8, 144-pound junior; Charlie Beiler, 5-8, 145-pound junior; and Bill Murray, 5-10, 171-pound junior.

Northern's linemen, both offensive and defensive, were among the largest in the area last year and will continue to be of good size this year.

Returning at center is Dave George, a 5-10, 200-pound senior. Also expected to snap the ball is George Walker, a 6-0, 228-pound junior.

Returning at one guard position is Phil Carr, 5-9, 165-pound senior. Bill Friend, 6-2, 195-pound sophomore is expected to start at the other guard spot, however, junior Jeff McClintock, 5-8, 178 pounds, is making a strong showing for that position. Junior Paul Everly, 5-11, 170 pounds, is expected to see action at guard.

Returnees Jim Swauger, 5-9, 225-pound senior, and Bill Laird, 5-11, 220-pound senior, will start at the tackle positions, with Kevin McKenzie, 6-2, 190-pound senior, and Jeff Green, 6-2, 204-pound junior as backups.

Winning the starting nod at tight end is returning junior letterman, Jeff Eggleston, 5-9, 170-pounds. Wide receiver chores will be split between Kevin Sines, a 5-9, 175-pound sophomore, and Randy Kamp, 5-11, 148-pound junior.

Because depth at most positions is at a premium this year for Settle and the Huskies, many players will be going both ways, at least in the early part of the season.

Defensive tackle positions will be filled by Laird and Walker, with Dave George and Ron Stark, 5-11, 172, as backups. Bill Friend and Eggleston will start at defensive end, while Kevin McKenzie and Jeff Glot-

Laker Volleyball Gets Underway, First Game Set For September 17

The Garrett Community College Laker Volleyball Team began pre-season practice last week in preparation for the 1983 season, according to Michael L. Friend, coach.

The Laker team hopes to improve upon last year's 16-11 record and earn a trip to the Regional Tournament. This year's program will feature a 27-match schedule, including such opponents as Carnegie-Mellon University and Alderson-Broaddus College, as well as a full slate of conference play against other community colleges.

Friend, who begins his fifth season with the GCC volleyball program, said the greatest problem facing the team now is the setting position. "We've got to have floor leadership from the setting position as well as the skill to get the ball to our hitters," he said. "I think hitting will be our strong point this year if we resolve the setting dilemma."

Sophomore Susan Harper of Charleston, W.Va., will be the key hitter early in the season and sophomores Kathy Baker and Mary Daugherty, along with Gwen McBee, a freshman from Southern High School, will vie for the setting spots, Friend said.

Key recruits for this year's team are Sue Snyder of Southern High School, Christy Fratz of Northern High School, and Karen Holyfield of Clarksburg. According to Friend, "These young women give us one of the best freshman hitting line-ups we've ever had."

Lani Dailey, technically not a recruit, but an early college admissions student from Northern High School, also figures highy in the Laker plans for 1983. "Lani has the hustle and defensive skill to really spark our defense this year," Friend said. Marie Kline, another Northern High graduate, is a candidate for a hitter or blocker position.

The team will be captained by Harper while Baker and Daugherty will be a steadying influence on the young team especially during the early part of the season. "All in all, Sue Harper has to lead our offensive attack while Kathy Baker and Mary Daugherty pass, dig and set for us until the freshmen have time to reach their full potential," Friend concluded.

The Lakers open their season Saturday, September 17, at 2 p.m., against Frostburg State College on the Lakers' home court.

National Hunting, Fishing Poster Contest Noted

The first Garrett County Hunting and Fishing Day Exposition will be held on September 24 at Garrett Community College. In conjunction with this event, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and Garrett Community College will sponsor a National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest.

The theme for the 1983 contest is "Sportsmen and Conservation: Building a Future for Wildlife". Winning entries in the local contest will be submitted to the National Hunting and Fishing Day Headquarters at Riverside, Connecticut, and will be eligible for national grand prizes which include a first place award of a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond.

Rules for the contest are as follows:

1. Posters must illustrate the theme "Sportsmen and Conservation: Building a Future for Wildlife."

2. Posters should be no larger than standard poster size, 22"x28".

3. Posters may be done in pencil, crayon, paint, ink, etc. There are no limitations on colors.

4. Each entry must be accompanied by an information sheet stating: artist's full name, home address, phone number, grade, name and address of school, sponsor's name, address and phone number. This information sheet should be affixed securely to the lower right hand corner on the back of the poster. Posters without this information will be disqualified.

5. All posters must be based on the student's original idea.

6. All posters submitted for national judging become the property of NHF Day Headquarters and will not be returned.

So that youngsters will not have to compete against much older students, there will be two classes of competition, each with identical prizes. There will be a Junior Class for grades 5-8 and a Senior Class for grades 9-12. First place prizes will be awarded in both classes of competition. Prizes will consist of $50.00 U.S. Savings Bonds donated by Garrett National Bank felty, 5-8, 140-pound junior, will play in reserve.

Starting linebacker positions will be filled by Swauger, McClintock and, on occasion Eggleston. The defensive backfield will be composed of Miller, Murray, Diehl and Kamp.

Kicking specialist for the Huskies will again be Dave George, who holds a 23-for-27 extra point career record and booted a school-record 43-yard field goal last year against Valley. His toe was also responsible for the 3-0 defeat of Berkeley Springs last season. Punting will be handled by Roy Miller.

The Huskies open their campaign this Friday at 7:30 p.m. at home against a much improved Bruce team. Northern's schedule, which has been made tougher during the past few years, is still tougher this year, as the Huskies picked up Frankfort, the number two rated team in the area, which they will face in the second game of the season. Sledding will not become a bit easier the third week when the Huskies travel to powerful Beall.

"The quality of our play in our first three games, whether we win or lose, will have a lot to do with how we will do this season," Settle said. "We simply cannot make many mistakes this year. If we keep them to a minimum and force some mistakes on the teams which are stronger than we are, we might come out a winner. I feel confident that we will at least be competitive in every game."

Settle is expecting a fierce attack from Bruce this Friday, a team which the Huskies whipped two years ago, 6-0, and last year, 7-0. "Although the Bulldogs' record was not impressive last year, they lost a number of games by only a few points," Settle said. "They have a good coach in Tom Oglebay, an explosive offensive and ten returning seniors."

Expected to shine for Bruce this season are quarterback Bill Davis, 6-0, 175-pound senior; fullback Tim Ahern, 6-2, 185; halfback Dan McGinnis, 5-11, 170; and speedster Harry Wilhelm, 5-6, 145. Outstanding linemen are T.C. Moran, 6-0, 190-pound senior tackle, and Troy Miller, 5-9, 150-pound center.

"The competition this year in the area should be intense and extremely close," Settle concluded. "There are a number of evenly matched teams, especially in Class C."

Mt. Top Youth League Results

Browns Squeeze Steelers, 13-7

In a game riddled by penalties, the Parsons Browns defeated the Northern Steelers, 13-7, at the Tucker County Stadium for their first win of the 1983 campaign.

The Steelers drew first blood on a one-yard run by Eddie Tabor at the 2:09 mark of the first quarter. Duane Campbell rambled three yards for the conversion to give Northern a 7-0 lead.

Shane Maddox put the Browns first score on the board with 3:24 to go in the half on a three-yard bolt.

Maddox also scored the Browns second T.D. on a one-yard run in the closing second of the half. The conversion was good, to give Parsons their first win in 1983.

Stanley Burow, Duane Campbell, and Eddie Tabor led the Steeler defense. Tabor had a pass interception.

"Chopper" Evans, Kevin Hebb, and Pete Collar led the Browns' defense.

The Browns will be at Southern this Sunday, Sept. 11, to face the Oakland Jets at 1:30.

Raiders Bomb Dolphins, 25-6

The Oakland Raiders notched their second victory of the early 1983 Mountain Top Youth Football season Saturday night at Southern High School with a 25-6 victory over the Terra Alta Dolphins.

The Dolphins came out strong with a 64-yard touchdown gallop by Jimmy Freeland on their first possession at the 7:18 mark of the first quarter. The conversion attempt failed.

The Raiders bounced right back with a 15-yard burst by Brent Sanders at the 4:56 mark of the first quarter. The point-after attempt was no good.

Zack Gibson banged in with a minute to go in the first quarter to put the Raiders on top for good.

With 28 seconds to go in the third quarter, Gibson hit Jamie Colaw on a 52-yard touchdown bomb. Chris Helbig's run for the conversion gave the Raiders a 19-6 lead.

Sanders got his second T.D. on a 43-yard score at the 3:50 mark of the fourth to close out the scoring.

Jim Farris and Freeland led the Dolphins on defense. The Preston County team will be idle next weekend.

Brent Sanders, Bobby Horvack, Mike Horvack, and Feo Polce led the Black and Silver defensive charge. The Raiders play this Sunday, Sept. 11, at Southern when they host the Parsons Vikings.

Oakland Jets Edge Rams, 6-0

The Thomas-Davis Rams and the Oakland Jets clashed Saturday night at Southern High School in a tough defensive struggle, with the Jets emerging 6-0 victors to post their second victory of the 1983 season.

The Jets lone score came on a two-yard run by J.R. Bosley at the 6:25 point of the fourth quarter.

Jim Drenning, Rob Bush, and Carmen DelSignore, who recovered a fumble, all aided the Rams' defense.

For the Jets Marty Sharpless led in tackles, with Billy Martin and Jack McCauley also leading the defense. Shaun Eylere had a fumble recovery, Scott Browning a pass interception, and Mike Inglese, two pass interceptions for the Green and White.

The Rams invade Northern next Sunday at 1:30 to test the Steelers, while the Jets host the Parsons Browns at 1:30 at Southern.

PLACE IN REGIONAL SWIM MEET — Members of the Manta Rays, a Garrett County swim team, placed in the 18th Annual Cumberland Area Summer Swim Meet held recently at the Frostburg State College pool. Champions in their divisions were Shawn Reed and Heather Savage, back row, left to right, respectively. Runners-up in their division were front row, left to right, Dawn Scheffel and Lee Collins. Reed, 15, is the daughter of Keith and Roxanne Reed and is a 10th grade student at Southern High School. She captured two first places and one second place and was named the best swimmer in the senior girls' division. Her two first place wins, which broke previous records, were in the 50-yard freestyle and in the 50-yard butterfly. Savage, 13, daughter of Dr. William G. and Ruta Savage, is a ninth grader at Southern High School. She won three first place awards and received the best swimmer award in the junior girls' division. In winning the 50-yard backstroke, Heather set a new record. Her other first place finishes were in the 50-yard and 100-yard freestyle. Scheffel, 8, is the daughter of George and Dawn Scheffel and is a fourth grader at Dennett Road Elementary School. She won a first, a third and a fifth place to capture the runner-up position in the tyke girls' division. Collins, 5, is the son of George and Madeleine Collins. He won a first and two second places to claim the runner-up award in the mini-tyke boys' division.

DIVISION B WINNER in the recent P. Brandon Frantz benefit softball tournament, sponsored by the Mt. Top Softball League, was Buddy's, a member of which is Brandon's father, Paul, pictured center. The team received a clock which was then given to Brandon, also pictured. The young boy is recovering from a bullet wound of the head which occurred in a freak shooting incident last month. Proceeds from the tournament went to the Frantz family to help defray medical and transportation costs. Below is the second place Division B team, Addison Farm Equipment. Twenty-nine teams, with players from as far away as Florida and Colorado, participated in the event.

Progress Noted At Southern's Athletic Field

The Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday gave a progress report on work at the Southern High School athletic field site, on grounds behind the school, which they indicated really took shape over the Labor Day weekend.

Garrett County Roads Department crews, under contract with the county Board of Education, completed rough grading of the site, making it ready for installation of a drainage system.

James Lupis, county schools assistant superintendent of administration, said this morning bids will be opened this afternoon for installation of a 400-meter asphalt track and for drainage.

When the site is completed, it will include the track, two softball fields, a baseball field and a parking lot on the lower level, and a double tennis court and an all-purpose court on the upper level.

The commissioners praised the county crew which this past weekend did the grading work on the lower level of the site to within one inch of the engineers' specifications.

Even though they worked over a holiday weekend, the workers did not want holiday pay for their work. Instead, they worked on a regular-time pay basis.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg pointed out that the recent equipment purchases for the county roads department enabled that department to do the work at a much lower cost than if the job would have been contracted to a private business.

They noted bids for the grading work came in well above the total amount the Board of Education had available for the project. Because of this, the county agreed to do the work.

The project is primarily funded with Program Open Space funds.

Sixth Annual Golf For Heart Tourney Slated

According to Charles Kitzmiller, chairman of the sixth annual "Golf for Heart" Tournament, interest is "mounting rapidly." To benefit the community programs of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter, the tournament will begin at 1 p.m. this Saturday, September 10, at the Oakland Country Club. Pimiento Cheese -- For The Lunch Box And Parties

Pimientos and cheese are the main ingredients in one of the most versatile — and delicious — spreads in the entire food universe. Consider that the pimiento cheese sandwich is wholesome and satisfying and has an appeal that lasts from preschool to advanced years. Consider also that pimiento cheese can be the star attraction in the most elegant array of hors d'oeuvres. In addition to the nutritional values in cheese, pimientos are rich in Vitamins A and C, high in vegetable proteins and, for the calorie counters, one whole pimiento contains only seven calories.

Pimiento cheese is extremely easy to make. Better still, pimiento cheese is a spread that gives you many ways to be creative and to satisfy individual tastes. Here are just a few of the ingredients that can be added to the basic recipe for a change of pace and flavor: onion, sugar or honey, Tabasco, Worcestershire, horseradish, garlic salt.

Pimiento cheese sandwiches also offer a wide range of inventiveness. For the lunch box, spread it generously on the bread of your choice. For a hearty lunch or supper at home, build an open-face masterpiece. Spread pimiento cheese on slices of rye, pumpernickel or some other bread you or your family like. Warm in the oven. Remove and add lettuce, tomato slices and strips of crisp bacon. Serve with soup, or asparagus spears on the side, or both.

Send for a free colorful recipe brochure by writing: Associated Pimiento Canners, Dept. H, Box 73, Griffin, Georgia 30224.

Pimiento Cheese
(basic recipe)

- 1/2 lb. grated cheddar cheese (as mild or sharp as you prefer)
- 1 4-oz. jar whole or diced pimientos
- 1 tablespoon liquid from pimientos
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash of salt
- Mayonnaise or cream to moisten

Mash or chop whole pimientos finely with fork. Combine all ingredients in bowl and mix thoroughly. To vary (above): 1 teaspoon of grated onion, Worcestershire, horseradish or sugar or honey; just a dash or two of Tabasco or garlic salt. When making a party dip, add a bit more mayonnaise for softer consistency. Covered and refrigerated, pimiento cheese will retain full flavor and quality for several days.

GREAT American cooking

Americans have taken a liking to the hamburger since its introduction by an enterprising merchant at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904. Today this sandwich favorite has spread in popularity around the world.

Just what does it take to create the ever popular American version of the hamburger sandwich? Nothing more than ground beef and a bun. However, the sandwich has with time taken on various shapes, forms and/or flavors.

Because of its versatility, the Souperburger can be served and enjoyed by everyone from kids to adults and as the heart of lunch, dinner or a snack.

Souperburger

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 can (10 3/4 ounces) cream of mushroom, golden mushroom or tomato soup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Dash pepper
- Buns, split and toasted

In skillet, brown beef and cook onion in shortening until tender; stir to separate meat. Pour off fat. Add soup and seasonings. Cook 5 minutes; stir occasionally. Serve on buns. Makes about 3 cups.

Americans Invented Light Cakes

Thousands of cakes are right now probably filling kitchens with heavenly aromas. No wonder Americans have a national passion for cakes that are light, luscious and high-rising. You just might even say Americans invented them. Toward the end of the 18th Century, some unknown Colonial baker discovered that a certain fine ash made his cakes lighter than usual.

This substance, actually potassium carbonate, produced carbon dioxide in a batter, causing it to rise. Until then, the only way to make baked goods light was to beat air into the batter or to add yeast or spirits.

Over the next hundred years came the invention of baking soda, baking powder and more accurate ovens. The result? A host of new cakes brightened the American scene. Layer cakes, devil's food cakes and upside-down cakes were the talk of the times.

New expressions, too, found their way into our vocabulary. "That takes the cake" means "that's the ultimate." It originally referred to a cake given as a prize.

Here's a cake that "takes the cake" for mouth watering goodness. Tomato Spice Cake has captured the fancy of several generations of Americans since it appeared in a Campbell Soup recipe book in 1925. Its basic ingredients are still a trio of fragrant spices and its unexpected use of condensed tomato soup as an ingredient.

Full flavor and a rich golden brown color make this a festive addition to buffet tables as well as a welcome gift from your kitchen. Bake it in layers, in a single sheet or in a Bundt pan. Add your own touches from today's wide assortment of nuts, fruits and icings but it will be the same cake your grandmother made for Sunday dinner.

Tomato Spice Cake

- 2 1/4 cups cake flour or 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoons all-spice
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed tomato soup
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup water

Preheat oven to 350°F. Generously grease and flour 2 round layer pans, 8 or 9 inches, or an oblong pan, 13x9x2 inches. Measure dry ingredients into large bowl. Add soup and shortening. Beat at low to medium speed for 2 minutes (300 strokes with a spoon), scraping sides and bottom of bowl constantly. Add eggs and water. Beat 2 minutes more, scraping bowl frequently. Pour into well-greased and lightly floured 2½-quart bundt pan. Bake at 350°F. for 50 to 60 minutes or until done. Cool right side up in pan 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool. If desired, sprinkle cake with confectioners' sugar.

A Tea Prescription

"Stress" is not a new ailment. It's probably been around since the cavemen had to contend with mastodons and mammoths. But only recently has the general public begun to recognize stress as a major cause of illnesses. A number of books have been written recently on the subject. One newly published is "The Stress Food Book" by Margaret C. Dean (Acropolis Books, Ltd., $6.95) which deals with stress prevention through good nutrition.

In the course of her research, Nutritionist Dean interviewed 100 fellow nutritionists and dieticians to ascertain what they did to alleviate stress in their own lives. Almost all agreed that tea, which has been relaxing and refreshing mankind for almost 5,000 years, was a wonderful stress-reliever. Below is an adaption of a recipe for a hot tea drink printed in Miss Dean's book.

Topaz Tea

- 1 quart freshly drawn cold water
- 6 teabags or 6 teaspoons loose tea
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 1/2 teaspoon whole cloves (about 8)
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 3 tablespoons sugar

Bring freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil. Warm teapot by rinsing it out with hot water. Place tea and spices in warmed teapot. Pour boiling water into teapot. Cover and let stand 3 to 5 minutes. Add sugar and stir to dissolve. Strain tea into cups and garnish with clove-studded lemon slices, if desired. Makes 5 teacup-size servings.

Chicken Filled Crepes With Pimiento Sauce

Crepe lovers are among the most enthusiastic practitioners of the culinary arts. There's the ritual of making crepes, and the infinite variety of tastes that can be satisfied in fillings and sauces. This recipe combines popular and economical chicken and the adventurous, tangy flavor of bright red pimientos.

Send for free colorful recipe brochure. Write: Associated Pimiento Canners, Dept. K, P.O. Box 73, Griffin, Georgia 30224.

Crepes:

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sifted plain flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon rosemary seasoning powder
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup water

Place all ingredients in blender (or use electric mixer) and process until all ingredients are thoroughly blended. Let stand 30 minutes at room temperature. Batter should be thin — just thick enough to coat spoon. If too thick add a little milk.

Heat lightly greased 5-6 inch skillet over medium low heat. Use 2 tablespoons batter for each crepe. Tilt pan so batter spreads evenly. Brown delicately on both sides. Keep warm or set aside and reheat in oven. Makes 12 crepes.

Filling:

- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 4 hard cooked eggs, diced
- 1 jar (7 ounce) pimientos or 2 jars (4 ounce)
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 cup chopped green onion
- 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickle or relish
- 1 can (10-3/4 ounce) condensed cream of mushroom soup

Chop pimiento (reserve 2/3 for sauce) and combine with all other ingredients. Spread about 1/4 cup of filling over each crepe and roll. Place seam side down in shallow buttered baking dish.

Sauce:

- 1 can (10-3/4 ounce) cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 cup canned, frozen or fresh cooked green peas
- Remaining pimiento from filling
- 2 hard cooked eggs chopped, optional

Combine ingredients and spoon over crepes. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through. Six servings of 2 crepes each.

Inflatable Boat Business Is Well-Launched

ASSEMBLING BOATS for use on the nation's rivers are Janet Ross and Jolene Dixon, two of the employees at Demaree Inflatable Boats of Friendsville. The two are among the five local people now proficient in the various stages necessary to manufacture boats from a roll of uncured rubber to the finished, inflated product. Work at the factory began in January and Chuck Demaree noted this week that the firm has contracts expected to last through the next seven months or more and the usual season for ordering is still some months away.

DAVE DEMAREE, who envisioned Demaree Inflatables, stands literally and figuratively behind his products, manufactured in the former Friendsville Elementary School. Boats ranging in length from 11 to 36 feet have left the plant destined for hard use on the nation's river tours.

by Carol Canan

If the dream of two county residents comes true, Friendsville should become known world-wide as the home of "the Rolls Royce of the inflatable boats."

That's the dream and ambition of David and Charles "Chuck" Demaree, owners of Demaree Inflatable Boats. The brothers moved to Friendsville a year ago and leased the former elementary school building, and in January began production of their inflatable boats used for river trips.

Their products, of neoprene-coated nylon fabric made to military specifications, have gained them repeat orders, both from local rafting companies in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and western states with river tours such as Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Washington, and Oregon.

Neither man is a stranger to the rubber industry, as Dave worked as a manufacturer's representative with Rubbercrafters of West Virginia, and prior to that was a river tour manager at Ohiopyle, Pa. Chuck worked in the Carolinas as a sales and service representative for AMF and also has worked as production manager for a Fruehauf tire plant.

After obtaining a lease for the school building, the Demarees renovated to accommodate their needs, adding a large room to house their giant "autoclave," which is necessary to cure and form the boats. They are presently using all but two rooms of the school, turning the former gym into the cutting room; equipping the furnace room with a fireproof door and new masonry to contain needed solvents and cements; and converting part of the stage area into cold storage for the rolls of uncured rubber so they won't self-vulcanize.

There is a large office space, and plans are in the making to convert the remaining two classrooms into one large cementing area.

Changes and Growth

During these months of changes, the staff has grown from the two brothers to include five other Friendsville residents, and this month will see the addition of two more individuals. One is formerly from Bruceton Mills and the other is the Demarees' younger brother, Dan, who was recently manager of the world's largest hang gliding school, Kitty Hawk Kites, Nag's Head, N.C.

Dave's wife, Mimi, is the office manager for the business.

The company also employs one commissioned salesman to cover the northwest United States.

Construction Stages

Rolls of rubber are shipped to Friendsville from Reeves Brothers in Buena Vista, Va., in weights from 24 to 60 ounces per square yard. The heavier materials are used for the boats needed to travel some of the tumultuous western rivers.

There are infinite ways to design the boats, and each outfitter is convinced his particular style is the best for his needs. Dave designs to the specifications of each, drawing up the boats as required. Boats range from the smallest, at 11 feet, to 36 feet or any length in between.

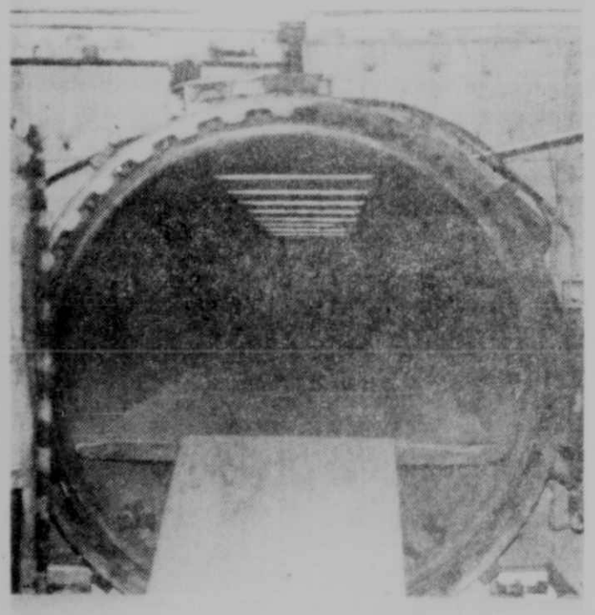
Chuck presides in the cutting room, assisted by Brian Frazee as they work on a 36-foot long table. Pattern pieces are first cut of mylar and assembled to make sure there will be a proper finished product.

Once pieces are cut, work moves to the large area where solvents are used by Don Umbel to clean and etch the rubber. Cement is added, and the pieces are then powdered with a talcum-like substance and stored until joined together by Wilma Friend, Janet Ross, or Jolene Dixon.

Unique to the process devised by the Demarees is the cement used. These contain the same compounds as the coating on the rubber and when the rubber is put in the autoclave for bonding, a crosslink is formed between the molecules in the cement and the molecules in the rubber. This cohesive bonding method is used by only one other manufacturer of rubber boats—all others use the adhesive cement for bonding.

When pieces are ready for assembly, solvent is used to wipe away the powder and retack the cement. Joining includes sealing edges with gum tape and placing bulkheads to separate the chambers of air. These separate chambers provide added safety since if one chamber is punctured, the others will retain air.

Once all joining is done, the huge autoclave is brought into use. Boats are sprinkled with a "secret" curing powder to keep them from sticking to each other or to the floor, and the door is sealed to pressurize the interior. The boats are kept under 80 pounds per square inch of pressure at 300 degrees for approximately four hours.



This "pressure cooker" was found through a want ad in the Akron Beacon-Journal, in the heart of the nation's rubber-working industry. After shipment here and the use of a giant crane for installation, the autoclave was extensively rebuilt and modified by employees of Walter N. Yoder and Sons of Cumberland.

After curing, the boats are stored until shipment via commercial carrier, or via friends who happen to be traveling in the required direction. Often local outfitters pick up their boats.

The firm is concentrating on boats for commercial users, rather than individual boats for amateur river runners. With their eye to future possibilities and constant efforts to improve design and construction, the brothers are now eyeing the possibility of expanding to build military and survival boats (lifeboats).

Both men were high in praise to the town of Friendsville, with which they have a three-year lease with optional five-year renewal, and say they are exceptionally happy with the reception of the local people and businessmen. "We like Garrett County," added Chuck.

With their combination of enthusiasm, quality, and innovation, the brothers hope to go far. Dave is even optimistic enough to hope to educate the public and outfitters to the fact that these are "inflatable boats," not run-of-the-mill rafts.

LOOKING LIKE ANYTHING but an autoclave, this huge "pressure cooker" puts the final touches to the rubber boats manufactured in Friendsville by the Demaree brothers and their employees. Although the company is very frank about its work and the finished product, some facets remain under wraps because of company rivalry and local pride in their finished product.

Policeman Ordered To Stop Jolson Impersonations; Appeals Directive

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A city police officer who was ordered to stop his off-duty blackface impersonations of jazz singer Al Jolson testified Tuesday the act was racially inoffensive.

Patrolman Robert Berger, a decorated 10-year police veteran, is contending in a $10,000 lawsuit against the police department that his superiors violated his First Amendment rights by ordering him not to perform the act at social functions.

Berger testified in U.S. District Court that the act, which he has performed in public since 1979, first encountered opposition in February when volunteer workers from the local NACCP chapter asked him not to do the performance at a Hilton Hotel nightclub.

A spokesman for the NAACP said at the time, "We are customers of the Hilton, both locally and nationally, and we think the hotel should be more sensitive about things that are demeaning to people."

"I told them, 'You have to do what you think is right and I have to do what I think is right. So I'll see you at half-time.'" Berger said of his conversation with the volunteer NAACP workers Feb. 9.

After he changed into his costume — composed of a black tuxedo, white gloves, curly black hair wig and blackface with his lips and eyes highlighted in white — Berger said he was on his way to the stage when a police officer appeared at the door of his elevator, "held out his hand and motioned me to stop."

State Police Confiscate Marijuana

FREDERICK, Md. (UPI) — State police said Tuesday they confiscated 45 marijuana plants in a wooded area north of the Point of Rocks community near U.S. 15.

Authorities at the Frederick barracks said the plants were spotted by a state police crew on a routine helicopter mission.

The plants, which were 10 to 12 feet tall and of the bushy sensemilla type, were confiscated.

Detective Sgt. John Reburn said the garden near a residence was obviously cultivated and a shelter nearby was suitable for drying the plants.

No arrests were made and an investigation continued.

Food Distribution Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The District of Columbia will extend Wednesday hours at two of its food centers for the needy, city officials said Tuesday.

The centers, at 13th and Upshur Streets N.W. and 13th and W Streets S.E., will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. beginning Wednesday, city spokeswoman Kathy Williams said.

The new hours will be on a trial basis for 10 weeks and will be made permanent if needed, Ms. Williams said.

The city's supplemental food centers pgovide non-perishable foods to families with children up to age six, and expectant mothers who meet federal income guidelines, she said.

Pet Monkey Dies "Of Heartbreak"

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (UPI) — Missy the monkey, who became the center of a legal struggle after she bit her owner's father, died at a nwrian's office from a "broken heart," the pet's owner said.

Joanne Kolodnicki said her 13-year-old pet, which had refused to eat in recent days, died Monday of a "broken heart. (She) just gave up. I guess she thought I had abandoned her."

Last month, Miss Kolodnicki went to court to save the spider monkey when the state health department wanted to kill the animal and test it for rabies. Miss Kolodnicki's 69-year-old father, John, said he did not want to receive five rabies shots.

Kolodnicki was bitten on the hand Aug. 6 as he helped his daughter up a steep grade in her backyard. He said Missy apparently thought he was hurting his daughter when he reached for her.

State health officials became involved when Kolodnicki went to a hospital for treatment. All animal bites must be reported to authorities.

The legal squabble over Missy's fate drew to a close last month when Kolodnicki agreed to take the series of shots and the health department agreed to quarantine the monkey for 28 days.

The animal, which was placed in quarantine at an Anne Arundel County animal shelter, became withdrawn and listless, Miss Kolodnicki said. It was determined at the shelter that Missy had never contracted rabies.

Under a court agreement, Missy was returned to Miss Kolodnicki's home where she was to be quarantined until Sept. 16.

Miss Kolodnicki said she took her pet to a veterinarian Monday for intraveneous feedings and injections to combat fever. The monkey died at the veterinarian's office.

Miss Kolodnicki said she was angry at state health department officials who pressed the legal action against her.

Tips on Buying a Turkey

If you choose carefully, your traditional holiday turkey can be more than a great feast. It also can be nutritious and a good buy, says the American Heart Association.

Turkey is an ideal food for most of us, even those on low-calorie diets, because it's relatively low in cholesterol and fat. When a turkey is roasted, much of that fat drains off. The white meat is especially low in fat and calories.

Frozen, plain turkey is usually the most economical and nutritious. In contrast, frozen, self-basting turkeys contain injections of a solution of broth and butter or cooking oil. The basting oil adds calories, and the broth is often high in salt (sodium chloride). Another drawback: the basting fluid makes the turkey weigh more and thus cost more. You must pay for the basting fluid at the same rate as the turkey meat.

If you want a self-basting turkey, avoid the ones injected with oils containing saturated fats, such as those found in butter and palm and coconut oils. Eating saturated fats tends to raise the level of cholesterol in the blood. Choose self-basting turkeys that contain unsaturated vegetable oils such as corn, cottonseed or safflower. Read the label.

You will also want to read the label if you are buying a prestuffed turkey, to find out how much salt and other ingredients are in the stuffing. Never thaw a prestuffed turkey. Put it in the oven still frozen and cook as directed. It will take longer, but it's much safer. Bacteria love a warm, moist environment and will thrive in an uncooked, prestuffed turkey if it is thawed.

With a plain turkey, fresh or frozen, you can control what goes into the basting fluid and the stuffing. You can baste the turkey in its own juices, and thus avoid unnecessary fat, cholesterol and salt.

Turkey leftovers can be made into many delicious dishes, including turkey salad and curried turkey with water chestnuts. Of course, there's nothing better for lunch than a cold turkey sandwich.

When we consider cost per serving, taste, and the good nutrients our friend the turkey provides, it's easy to understand why we invite him to our holiday dinner every year. We should consider eating him year-round.

BG & E Project Stocks Fish In In Bay Tributary

CHASE, Md. (UPI) — Three young rockfish were released Tuesday into tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay as part of a project by Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. to try to replenish supplies of the fish.

BG&E said the project was the first such utility-operated program in Maryland and was the nation's only waste heat aquaculture project devoted to raising striped bass, or rockfish. The project will be stockholder financed, said utility spokeswoman Mary Franz.

"The rockfish population in the bay has been declining in recent years," said Ms. Franz. "The Chesapeake is the source of most rockfish for the entire Eastern seaboard."

"We're a part of the community that we serve and we feel we've got a commitment to the Chesapeake Bay."

The utility hopes to hatch, raise and release up to 1 million of the fish in a year's time from the project laboratory, which is located on the discharge water canal at the Charles P. Crane power plant in eastern Baltimore County.

Utility officials said the slightly warmer temperatures of the water used to cool the plant would be advantageous for the young fish, which are brought in at one-day old and placed in tanks controlled for temperature and water motion.

"At a certain age, we release the fish into the tributaries that feed in the Chesapeake," Ms. Franz said.

LEGAL BRIEFS

Product Liability Law Protects Consumers

By Howard A. Specter
President
Association of Trial Lawyers of America

Each year, thousands of innocent consumers are maimed, disabled or killed by defective products which range all the way from toddlers' toys to industrial equipment and motor vehicles. Some of these tragedies result in product liability lawsuits being filed against the manufacturers of these defective products by victims or their families to recover damages for the harm they suffered.

While the record of American industry is generally excellent it is unfortunate that some manufacturers demonstrate a callous disregard for the consumer. There are examples of manufacturers who have consciously made cost benefit economic decisions that have caused damage to the public. They have weighed the cost of making safer products against the cost of paying for the human misery caused by defective products and have concluded that safety is too expensive. And thus, people have been maimed and killed. In some instances, manufacturers have withheld improved, safer products from the market while selling out stocks of unsafe, dangerous goods.

Howard A. Specter

Even so, some uninformed people complain that there are too many product liability lawsuits, and that the judgments and settlements of these cases are too high. The judgments and settlements often are woefully inadequate to compensate badly injured victims and families for serious injuries. The truth is that victims would gladly return any money received from a lawsuit if it meant the return of a loved one or the ability to earn a living which has been lost due to a defective product.

It is important to provide fair compensation to those who have been injured by another's misconduct or defective products. At the same time, it is critical to strive for the production of safer products. Only in that way can industry reduce the heavy toll which it collects in human suffering. Product liability law and the public's ability to seek compensation help to serve that purpose.

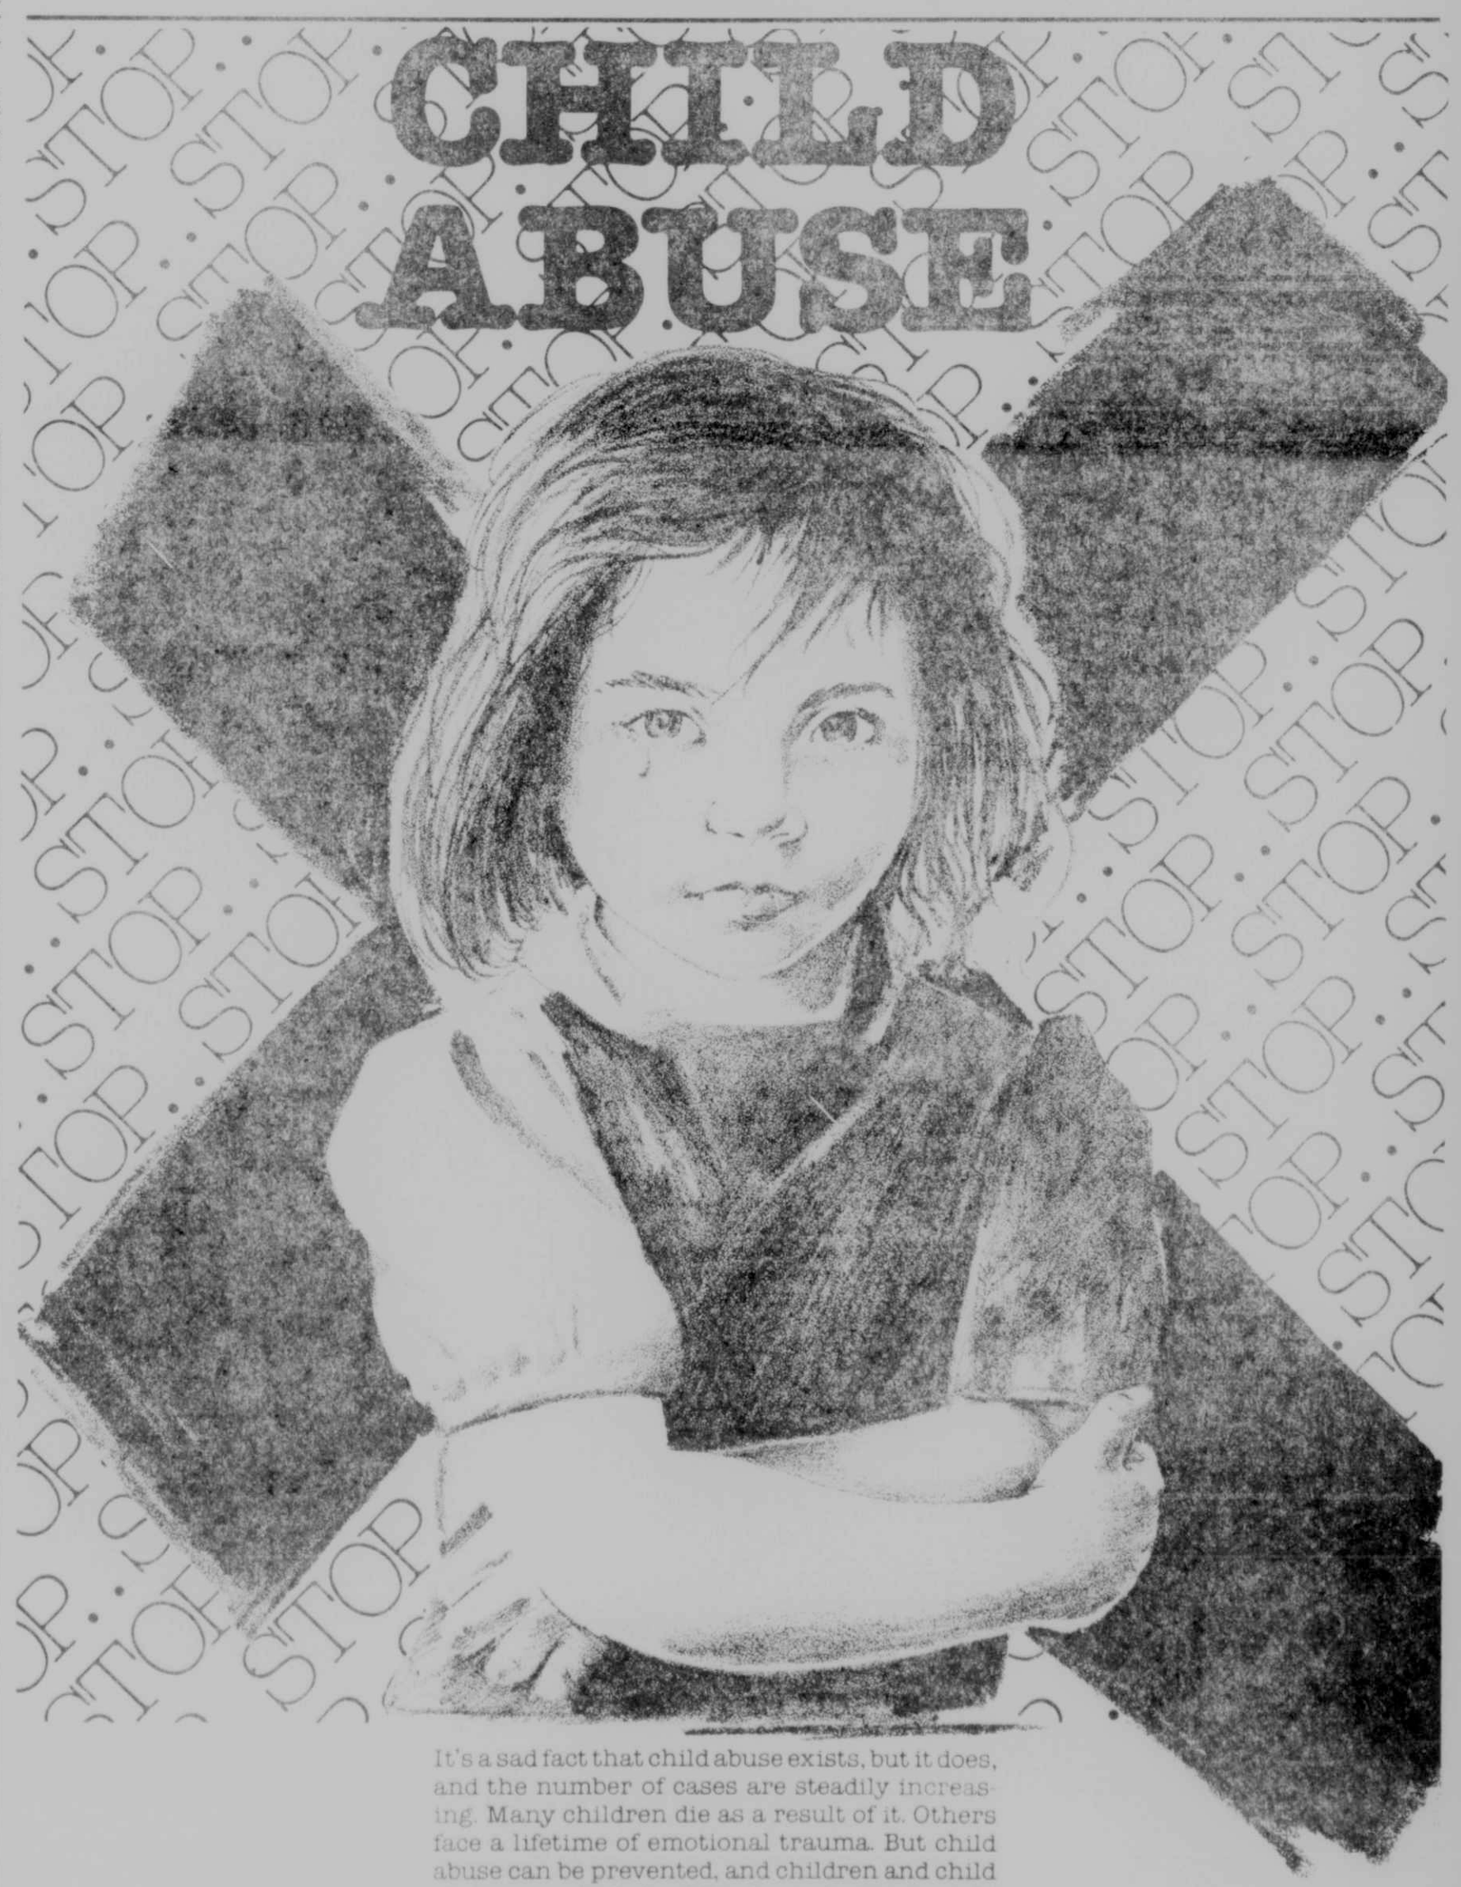
The American legal system has made product safety good business practice, since it is obvious that more time spent on the drawing boards in designing safer products for consumers will result in less time and money spent defending lawsuits in courts.

Trial lawyers favor the end of product liability lawsuits when there are no more innocent victims of defective products and when product liability claims are settled fairly and promptly.

Until then, it is only by strengthening products liability law that we will strengthen the likelihood of good product performance for this nation's consumers.

We helped the Torturos when fire destroyed their home. Who can you turn to?

The Torturos weren't covered by any insurance. Red Cross found them a place to stay. We gave them food, warm jackets and winter boots.



Most people think it takes a major disaster like a flood, a hurricane or an earthquake for the Red Cross to respond. But Michael and Phyllis Torturo know differently. Their Red Cross disaster relief didn't stop with just food, clothing and shelter. We helped them re-establish their source of income.

Then showed them how to use those funds to obtain a trailer home for their family.

What if the next fire in town destroys your home? Who can you count on to lend a helping hand? You can count on us.

We'll Help. Will You?

Peggy Stemple, Bryant Cramer Wed In Double-Ring Ceremony

Peggy Louise Stemple and Bryant Ernest Cramer, both of South Charleston, W. Va., exchanged marriage vows in a double-ring ceremony on Saturday, August 6, in the Amboy United Methodist Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mr. Dale Stemple of Aurora. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Cramer of South Charleston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Moon.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents.

She wore a gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves. The bodice of the dress, which was taffeta silk organza, was adorned with seed pearls and Venise lace. The skirt's flounce flowed into a long chapel train trimmed with matching Venise lace.

Her veil was finger-tip length, edged with lace. The bouquet was a long cascade of white, pink, and lavender silk daisies accented with baby's breath, ivy, and white ribbon streamers. The bride also wore diamond earrings belonging to her aunt, Lola Fike and wore a necklace worn by her mother and maternal grandmother on their wedding days.

The altar was trimmed with ivy garlands and matching daisies.

Sandy Stemple, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The flower girl was Jamie Urban, niece of the groom. The maid of honor wore a full-length gown of lavender and carried a fan bouquet of matching daisies with baby's breath. The flower girl wore a pink gown with a bustle and carried a basket made by Renee Mullenax, cousin of the bride. Attending the guest book was Melinda Urban, niece of the groom.

Scott Cobbs served as best man. Ushers were Robert M. Cramer, brother of the groom, and Steven Nida, cousin of the groom. Pianist for the ceremony was Hazel Durst. All flowers were made by Kathryn Ball.

A buffet reception followed the ceremony at the Aurora Memorial Building. The cake was baked and decorated by Dean Sisler and was served by Blanche Stemple and Jo Ann Pennington, aunts of the bride. The punch and coffee were served by Patricia Urban, sister of the groom, and Joyce Dixon. After a honeymoon trip to Florida, the couple will reside in South Charleston.

The rehersal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held at the Aurora Community Building and served by the Amboy Ladies Aide.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HISSTORY, OURSTORY

September 11, 1983

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 26:5-10; Psalms 105; Acts 7:2-53.

Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 26:5-10.

Belief in God has always had two main sources. Many of us, beholding in wonder and awe the world about us, experience him as the God of creation. At the same time, we may behold him in the fabric of events and phenomena that we call history. This is one of the great contributions which the Hebrew religion has made to the world: the perception that the God of creation is also the Lord of history.

Remember His Works

The Jews had no creeds, no confessions of faith, and few speculations about what God is like. What they had and still have is a conviction that God is and has been perceptively present in the affairs of the world. The Hebrew religion was always much more concerned with what God does than with who God is. In fact, any inquiry into who God is has usually been based upon what God has done in human history.

Thus, the Hebrew call to belief in God usually came as a challenge to remember what God has done. The Psalmist, thus, says: "Remember the wonderful works that he had done, his miracles, and the judgements he uttered" (105:5). And in Deuteronomy the Hebrew's declaration of belief in God is set in the form of a brief recital of God's role in the history of Israel: "A wandering Aramean was my father; and he went down into Egypt and sojourned there, few in number; and there he became a nation...And the Egyptians treated us harshly, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage. Then we cried to the Lord the God of our fathers, and the Lord heard our voice...and brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm..."

The Righteous One

In Christianity's early days, this remembrance of God's mighty works continued to be an important factor in interpreting Christ to the Jews. When Stephen was taken before the Sanhedrin to answer charges of blasphemy, he made his defense with a long recitation of God's acts, beginning, as was customary, with "our father Abraham." What enraged those who listened to him and brought about his violent death was not his remembrance of God's mighty acts, but his conviction that Jesus of Nazareth was the fulfillment of God's plan and purpose. Just as the Sanhedrin's forefathers resisted God's plan, so now were they, said Stephen: "And they killed those who announced beforehand the coming of the Righteous One, whom you have betrayed and murdered..."

Thus, it is not enough to see God at work in human history. We need also to see him at work in our own personal story. If we look closely at our own lives, we must be able to discern his presence in those events which are personal. Along with our contemplation of who God is, we need to have a remembrance of what God has done in our lives as well as in the broad scope of history. In Jesus Christ, we must learn to see his plan and purpose --his story/history--as our story too.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

George M. Tusing, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney R. Tusing of Oakland, was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Commander with the U.S. Navy on July 20.

Tusing is currently serving as Supply Officer aboard the USS Kirk (FF-1087), with Yokosuka, Japan, as the home port.

His wife, the former Diane Kratz of Charles Town, W. Va., is a teacher at the Yokosuka Co-op Pre-School.

The Tusing's have a 16-month-old daughter, Jessica Rose.

Alc. Mark A. Grimm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Grimm, Mt. Lake Park, is now stationed at a U.S. Air Force base in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

Grimm enlisted in the Air Force in August 1981. He has received specialized training in the telecommunications field. He was previously stationed at the Norad Base at Cheyenne Mountain, Colorado.

He is a graduate of Telecommunications Systems Specialist Technical Training School, Keesler A.F.B., Mississippi.

Grimm is a 1981 graduate of Southern High School, where he was a member of the wrestling team.

Comptroller Keeps Check On Quality Of State Fuel

"As Maryland motorists pull up to gasoline pumps throughout the state to fill up for end of summer travel, they can be sure they are getting the quality fuel they are paying for," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently.

"The motor fuel inspection program operated by our office is a tremendously successful consumer protection measure," Goldstein said. "The oil companies are aware of our activity and fuel quality in Maryland has improved."

Motor Fuel Inspectors from the State Comptroller's Office take samples of gasoline and other fuels from all levels of the supply chain. The samples are tested at the office's Petroleum Testing Laboratory near Jessup to assure that the product meets standards for octane and a host of other important qualities.

"For Fiscal Year 1983 (July, 1982-June, 1983) our inspectors took samples representing 1.2 billion gallons of all grades of gasoline. Only 11.1 million gallons, or about nine-tenths of one percent failed to meet any of the quality standards. That's a fraction of the failure rate in the early years of our testing program," Goldstein explained.

During Fiscal Year 1975, the first full year the State Comptroller's Office had its own laboratory in operation, 35.5 million gallons of gasoline, or 9.5% of the 370.8 million gallons sampled, failed at least one quality test.

Nearly one-half of the 328 violations detected were for gasoline that failed to meet posted octane, with the second largest category of violations being higher than allowable lead content. Quality tests are also routinely performed on diesel fuel, heating oil and kerosene.

During Fiscal Year 1983, inspectors sampled 152 million gallons of diesel fuel, of which only 93,324 gallons failed quality tests. A total of 475.9 million gallons of home heating oil were sampled, with only 3.5 million gallons determined to be substandard. Of the 101.4 million gallons of kerosene sampled, 1.1 million gallons did not meet quality specifications. Petroleum products that are found to be substandard are removed from the marketplace and are only permitted to be sold after deficiencies have been corrected.

Auto Maintenance Course Scheduled

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College will hold the first of nine fall workshops entitled "Powder Puff Maintenance" on Wednesday, September 14, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College beginning in Room 306. Participants are asked to park their cars in the side parking lot of the college.

Terry Basgall, service manager of Shaffer Ford, will be conducting this workshop designed to teach participants how to care for their cars. A large portion of the workshop will be devoted to hands-on experience changing tires, checking motor and transmission oils, using battery jumper cables, buying auto parts, and handling emergency maintenance.

Persons participating in this free training workshop are asked to bring their own cars and to dress accordingly.

All interested persons are invited to attend. To register, or for further information, they may call 334-9184.

"LOOK UP, AMERICA," a multi-media program, will be presented this Saturday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m., at Mt. Lake Park Camp Meeting Grounds, G Street, Mt. Lake Park. This hour-long dramatic portrayal of American heritage is being presented by the LBC Singers, a group of young people from Liberty Baptist College of Lynchburg, Va. The program includes special lighting effects, 12 computerized projectors, and three screens, with over 1500 visuals synchronized to the dramatization and music. These young people are taking a year out of their college education to travel from coast to coast to participate in the program. The host pastor, Rev. Randy Paugh, invites the public to attend. Admission is free.

State's Child Support Payment System Working

Some $900,000 in child support payments have been collected over the past fiscal year through deductions made from benefits paid to Unemployment Insurance claimants, according to officials at the Child Support Enforcement Administration of the State Department of Human Resources.

In another effort made by the State to provide for dependent children, and to minimize child support payment arrearages, the Child Support Enforcement Administration and the Employment Security Administration of the Department of Human Resources have been working together to enable recipients of unemployment insurance benefits to continue meeting their child support obligations. The Maryland effort has resulted in the third highest collection rate among all the states.

Through this arrangement, applicants filing for unemployment insurance benefits are asked if they are required to make court-ordered payments through a local child support enforcement agency. If so, applicants can agree to have a minimum of $5.00 deducted from their weekly unemployment insurance benefits for child support. The average deduction is $26.00 per week.

According to the agreement, child support payment deductions will continue throughout the duration of the claimants benefit year. A new agreement for payment deductions must be obtained when the claimant enters a new benefit year claim period (every 12 months).

"You should have called me sooner."

If an applicant does not agree to any deductions, the local child support enforcement agency may obtain a court order to place a lien against those unemployment insurance benefits.

Ann Helton, Executive Director of the Child Support Enforcement Administration stated that, "We are pleased with the success of this program after only one year and we are hoping to establish a lien-phase for the program within the year. Through this activity the State and federal income tax intercept programs, and other regular collection activities, many families do not have to rely on public assistance programs, such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), for subsistence. Therefore, we are able to save the State many tax dollars while ensuring the well-being of thousands of children. This is also one of the most cost-effective collection efforts in the Child Support Administration."

Reflecting the increasing national concern over the problem of non-payment of court-ordered child support, August has been designated as National Child Support Enforcement month by a Joint Resolution of the Congress.

The class will be taught by Jeanne Matras, fomerly a member of the East Coast Dance Company and the Kacamon Ballet Company. UU Fellowship To Meet At FSC

The Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Greater Cumberland announced this week that it will conduct services twice each month at The Osborne Center, Loop Road, Frostburg State College Campus. The first will be held at 10:45 a.m. on September 11, when Ms. Linda Stroh, former director of Religious Education at the Hagerstown Unitarian Church, will speak on the philosophy and goals of Unitarian religious education.

A spokesman for the church noted that the Frostburg location will provide more accessible fellowship for Garrett County residents than UU churches located in Hagerstown and Morgantown.

Regular meetings are planned for the second and fourth Sundays of each month at The Osborne Center. Programs for children will be available.

The spokesman said that the basic principle of the Unitarian Universalist Church is freedom of belief with no credal or doctrinal barriers. It has often been called the "thinking person's religion" because of members' concern that there be no fundamental conflict between faith and knowledge, religion and the world, or between the sacred and the secular.

For more information persons may contact Carla or George Feldhamer at 729-3612 or Tom Hawk at 689-9687.

TAKE AIM ON SPEEDERS — State Troopers will be using this visual speedometer radar check as a reminder to motorists to obey the 55 mile per hour speed limit. Several of these visual display units will be used in the expanded 55 mile per hour enforcement program announced by State Police. (State Police Photo by Hoyt Jones)

Police Launch Three-Month Program To Crack Down On Excessive Speed

Speeds are up on Maryland's 900 miles of 55-mile-per-hour roadway and beginning August 31, the State Police have launched a three-pronged program to reduce the number of serious injuries and deaths in speed related accidents.

Colonel W. T. Travers, Jr., State Police Superintendent, is concerned that vehicle speeds have gone up and is sending a stern warning to those motorists who continue to exceed posted speed limits. Travers pointed out that conscientious drivers are frustrated when other motorists speed past them.

During the past year speeds have begun to creep up, until now the average speed on 55 mph roads is 60.5 miles per hour based on surveys conducted by the State Highway Administration.

Statistics compiled by the State Police Field Operations Bureau indicate that the number of citations issued for violations of the 55 mph speed limit have risen steadily over the years. But, the number of serious injury and fatal accidents has also increased on 55 mile per hour highways.

Roads targeted for the enforcement program include I-70, I-83, I-95, I-270, U.S. Route 50 and Maryland Route 4.

The new program includes a visual radar speedometer check. The radar's visual display will be mounted on the rear of a pickup truck on target roads and motorists can check their speedometer with the radar display. This device will be used to remind motorists to voluntarily comply with the posted speed limit.

The second segment of the program involves an expansion of the current Aerial Speed Enforcement Program that uses a Cessna 182 airplane equipped with Vascar. Speeders are tracked from the air and stopped by a ground stop team. To alert motorists of the expanded aerial program, new signs are being posted on the targeted roads.

The final element of the three-pronged program involves using the 13-member Special Traffic Enforcement Unit to saturate problem areas with troopers, in marked and unmarked patrol cars. These patrols will be used in the same way submarine "wolf packs" were used during World War II and will supplement the normal patrols.

Colonel Travers said, "Our aim has always been voluntary compliance with the law, and in the past, when we have asked for help from motorists, we have received it. If we all work together, obey the speed limit, don't drink and drive, and use safety belts and child restraint systems, we can reduce significantly the number of persons seriously injured or killed on our highways."

Fall Outreach Schedule Noted

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College announced that its new fall Outreach schedule will begin September 12 at the Accident Library Branch.

The first month's topic is entitled "Orientation to the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program" dealing with an introduction to the program, its services and what it can do for participants.

Sandy Schofield, Outreach-/Job Awareness Coordinator for the HCO Program, will visit the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library on Monday, September 12, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. with this presentation. Advance registration is requested by calling 334-9184.

School's Open; Motorists Urged To Be Cautious

Maryland school bells are ringing again as schools open throughout the State.

Motorists are urged by the Maryland State Police to drive with extra caution and keep alert for young pedestrians and school buses. Maryland law requires that motorists come to a full stop when pedestrians are crossing the street in a crosswalk.

Drivers should be especially careful, police said, during school hours for small children walking to and from school. These youngsters may dart from between parked cars while crossing the street.

When approaching a school bus, motorists are reminded that they are required to stop at least 10 feet in front of or 10 feet to the rear of a school bus with flashing red warning lights. Drivers may not proceed until the school bus driver turns off the warning lights or the school bus proceeds on its way.

Parents are reminded that children should always walk on the sidewalk and cross at intersections. Children should always cross with the green light or pedestrian walk indicators, obey the school crossing guards and always look both ways before crossing the street.

If no sidewalk is available, then children should walk along the left side of the shoulder facing traffic.

When riding on a school bus, children should remain seated until the bus comes to a full stop. Additionally, when loading and unloading the school bus, children should look both ways before crossing the street.

State Police are also urging parents to be sure of the route their children take when walking to and from school.

"Safety is a two-way street and requires both pedestrian and motorist cooperation," a MSP spokesman stated.

SCHOOL'S OPEN — State Police Corporal Sam Brown is reminding these children to be careful walking to and from school. With schools opening throughout the state motorists are urged to watch out for children walking to and from school and children getting on and off school buses. (State Police Photo by Hoyt Jones)

THURSDAY

Diane (Shelley Long, L) helps her mother (Glynnis Johns) deal with the thought of living without a lot of money. The horrible prospect can only be reversed if Diane finds a husband in the next 24 hours. Tune in NBC's "Cheers," on Thursday, Sept. 8, to find out what happens.

Colt's 'Lottery'; a long-shot series

By Peter Meade

Marshall Colt

Marshall Colt hopes he has hit the jackpot with ABC's new Friday night series "Lottery!"

The show's original luck of the draw puts it up against CBS' "Dallas," so it could be tough establishing an audience. However, last season NBC put a first-year series,"Knight Rider," on against J.R. and family, so maybe, just maybe, "Lottery!" has a chance."

The show has overtones similar to the popular "The Millionaire" series, which ran from 1955 to 1960. Colt plays Eric Rush, "an affable IRS agent," according to the network, who follows the Intersweep Lottery's international representative (played by Ben Murphy) around keeping the books balanced for Uncle Sam.

"We spend so much time together," says Colt of his and Murphy's characters, "that we develop a fondness, despite our personalities being so diverse. My character is the antithesis of an IRS agent. My construction of the character is that he is ready to leave the IRS and this is a step along the way toward that goal. He uses the whole thing as a lark."

Colt also looks at his acting career as something of a lark. He never had any early theatrical leanings having received a degree in physics from Tulane, in his native New Orleans. After college he spent four years on a naval tour that included Vietnam and then tried his luck at pro football. It wasn't until he studied writing and news at San Francisco State that he started acting as a way to earn some extra money. He was first asked about "Lottery!" a year ago September, and turned it down immediately. It took until January before he OK ed the deal.

"I was really unsure about playing an IRS guy," he says. "Ninety-five percent hate the character right away."

Colt admits the pilot was "terrible," because everyone was trying too hard and there wasn't enough rehearsal time. But Colt believes the results will improve over the 12 more scheduled episodes. Each hour features the "Lottery!" duo spreading the wealth in a different city. Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Denver and Boston have been covered already, without Colt and Murphy ever leaving locations around Los Angeles.

Saturday mornings it's Charlie Brown & Snoopy

By Peter Meade

Charles M. Schulz

Just when it looked like the Saturday morning television lineup was about to hit the bottom of boredom, it's "The Charlie Brown & Snoopy Show" to the rescue.

The "Peanuts" gang, created by Charles M. Schulz, hopes to bring the same quality to the sagging Saturday morning viewing that has been the hallmark of the comic strip's years on the comic pages. The prime-time "Peanuts" specials have received six Emmy Awards with a total of 24 nominations and producer Lee Mendelson believes now the time is right to bring Charlie Brown and Snoopy to Saturday mornings, beginning Sept. 17 on CBS.

Schulz believes the first-ever Charlie Brown, et al. TV series is "hitting at exactly the right moment," but he is quick to point out that the debut of the series will not affect the prime-time "Peanuts" specials.

"We're always trying to do something different on TV," says Schulz, "like (the recent special) 'What Have We Learned Charlie Brown.' I want to continue the evening shows most of all, and I want the time to develop them."

Schulz, who strives to keep the characters up to date, is currently working on a yet untitled half-hour special about the "Peanuts" gang going to computer camp. He is also working on animating the play "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." It's an arduous process, not made any easier because the one-hour and 45-minute production must be edited to an hour for the transition to the small screen.

The "Peanuts" gang are not the only cartoon characters joining the Saturday morning schedule. NBC has added "Alvin & the Chipmunks" and Mr. T of "The A-Team" will also become a cartoon creature. CBS has drawn up the adventures of "Benji," the cute canine of cinema. The popular games "Dungeons & Dragons" and "Rubik the Amazing Cube" have been added to the CBS and NBC lineups respectively.

Returning favorities include "Flintstone Funnies," "Smurfs" and "The Amazing Spider-Man" on NBC, "The Bugs Bunny/Road Runner Show," "New Fat Albert" and "The Dukes" on CBS, and "Pac-Man," "The Little Rascals/Richie Rich Show" and "The Best of Scooby Doo" on ABC.

The yen to travel helps most TV personalities

By Elaina Thompson

Brian Linehan

A gypsy heart, according to the late David Niven, was an invaluable asset to an actor who wanted to work "because you have to go where the work is." In his case that turned out to be all over the world when movies graduated from Hollywood sets manufactured on back lots to authentic locations.

Now, on television, it's not just actors on scripted shows who have to keep moving, but interviewers who seek everything from the wacky to the unexpected to serious talk sessions.

At present probably no television personality logs more miles on the road each year, than genial Bill Rafferty of NBC's "Real People." He says he doesn't lament "not having months off at a time for hiatus" the way many television series do. He is glad when he can string a few days together to be with his wife, Regina, and their three children at their home in San Rafael, Calif.

The Palances, Jack and his daughter, Holly, of ABC's "Ripley's Believe It or Not!" are luckier than Rafferty in one way. Their traveling is scheduled into five consecutive months. "But we haven't seen each other in five months, because each of us is off on our own assignments," Holly said after she descended from a Park Avenue penthouse in Manhattan where the unusual roof garden greenery consisted of ripening corn stalks. She spent the day before at a desert in Maine. "Yes, there really is one," she says. The next morning she was off to an animal park near Philadelphia.

Then it's Europe. Although she lived there for a number of years, her show deals with two cities she always wanted to visit and never has, Venice and Verona. "They're keeping the assignments a surprise," says Holly, "even from me."

A man who would not have to travel if he didn't want to is Brian Linehan, the last of television's good conversationalists now that Dick Cavett is off the air. His home base is Toronto, and ever since the late George Cukor said, "This man is the best, go see him" 11 years ago, celebrities have been willing to detour to Toronto if necessary. But, because of his gypsy heart, it isn't always necessary. His yen for travel, Brian believes, is one reason that has made the recent King syndication of his "Linehan and Company" daily shows right for the United States.

Linehan says, "I've visited more of those States — small communities, too, not just big cities — than most people who were born in the U.S."

TV TATTLE

Changes, changes

Fall usually brings with it many changes on television with the influx of new shows. But even some of the returning shows will be changed.

"Remington Steele" will kick off its second season with a two-hour episode filmed in Acapulco. The show will introduce a new regular, Doris Roberts, as former IRS agent Mildred Krebs. She will join the Remington Steele agency and work with Stephanie Zimbalist and Pierce Brosnan.

Doris Roberts

The faces will be the same on "The Facts of Life," but the location changes from the Eastland School to Edna's Edibles. Edna Garrett (Charlotte Rae) will be running a restaurant and catering service with the help of Eastland graduates Jo and Blair (Nancy McKeon and Lisa Whelchel). Kim Fields and Mindy Cohn return and later in the season Pam Segall will be added to the cast.

There'll be a slimmed down Nell Carter on "Gimme a Break." She lost 70 pounds over the summer. Those pounds will be replaced by Joey Lawrence, who will play an orphan who becomes part of the Kanisky household.

And for you "Cheers" fans, yes — finally — Sam and Diane are officially a romance. A rocky one at that, but this will give viewers a chance to see Diane's apartment. Unfortunately, Norm (George Wendt) has marriage problems and separates from the much-discussed Vera.

'Maid in America'

Susan Clark and her husband, Alex Karras, star in the CBS movie "Maid in America," to be rebroadcast Wednesday, Sept. 14. The romantic comedy features Karras as an unemployed worker who applies for the job of live-in maid in Miss Clark's household.

Mr. and Mrs. Karras will also star in the new ABC Friday comedy "Webster."

Susan Clark and Alex Karras

IRS agent Eric Rush (Marshall Colt, L) and lottery administrator Patrick Flaherty (Ben Murphy) are an unlikely pair of friends on "Lottery!" The new series airs Friday, Sept. 16 on ABC.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I was sorry to see "Tucker's Witch" taken off the air. I am seeing repeats now, but feel CBS should renew the show. I think Catherine Hicks is marvelous. — A.P., Trenton, N.J.

Catherine Hicks

"Tucker's Witch" was plagued from the beginning. First it was called "The Good Witch of Laurel Canyon" and two actors other than Miss Hicks and Tim Matheson were cast as Amanda and Rick Tucker. First one was let go, then the other. Production time was getting close and there were no leads. Then Matheson and Miss Hicks were cast and the show began production as "Tucker's Witch." But it was preempted, taken off, and generally tossed around. That's no way for a series to start. Miss Hicks is a fine actress — she did a wonderful job as Marilyn Monroe in "Marilyn: The Untold Story" — and I'm sure she'll be around in other things.

The miniseries "V" kept me and my friends hanging in midair. Is there any chance of it returning? — K.M., Kuttawa, Ky.

The "hanging in the air" ending was deliberate and it obviously worked. Ratings were good enough that NBC ordered six more hours from Kenneth Johnson, who produced, directed and wrote "V." It probably won't be seen until after the first of the year, most likely in the spring. Supposedly "V" cannot be made into a weekly series because the special effects cost too much.

Judson Scott

I would like to see the show "The Phoenix" brought back. I can't tell you who I am, but I know you can do it. Do it for Judson Scott. — A Friend, Jamestown, N.Y.

Sorry, friend, but I can't do it. Only people like you who write letters and deluge the network can do it for Judson Scott or anyone else. But I fear it might be too late for "The Phoenix," but who knows? Like its namesake, it might rise from the ashes.

CINDY SAYS

Gina's pretty plates; Liv's gourmet tastes

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Gina Lollobrigida, who says "my first talent is painting," will do a collection of hand-painted porcelain ceramics. She signed on the dotted tile with Porcelano, an American firm. Gina's "decorative plates" will be made in Barcelona... Gorgeous Wanda Richert's bronzed California look was fading, so she slithered into the tanning salon called A Place in the Sun. Too much of that stuff and she'll look like Yoda... Liv Ullmann was thrilled that the Madison Avenue Gourmet Shoppe had a sale on Norwegian Reindeer Meatballs. Only $4.98 for a can of 14. Of course, there's no way you can comparison-shop this particular item, but it looks to me to be very reasonable.

Claude Akins: "Even as a kid I was determined to make it. At 10, I had a pony cart, bought ice cream wholesale and sold it. I had other kids working for me."

Claude Akins
always determined

Bert Convy starts filming his new half-hour TV sitcom this month. "It's Not Easy" is a series on divorce and second parenting. It debuts in September. "We rehearse daily, then film the whole day and night on Friday," says Convy. "Then alternate weekends I film 10 of my daily CBS show, 'Tattletales.' The thing is, I'm a workaholic. If I'm on 'hold' on a phone, I'll spend the minute rearranging my desk."

Bert Convy
an average guy

Convy, who has written a Broadway musical in his idle milliseconds, is too handsome to be semi-bonkers. He looks like the world's treating him well. "Yeah, I live good," he says. "Like the private jet ride Burt Reynolds and I took where Dinah Shore was the stewardess serving up chicken soup.

"But, basically," says the guy with the silk shirt unbuttoned to the waist and dark glasses on, "I'm just an average guy."

Big Apple soapers begin a baby boom

By Kimberly Redmond

Elaine Princi

There's a baby boom going on among New York soap actresses. At a recent "Guiding Light" fan club gathering, Lisa Brown, who is married to Tom Nielsen (Floyd Parker on "GL"), announced she's expecting her first bundle of joy in mid-March, 1984. Two other March ladies-in-waiting are Laura Malone (Blaine Cory) and Terry Davis (Stacey Winthrop), both of "Another World." Also expecting is Lisa Loring (Cricket Montgomery) of "As the World Turns."

A good time was had by all recently when "Guiding Light" star John Wesley Shipp (Kelly Nelson) threw a "welcome to New York" bash for his new co-star, Susan Pratt (Claire Ramsey). If all goes as projected, the two are slated to become a hot on-screen romantic duo very soon.

"As the World Turns" seems to have found an excellent replacement for the popular role of Margo Hughes in actress Hillary Bailey (ex-Kit McCormack on "The Doctors"). Margaret Colin abandoned the role to pursue other acting outlets, and the "ATWT" audience quickly accepted Miss Bailey, who bears a physical resemblance to her predecessor.

Recent "ATWT" celebrity guest stints included comedian Nipsey Russell and singer Deniece Williams, who sang at the show's new floating nightclub, The Anemone. Soon to be dropped from the "ATWT" cast is Elaine Princi (Miranda Hughes), whose contract wasn't renewed.

Good news for "Days of Our Lives" fans! Gloria Loring has re-signed with the soap for three years. Miss Loring's lucrative contract with Columbia Pictures Television also provides a guaranteed star billing in two motion pictures for television and guest-starring appearances on at least five prime-time shows. Miss Loring will also be given time off from her role of Liz Chandler on "DOOL" in order to make personal appearances and to fulfill upcoming nightclub commitments.

Meanwhile, as Liz has been serving time in the slammer, Miss Loring took advantage of her time off to tape a Juvenile Diabetes Foundation fund-raising concert in Cleveland, Ohio, and to appear on a Bob Hope Special in Canada. Recently, she also concluded a week-long sold-out nightclub engagement at Atlantic City's Claridge Hotel and Casino. This weekend she'll return to the East Coast gambling capital to entertain at a private JDF party.

Training Programs Planned For Local Catholic Catechists

Approximately 150 Roman Catholic parish and school catechists will greet more than 2,250 students in religion classes this month in Western Maryland. To prepare themselves, many of the teachers will attend in-service programs in their free time, according to Antoinette Wiseman, area coordinator of Catholic Education Services of Western Maryland.

During the year each parish provides each of its catechists several opportunities for self-growth, she said. Some are offered by Catholic Education Services which is funded jointly by the parishes in Western Maryland and the Archdiocese of Baltimore's Department of Christian Formation. Others are conducted by the Archdiocesan Division of Religious Education, and many parishes and schools also schedule their own programs.

On Wednesday, September 7, the workshop, How to Plan a Lesson, will be held at St. Michael School in Frostburg from 7 to 9 p.m. A comprehensive Teacher Learning Program which includes 15 three-hour sessions will begin on Wednesday, September 21, at St. Patrick, Cumberland, from 7 to 10 p.m. On Saturday, September 24, a workshop on Sacramental Catechesis will be presented by a team from the Archdiocese at Saints Peter and Paul, Cumberland, from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Each of the programs counts toward Archdiocesan Catechist Certification and pre-registration is required. For more information, catechists may call Catholic Education Services at 777-9082.

This past summer was a very dry one for us in Western Maryland, and many people were attempting to conserve water. Actually, conservation of water is a good idea not only in times of drought but at all times of the year. Water in the home is paid for both through the water bill and through the cost of gas or electricity used by the water heater. In fact, usually the cost of the energy used to heat water is greater than the water itself. In addition to those costs, a third cost is the treatment of the water after it has been used. After the water is used, it goes down the drain and through the sewer pipes to the sewage treatment system, which is supported by tax dollars. The more sewage produced, the higher the costs of operating the treatment plant.

The most effective ways for water use to be cut are: stopping leaks, developing water saving habits and installing water-saving devices.

Leakage accounts for 5 to 10 percent of all residential water consumption. Most of this leakage is due to worn-out faucet washers and faulty toilet tank valves. A faucet with a leak of one drop per second can waste 7 gallons a day. A steady drip can waste 20 gallons a day. Usually installing a new washer will correct a faucet leak.

A more serious type of leak occurs in toilet tanks, which can waste 200 gallons of water a day without making a sound. Since the leaking water runs from the tank into the bowl, it can't be seen. A simple way to check for a toilet leak is to remove the tank cover and place food coloring in it, preferably at a time when the toilet will be unused for several hours. If the color seeps into the bowl, the flush ball may need to be replaced. Other common causes of leaks in the toilet tank occur with the valve seat, when the float is set too high or a float that leaks.

There are various devices on the market which reduce the flow of water through a faucet. Aerators are used commonly in the kitchen and bathroom faucets to reduce splashing. Bubbles are introduced into the flow of water, which makes it seem greater than it actually is. Thermostatic mixing valves permit the mixing of hot and cold water to preset temperatures. Thus, water is not wasted when adjusting the hot and cold water taps. This feature is especially helpful in the shower, because it enables the user to turn off the water while soaping or shampooing and then turn the water back on to the preset temperature for rinsing. Flow regulators reduce the flow of water through the faucet. The two main types are the restrictor type, which reduces the flow of water by creating a smaller opening; and the constant rate type, which maintains a constant flow rate regardless of changes in water pressure.

Almost half the water used in the home is used through the toilet. Many devices are available to reduce this amount of water used; however, whether or not they are effective depends upon the type of toilet. It is not recommended to place a brick in the tank because it may deteriorate and clog the drains. However, a clean plastic one-quart bottle filled with sand can be used.

A toilet volume reducer reduces toilet-flush water by 50%. Float assemblies of improved design (eliminating the float and rod arm) save money both because they require less maintenance and because the water level can be adjusted easily, allowing it to be set at a level at which the toilet flushes efficiently while saving water.

A dual flush mechanism can be incorporated to an existing toilet. This mechanism makes it possible to select a small or large flush for either liquid or solid wastes.

If a toilet is to be replaced, there are shallow-trap toilets available which use only about 3½ gallons of water for each flush instead of the usual 5 to 7 gallons.

For more information on saving water in your home, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, Maryland, (301) 724-3320; or at 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, Telephone 301-334-2145; or at Grantsville at Telephone: 301-895-3124 on Mondays and Fridays.

Information from the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service is available to all persons regardless of race, color, national origin, sex or handicap.

Silo Gas and Silo Fires - Important Notice to All Farmers!

The dry weather this summer has been devastating to crops in many parts of Maryland. A lot of corn meant to be harvested for grain will be going into the silo. A dry year often leads to corn silage harvested at low moisture content and that makes this year a candidate for a rash of fires. We will very likely also have an increase in the number of silo gas problems. The following precautions may help you avert trouble.

* Over-fertilization increases the nitrate level of crops. Follow soil analysis reports closely and use balanced N-P-K fertilizers. The level of nitrates in silage is directly related to the potential of silo gas production.

* Disease of insect problems can cause an increase in nitrate levels.

* Weeds can make silage dangerous.

*After a drought, rapid nitrate uptake occurs in plants following a rain. So, harvest the crop before rains or wait at least 5 days after a rain.

* Plants damaged by hail or frost should be harvested immediately before they take up nitrates.

* To reduce the amount of nitrate going into the silage, cut higher than normal. Most nitrates are in the lower stalk.

* Be on the alert for bleach-like odors and/or yellowish brown fumes in or near the silo. Small amounts of the gas many not be visible or easily detected by smell, but are still dangerous.

*When nitrogen dioxide is inhaled, a chemical reaction takes place which results in the olfactory nerves (sense of smell) being anesthetized. This occurs very rapidly; only 2 or 3 breaths are necessary. So, if you get one breath of this gas, get away immediately. If you stay, you may think the gas is gone simply because you can't smell it.

* If you experience the slightest throat irritation or coughing in or around a silo, get to fresh air quickly.

* See your doctor immediately after exposure to silo gas. Treatment will prevent lung damage and keep pneumonia from developing later.

* You can make test discs as follows, and hang them at the bottom of the silo chute to detect gas:

Mix a solution of 0.07 ounces of corn starch and 0.07 ounces of potassium iodide in three ounces of water. Spray on a filter-paper disc until soaked. Dry in an oven at 100° to 125°. Fold scotch tape over one edge and make a hole for hanging. Wet the disc with water and hang at bottom of chute or inside the chamber of bottom unloading silos. If the disc turns purple, gas is present. Disc may only be used once.

* A tight silo - The doors and walls of a tower silo must be closed and tight to keep out oxygen.

* Moisture content - Most silo fires occur because the ensiling material is put into the silo too dry. The hay crop should be 50% to 65% moisture for a top unloading tower silo and 45% to 55% for a bottom unloading tower silo. Warranties for some bottom unloaders are void if haylage is above 50% moisture. A crop below 45% moisture, coupled with extra oxygen from poor packing or leakage of oxygen into the silo, risks heat damage or fire.

* Length of cut - The length of cut should be 3/8" to 1/4". The short length aids in packing as well as unloading.

* Distribution - A distributor should be used to ensure adequate packing along the silo walls.

* Filling rate - The filling rate should be rapid for good packing, a minimum of 2 feet per hour.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Iona Rodeheaver, whose birthday would have been on September 6th. You were just a plain dear mother, always thinking of your family first. Always there when we needed you, caring for us and worrying about us. You brought us together as a family, and we thought you would always be there. We will always remember your special sugar cookies, and pumpkin pies and watching for us, if we were late. You were in pain and deserved your hard earned rest. Mother your family loves you and misses you. We know how lucky we were to have a mother, who left such beautiful memories.

Backbone Mtn. Inn Is Heavily Damaged By Fire

The Backbone Mountain Inn, located along U.S. Route 50 just west of Gorman, was heavily damaged early this morning when a fire broke out in the kitchen area.

Garrett Central Alarm sent firefighters from Gorman and Oakland to the scene at 2:55 a.m., along with the county air cascade unit and Southern Rescue equipment truck. A tanker from Bayard VFD was called later.

According to a spokesman for the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, heavy smoke was coming from the windows of the structure upon arrival of fire personnel. Gorman made the initial interior attack and were backed up by Oakland personnel who entered the rear of the building.

The fire was contained in two kitchen areas, however heat and smoke damage was heavy throughout the dining area and the apartment on the second floor.

According to the spokesman, an unidentified woman who was in the apartment at the time discovered the fire and went to a neighbor's residence to phone for help. Danny Bosley made the call to Garrett Central Alarm. The spokesman said that the woman closed the door of the Inn behind her, which helped prevent rapid spreading of the fire.

The Inn is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Inglese.

An ambulance from Southern Rescue was called for a person reportedly suffering from smoke inhalation, however there was no transport to the hospital.

James Martin, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, stated that the cause of the fire seems to be accidental and electrical in nature, originating in the kitchen, however his investigation is continuing.

Gorman VFD personnel remained on the scene until 7:27 a.m.

WALKERS BEGIN TREK ACROSS MARYLAND — Supporters of a beverage container deposit law in Maryland began their walk across Maryland this morning at the Maryland-West Virginia line on Route 39. Though they are starting out as a small group, they expect to have many join them on their walk to Annapolis. The walk, organized by Citizens Against Waste, is hoped to arouse grass roots support for the bill which is to be presented at the 1984 General Assembly. Among the walkers is a 73-year-old retired lawyer from Bethesda, far right, who expects to walk the entire journey which is to end in Annapolis on October 1. A rally was scheduled in Oakland at the Garrett County Courthouse plaza at noon today. The walkers expect to reach Swanton this evening where they will spend the night at the Swanton Community Center. They will leave the town tomorrow at 10:30 a.m., and walk towards Westernport along Rt. 135. A final rally at the State House in Annapolis is planned between 2 and 4 p.m., on October 1 which will feature musical entertainers and speakers of national prominence.

Twenty Tons Of Surplus Food To Be Distributed

Garrett County will receive over 40,000 pounds of surplus food for needy families, which will be distributed on Monday, September 19, from 1 to 4 p.m., according to a release from the Garrett County Community Action and Garrett County Commission on Aging, co-ordinators of the distribution. Eligible familes may receive cheese, butter, rice, dry milk and either flour, honey or corn meal.

New guidelines for receipt of the commodities have been set by the State of Maryland and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to the release. In order to receive the food a family must present a card showing proof of participation in one of the following programs: food stamps, welfare (A.F.D.C. or G.P.A.), supplemental security income, Medicaid, or unemployment (card is required).

Only one member of the household may receive the food. The cardholder must be present. The local distribution is for Garrett County residents only. Recipients should bring a shopping bag or box in which to carry the food.

Distribution centers are as follows: Oakland Armory, Friendsville fire hall, Deer Park Community Center, Swanton Community, Jennings Community Center, Grantsville fire hall, Eastern Garrett fire hall, Bloomington fire hall, Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, Kitzmiller Community Center and Gorman Community Center.

Lois Brenneman, area coordinator for the Garrett County Commission On Aging, pointed out that not all senior citizens are automatically eligible as they have been in the past.

She stated that persons who are not pleased with the guidelines should contact elected officials such as the county commissioners, Senators Charles McC. Mathias and Paul Sarbanes and Congresswoman Beverly Byron or should write Ken Shiflett, Maryland Board of Education, 200 W. Baltimore

Kutchman Resigns Wednesday As Vice President Of Mettiki Coal

James S. Gill, Mettiki Mine's new acting vice president of operations, assumed his duties Monday at the Table Rock mine complex following the resignation last week of George Kutchman, who had been in charge there since the mine opened for production in 1978.

Gill was formerly vice president of operations for MAPCO's Webster County Coal Corporation in Lexington, Ky.

Kutchman was in Tulsa, Okla., last Wednesday for other company business when his resignation was announced, according to David Leslie, vice president for public affairs of MAPCO, Mettiki's parent company. Last Wednesday was also Kutchman's last day with the company.

Norris Brooks, Kutchman's supervisor for Mettiki and his chief defender when the local mine superintendent was faced with an investigation by company management in 1980 for questionable labor practices, also announced his resignation last Wednesday.

Both resignations immediately preceded a federal grand jury hearing of alleged illegal practices at Mettiki, the state's largest underground coal mine operation. The federal grand jury last Thursday heard testimony from a number of present and former mine workers at Mettiki, but it may be several weeks before any results of the investigation are forthcoming.

That grand jury hearing followed a lengthy Federal Bureau of Investigation into allegations that Mettiki had violated the Hobbs Act which makes it unlawful to effect interstate commerce through extortion or some other illegal act.

If the grand jury should decide to press charges, these would be made through a federal court and the information would be made public but until then the proceedings are required to remain secret through federal law. Liz Trimble, with the U.S. Attorney General's office in Baltimore, refused to even comment on whether Kutchman's resignation would have any effect on the grand jury's investigation.

Mettiki employees who were working last Wednesday were called out of work early and told of the resignations. Mettiki has been on a half-time work schedule since last fall, when economic conditions led to a huge stockpile of coal at the mine.

Leslie, who was in Seattle, Wash., on Monday, stated that there would be no other management personnel changes at Mettiki, and announced that he will be visiting Mettiki next week.

One superintendent at the mine, Rich Visniski, in charge of the preparation plant, was reportedly fired on Monday of this week, but company spokesmen would not comment on whether other local personnel changes are planned.

Oakland Man Shot Monday During Arrest Procedure, Ensuing Scuffle

An Oakland man, Timothy Mark Lantz, 21, is listed in satisfactory condition today at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he was admitted Monday afternoon following a shooting incident at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

According to Maryland State Police, Sgt. Charles Hinnant was attempting to serve a fugitive warrant from Tucker County, W.Va., on Lantz when he resisted being handcuffed, a scuffle ensued, and he broke free from the officer. Lantz reportedly ran toward a wooded area, ignored the warning shot fired by the officer, and was struck in the buttocks by a second shot at the edge of the forest area.

Lantz was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where he reportedly underwent surgery. He was moved from the intensive care unit Tuesday morning.

Hinnant, a criminal investigator assigned to the McHenry detachment, was serving the warrant for a burglary charge. Lantz, who had been employed for approximately one month by the park service, had taken shelter from the rain with several other employees when the incident occurred.

Park Ranger D.K. Burrell and Maryland Department of Natural Resource Police Officer Richard Tower assisted in the arrest.

State police internal affairs personnel are continuing an investigation into the incident.

Schools Record 5,060 Students For Opening Days

Garrett County school officials recorded a student attendance of 5,060 for the first days of school, Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent of instruction for the county Board of Education, reported Thursday at the board's monthly meeting.

In presenting the attendance figures to the board, Ringer noted the most accurate count of school attendance will come September 30 which is the figure sent to the state Board of Education. Ringer said the attendance is below the earlier enrollment figure of 5,222.

One student is in the home teaching program.

Rev. W.G. Grant Resigns Pastorate At Sand Flat Assembly Of God

Rev. W. Gregory Grant, pastor of the Sand Flat Assembly of God, turned in his resignation this week saying his action was entirely his own decision and was not requested by church officials.

Grant was not present at the church service Sunday, when his resignation letter was read by a fill-in paster, because church officials feared for his safety.

In his letter, Grant gave his reason for resigning, "The conditions at present have made it impossible for me to minister freely."

Grant stated Tuesday he resigned because his three-year term, as stipulated in the church constitution, was over and although he believed the church congregation would re-elect him if he wished to stay, he was opted not to remain at the church.

There have been problems at the church in the past few years which climaxed during an incident at the church three weeks ago which resulted in Grant filing trespassing charges against 26 people who he said were either not church members or were on inactive membership status for disciplinary purposes.

The center of controversy, Grant said, was a 1980 amendment to a church by-law setting the pastor's tenure at three years. The amendment was ruled to have been improperly enacted by District Superintendent Howard V. Spruill.

Spruill, who attended a meeting at the church on September 6, said Tuesday he is reviewing the church minutes, incorporated papers and constitution to reconsider whether the amendment was or was not properly

Board Approves School Budget And Salary Hike

The Board of Education approved its fiscal year 1984 budget, including a three percent average pay increase for teachers and other employees, during its meeting Thursday.

The raise approved was one percent less than the negotiated raise with teachers and will provide them with $525 more per year instead of $700.

However, teachers receiving pay increments this year will also receive $440, on the average, said Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county schools superintendent.

Also receiving the three per-

Elderly Hutton Man Found Guilty Of Attempted Rape, Assault, Child Abuse

A Hutton man, Clarence Crosco, 65, was found guilty yesterday by a 12-man jury of attempted rape, a third degree sexual offense, child abuse, and assault. Visiting Judge Fred Shearer, Allegany County, heard the case.

Assistant state's attorney Daun Weiers tried the case before the all-male jury, calling the victim and her grandmother, Marie Crosco, to the stand for the state.

According to testimony, Crosco entered the bedroom of the 12-year-old victim and made sexual advances to her. She failed to report the incident right away, stating she was afraid of her grandfather. Social services personnel were finally alerted, and the child was removed from the home.

Crosco's defense counsel, William Rudd, Cumberland, called a son and nephew of the defendant to the stand, who spoke of medical problems present in the defendant during the night in question, and told of their assistance during his illness. The defendant's son stated he heard nothing from the youngster's room during the early morning encounter.

The jury deliberated just over an hour before rendering the verdict. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Crosco was found not guilty on a charge of second degree rape and on a second degree sexual offense.

FUNDS PRESENTED — A check for $577.69 was presented to Mrs. Betty Shaffer, second from left, who represents the Crippled Children's Service of the Garrett County Health Department, by Gladys Vannucci, founder of the Garrett County Epilepsy Association, a division of the Maryland Epilepsy Association. The funds were raised through golf tournaments sponsored by the Ladies' Golf Association of Oakland to be used for a worthy cause designated by the local epilepsy group. Also pictured are Dr. Dennis Whitehouse, left, a neurologist who works with the local health department, and Gerald Goessel, the current Regional Services coordinator for the state group. Goessel replaces Hector Gomez, who formerly visited with the local epilepsy group, through the health department, and worked with the self-help group, which has now been reactivated by Goessel.

PROCLAIM EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICE WEEK — The Garrett County Commissioners acted Tuesday to proclaim September 18-24 as emergency medical service week in conjunction with the state, recognizing "tireless and selfless efforts of emergency medical technicians, cardiac rescue technicians, aviation trauma technicians, paramedics, and emergency department nurses and physicians." The document, signed by both the commissioners and Gov. Harry Hughes, noted that over 1.5 million patients are treated each year in emergency departments in Maryland, which are part of an EMS system which has won world-wide acclaim. Pictured above, standing left to right, are David Ramsey, Region I coordinator for the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Systems; Rayma Weeks, president of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad; Linda Beachy, president of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad; Ernie Gregg, chairman of the Garrett County Commissioners; Elwood Groves and John Braskey, commissioners; Dr. Jared Zelman, chief of the medical staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital; and seated is Ed Livengood, chief dispatcher for the Garrett County Central Alarm facility.

Gov. Hughes Says Not Enough Sentiment For Special Session

Gov. Harry Hughes has reacted to a request for a special session of the General Assembly to be called to address the need for an additional program of extended unemployment benefits by saying "There's not enough legislative sentiment to call a special session."

A plea presented to the governor last week by Thomas Bradley, president of the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO, received that response.

Sen. John Bambacus has also made such a request after it became apparent that the state is "triggering off" the additional 13 weeks of unemployment benefits. This occurs when the state average unemployment drops below 120 percent of the average rates for the corresponding 13-week period for the two previous years.

During the last week in August, the rate was 4.37 percent, 119.4 percent of the average rates for the two previous years.

Del. Casper Taylor (D-Allegany, Washington) announced last week that he will pre-file a bill which would place the jobless benefits "trigger" on a regional rather than statewide basis.

The Maryland overall rate of unemployment was 6.3 percent in July, while Garrett County's rate was 14.3, Allegany's 11.8 and Washington's 11.9.

The District 2-A delegate said the measure is nearly identical to a bill he submitted four years ago but that measure was killed because the state said there wasn't sufficient computer technology to develop regional data.

In his letter to the Governor, Bambacus cited figures provided by the Employment Security Administration division of Research and Analysis, noting that claimants who have exhausted all benefits have increased to over 2,500 individuals in Allegany County alone. The figure represents an exhaustion rate of 48.9 percent of total claimants and does not include those people who have "simply given up" applying for benefits.

Focusing on the plight of local citizens, Bambacus wrote "Those people who have exhausted all benefits and still find no work need our support. As the hard months of winter approach the mountains, there remain children to feed and clothe, mortgage payments coming due, and higher utility costs. It is essential that we take every step to protect that 48.9 percent as they run out of assistance . . . The numbers are sobering enough, but we must not forget the numbers represent people and their families."

Administration Alternatives

According to a news report in an edition of The Sun last week, the administration has announced a series of limited initiatives to help the growing number of jobless workers in western Maryland while acknowledging that there is little the state can do.

These will include assisting Fairchild in Washington County to find another firm to take over the facility which will close next year, idling 600 in addition to the 400 already on layoff.

The administration also recommends "quick response teams" of state bureaucrats to offer aid from various agencies to laid-off workers, to extend the deadline for applications to take the test to become a state prison guard for the new prison under construction near Hagerstown, and to work with local officials and business leaders to stimulate business growth and employment.

The quick-response teams will include representatives of the new Department of Employment and Training, Human Resources, Personnel, and Economical and Community Development.

These will go to a business that is closing or laying off a large number of workers and will sign up workers for unemployment benefits, determine eligibility for food stamps and other forms of public assistance and provide information about employment opportunities, guidance counseling and job training.

Although extending the deadline for taking the state personnel test to become a prison guard will allow more to apply, the state is already flooded with 4,286 applications for the 487 positions.

Taylor and other western Maryland delegation members said last week they generally support the Bambacus call for a special session but said that political realities in the state would probably preclude that.

Taylor commented that "The political reality would deter such a move because the large population centers have lower unemployment and they consequently don't look at it in the emergency framework that we do."

In Washington County, the closing of Fairchild will leave 1,000 without jobs. Mack Trucks, the county's largest employer, has laid off about one-half of the 4,600 workers who were on the job during peak production in 1979. Allegany County heard Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. announce the furlough of 534 workers, leaving 700 at the plant which once employed 2,000 people. Celanese Corp. will also shut down for three months, idling most of the 400 workers.

In Garrett County, area mine slowdowns have idled hundreds while the closing of Sterling Poultry Processing next month is expected to idle over 200. Bausch and Lomb lens manufacturing has never recalled all of the more than 100 laid off last year.

Gov. Hughes has announced plans to visit Hagerstown and Cumberland later this month, but his spokesmen were unsure whether the visit will extend to Garrett County.

Lake Project Is Chief Sanitary Commission Topic

Progress on the Deep Creek Lake sewer system dominated the September 6 meeting of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, although several other current projects were also discussed.

First on the agenda last Tuesday were two residents of Paradise Point Road who were questioning why the sewer system ended on Zeddock Miller Road rather than joining the system which is to be installed along Paradise Point Road.

The commission has had its engineering firm, Rummel, Klepper and Kahl, look at the proposal and the estimated cost would be $100,000, to be totally from local funds. The engineers also determined that it would not be practical to tie the system together because of the elevation of Zeddock Miller Road. The commission is in the process of obtaining information from the state health department on sewer system failures in that area to determine if the project could possibly qualify for state and Environmental Protection Agency funding.

The commission acted recently to ask both the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the EPA to reconsider their position that a portion of the design costs for the lake system is not grant eligible.

The commission is referring to work such as courthouse surveys and private property surveys needed for design of the system. In the past the two funding agencies have maintained that the costs of such work, even though needed for an innovative and alternative system, are covered through the EPA's ten percent additional funding (allowing 85 percent funding rather than the customary 75 percent) and that these costs should be covered in that additional amount of funding.

The cost of courthouse surveys, etc. amounts to $300,000 for the lake project and all that amount will be repaid through the local share of funding unless the state and EPA reconsider their present stand.

Both Tom Lash of Rummel, Klepper and Kahl and Jeff Gilbert and Henry Doyle of Greenhorne and O'Mara were present to give engineer and progress reports on the system. Work is on schedule for the treatment plant, and a final inspection was to be conducted today for Contract 8 which has completed work on the Marsh Hill Road segment.

Work is beginning now on the main pumping stations following Potomac Edison's granting of easements for the stations.

Although contracts one, three and seven are complete now, one contractor, Strohecker, Inc., has experienced extreme difficulty in conducting borings underneath Route 219 South and has asked additional compensation for the work. The engineering firm has not approved any additional compensation, however.

Bloomington Sewer

A grant application has been submitted for federal and state funding for the Bloomington sewer project by the commission. So far, 100 of the 160 survey forms have been returned and according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, the responses are evenly divided between those who wish to proceed and those who do not.

The commission will make a decision on whether to pursue the project once the grant application has been accepted or denied.

Mt. Lake Water

Work on rehabilitation of the town of Mt. Lake Park's spring and adjacent transmission lines has been completed by Frank Arnold Contractors, except for final grading and seeding. Completion of these items will complete the project begun last fall for a new line to serve the town.

Upper Youghiogheny

The commission has received a letter from the state health department outlining steps it must take for completion of the Upper Youghiogheny Sewerage Facilities Plan. As soon as the commission meets the requirements set by the state, the plan will be submitted for state approval and possible funding for sewer rehabilitation moni for Trout Run treatment plan

Over 2,000 Pets Receive Protection Against Rabies

Over 2,000 area pets have received rabies vaccinations through the three rabies clinics sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department in various areas of the county this year. At the most recent clinic held last week, some 452 pets were vaccinated against the disease bringing the total to 2,096.

No new cases of rabies have been reported since late August. By that time 14 animals had been determined to be rabid, including 13 raccoons and one cat.

The Kitzmiller clinic last week saw 83 pets vaccinated; Accident 110; Long Stretch 55, and Oakland 204.

The health department is presently making plans for its annual fall clinic in October, at times to be announced later. The department is also attempting to schedule these clinics in areas not served by a previous clinic this year.

Mt. Lake Park Refuses To Sign Sewer Agreement

The mayor and council of Mt. Lake Park has informed the Sanitary Commission that the town does not intend to renew its agreement with the commission to pay for sewerage treatment for the town at the Trout Run treatment plant south of Loch Lynn.

That information was contained in a recent letter to the sanitary commission signed by Mayor Russell Alexander and town attorney Robert Watson.

The treatment facility is owned and operated by the sanitary district, with a fee charged to the town for its share of operating and maintenance costs for the plant. Now, however, the town is terminating its agreement unless the town of Oakland is made to pay for its use of the facility to treat sewerage from Broadford Park.

That request appears to be in direct violation of an agreement signed in December 1976 in which Oakland is relieved of financial responsibility. That negotiated document spells out an agreement whereby the sanitary district operates and maintains the sewerage facilities in the Broadford Park, exclusive of the pumping station in exchange for rent. That agreement is part of one with the town of Oakland, the sanitary district and the Board of Education, which is presently paying the district for treatment of sewerage from Broad Ford School and Southern Middle School.

That payment from the Board is $1,530 for operation and maintenance costs and $750 annually toward the debt retirement.

Sanitary district administrator Wendell Beitzel has approached the mayor and council of Mt. Lake Park, but so far has received no answer on whether they plan to change their refusal to sign the agreement. The town of Loch Lynn has also not signed a new agreement to pay for use of the Trout Run facility, but has not indicated that it will not sign.

12,060 Pay Real Estate Taxes In July And August

During July and August, the Garrett County Treasurer's office received 12,060 payments for real estate bills mailed the first of July to property owners. According to Treasurer Arzella Parsons, this is 64 percent of the total number mailed.

The total amount collected so far is $3,627,172.47.

Collections in August amounted to $1,775,482.84. Of that amount $622,762.25 was from real estate taxes; $5,772.97 from personal property taxes; $19,530.69 from ordinary business taxes; and $355,971.55 from public utilities taxes.

Prior years' taxes amounted to $60,217.33; interest collected was $13,771.60; ad valorem taxes amounted to $7,992.96; accounts receivable collected was $49,095.79; and transfer tax collected was $2,314.80.

The office also received $12,400.52 from recording taxes, $38,000.00 from liquor control board taxes; $33,252.12 from coal tonnage taxes; $3,049 from trailer park taxes; $148,013.82 from state income taxes and $163,069.99 from a state health department grant.

Other sources contributed $313,812.15, and discounts and credits allowed amounted to $73,544.70.

Mt. Lake Park Schedules Wolfe Hearing Sept. 29

The Mt. Lake Park mayor and council agreed Thursday night to reschedule a public hearing on a petition by Laurence Wolfe to amend the town's zoning map for Thursday, September 29, at 6 p.m. in the town hall.

Wolfe is seeking a zoning classification change for his El Lobo Restaurant from town residential to commercial. All interested citizens are welcome to attend and present testimony on their views about the proposed change.

The mayor and council also held a lengthy session on routine town business during their regular town meeting before concluding their session Thursday.

Man Charged With Inhaling Controlled Harmful Substance

An Oakland man is being held in the county jail pending a trial on charges of inhaling a controlled harmful substance following an arrest made September 12, near Oakland.

According to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, Dannie Allen Stemple, 29, was arrested and charged by Deputy Larry Gnegy and William Ferry of the State's Attorney's office for inhaling typewriter correction fluid while in a wooded area off Route 39 near Rosedale.

He is awaiting a bond hearing by the District Court commissioner at this time.

Cyclist Injured In Thursday Crash

A Youngstown, Ohio, man, Robert Armeni, Jr., 18, remains in satisfactory condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a bicycle-auto collision on Thursday evening.

According to Tfc. L.T. Tracy, Armeni, a student at Garrett Community College, was traveling on the bicycle down the Lake Forest Campground Road, just off Rt. 219 near Deep Creek Lake, when the brakes failed, and he was unable to stop. The bicycle continued down the road, onto Rt. 219, and into the path of an auto driven by Helga Caruthers, 46, of Oakland. The bike and rider struck the windshield, traveled for a few feet with the car, continued on across the highway, and landed in a driveway.

There were no charges in the mishap, which was reconstructed by Tfc. Chester Miller.

The state police Medevac helicopter transported Armeni to the local hospital. Southern Rescue Squad and the Deep Creek fire department were also dispatched to the scene.

Additional Unemployment Benefits To Be Halted On September 17

State officials announced Thursday that because of improving economic conditions and the resultant lower statewide unemployment rate, State Additional Unemployment Insurance Benefits will not be payable for weeks of unemployment after September 17.

According to officials of the Employment Security Administration, the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law provides that Additional Benefits are payable when the State's Additional Benefits insured unemployment rate (based on the number of all individuals filing unemployment insurance claims) averages four percent or more for 13 consecutive weeks and is at least 20 percent higher than the rate for the comparable period during the past two years. When the rate falls below four percent or does not meet the criterion that the rate be 20 percent higher than the comparable rate during the past two years, the Additional Benefits program triggers "off" and benefits may be payable for only three additional weeks.

For the claim week ending August 27, the Maryland insured unemployment rate fell to 4.37 percent which was not 20 percent higher that the rate for the comparable period during the past two years, thereby triggering "off" the current Additional Benefit period in Maryland, which began on August 1, 1982.

Approximately 11,300 persons currently receiving State Additional Benefits will not be payable for weeks of unemployment after September 17.

Brent Johnson, Secretary of Employment and Training said, "Because of the concern and initiative of Governor Hughes and the response of the General Assembly, Maryland was one of the few states in the nation to provide its own separate Additional Benefits program to meet problems caused by excessive and prolonged unemployment caused by the recession. As a result, unemployed Maryland workers have received benefits for a longer period of time than many other unemployed workers throughout the country."

In a letter to all persons scheduled to lose their benefits Secretary Johnson wrote, "Certainly, we are encouraged that the State's employment picture is improving and hope that this will mean a job for you in the near future. In the meantime, however, we are aware of the burden the end of benefits will cause those who are still unemployed. In that regard, we remind you that this agency is also improving and expanding its employment and job training services. I encourage you to keep in touch with our offices for continued job placement assistance.

"I deeply regret the loss of these benefits, but I am optimistic that as the economy continues to improve you will be able once again to provide for yourself and your family through employment."

The Secretary also pointed out that those persons losing benefits should contact their local department of social services to determine if they are eligible for public assistance. The more than 55,000 persons currently receiving regular and federal supplemental benefits are not affected at this time and will continue to receive those benefits as long as they are eligible.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland was formed January 1, 1879, with a handful of lines and a single switchboard.

EMS Week . . .

In the late 1950s, researchers at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, led by Dr. R. Adams Cowley, were seeking answers to the life-and-death questions linked to trauma and shock. From the research, revolutionary treatment procedures and the Shock Trauma Center of the University of Maryland in Baltimore were born. The center is now regarded throughout the world as the finest of its kind, offering the best emergency medical services available. Serious accident victims in Maryland have a greater chance of survival than anywhere else in the world.

Dr. Cowley's efforts did not stop with the development of the Trauma Center, however. They also served as the catalyst for what is now the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), of which Cowley is the director.

MIEMMS is composed of far more than the Shock Trauma Center. It also includes extensive programs for the training of emergency medical technicians, paramedics and other emergency rescue personnel; a Med-Evac helicopter fleet on duty 24 hours a day statewide; and the first comprehensive statewide communications system in the nation which links the EMT in the field to hospitals and trauma centers with voice and telemetry communication.

The Maryland System has also led to the establishment by the federal government of a Division of Emergency Medical Services in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, as well as the founding of the American Trauma Society, a national society advancing the study of trauma and the care of its victims. Its plans include the establishment of a specialized school which will offer degrees in emergency medical services to paramedics, physicians and nurses.

Still other plans include the creation of cluster systems that operate across state lines, plus a program of continuous care and rehabilitation for the severely injured victim, such as those with spinal cord damage.

The most important ingredient in the entire system, however, is the volunteer, who donates his or her time and energy to become trained in emergency medical care. It is this volunteer who is essential for the existence of rescue squads. It is this volunteer who first sees the ill and injured and has the responsibility of not only treating the patient in what are sometimes miserable environments, but also maintaining life support while transporting that patient to a hospital. It is this volunteer who must crawl out of bed and travel through a snow storm to respond to someone in need. The expert medical care at the trauma centers, the Med-Evacs and the sophisticated communications system would be useless without the volunteer.

So, in recognition of Emergency Medical Services Week September 18-24, we salute Dr. Cowley and his staff, the emergency trauma physicians and nurses, the Med-Evac pilots, the emergency medical instructors, and particularly, the volunteer EMTs and paramedics. Keep up the fantastic work.

In Other Words

Help Wanted . . .

by Carol Fox

On rare occasions, this column is used as a plea center for worthy causes, and generally produces fine results, thanks to the many caring readers it has acquired over the years.

Today, the subject of conversation is Hospice of Garrett County, a struggling "infant" in this area's multitude of fine service organizations. Unlike its bigger brothers and sisters, Hospice of Garrett County has no federal, state, or county funding, no paid personnel who have nothing to do but promote the good of the organization, and no splashy advertising campaign to get it speedily off the ground, so to speak, and winging its way on its own.

Instead, it has a handful of dedicated volunteers who attempt to serve the needs of the terminally ill and their families in our county with little more than words of encouragement, occasional donations, and a "heaping helping" of trained medical personnel. The public has responded to the numerous fundraising events the group has sponsored, but a crucial area of need is currently plaguing the efforts of the organizers, and that is, in simple terms, a lack of hospice volunteers. Several critical areas of need include representation in the Red House, Kitzmiller, Bittinger, Grantsville, and Friendsville areas, and a particular need for more male participation. Young people are also urged to consider volunteer service in the organization, since terminal illness strikes at any age.

The only requirements for the job are a loving heart, willing hands, and the desire to offer something of yourself to your fellow men. The organization trains each volunteer in the "how-to" department, and the rest is as natural as can be. Each of us has lost someone we cared about, and could have used an encouraging word, a shoulder to cry on, or someone to pour out our despair upon. If you can type, dial a telephone, hold a hand, or read a few lines from a book, Hospice of Garrett County needs you. There is so much to do. The rewards are many.

Another class of volunteer training is tentatively scheduled for September 22. The training classes are held once a week for nine weeks, and take place between the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College, the Oakland Center, the local hospital, and the local nursing homes. Each class is a new experience in what you can do for someone else, and shows a whole new side of your own personality.

Don't say you can't. You can! Contact the health department at 334-8111, ask for a Hospice Volunteer application, show those who need you that you really care. You'll be truly glad you did!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In a letter appearing in the August 31 edition Concerned Taxpayer wanted to know where the money was coming from to pay Mr. Baker's back wages.

We all know where the money is coming from--out of the taxpayer's pocket.

Before we start worrying about back wages we should ask about the amount of money paid the lawyers hired to handle the Baker case. Why did the commissioners feel they needed to hire high-priced Baltimore lawyers when they have legal council right here in the county?

I would bet that the money paid the lawyers by far exceeds the amount of back wages paid to Mr. Baker.

In closing I would like to say there is no need to withhold our name when asking how the tax money is spent. After all, it is the taxpayer's money and we should not be bashful about letting the commissioners know how we feel or who we are.

Sincerely,
Velma Beckman

To the Editor:

On August 27, 1983, the Annual Autumn Glory-Garrett County Pageant was held. It would have been an excellent pageant with the exception of two very important items.

First, since we are celebrating an annual festivity for which we have always had our very own Garrett County girls vie for queen, I feel we should still have just Garrett County girls vie for our Autumn Glory Queen, regardless if she does represent Garrett County in the more competitive contests later in the year. If she would just be representing the county as Miss Garrett County, and not Miss Autumn Glory also, it would be a different situation. I could then see girls from other counties participating in order to vie for Miss Maryland.

It is my feeling, along with other Garrett Countians, that the Junior Woman's Civic Club, the Promotion Council and all involved in the preparation of this contest, should either reconsider the eligibility of contestants from other counties, or have a separate pageant for a Miss Garrett County and a Miss Autum Glory, instead of combining them.

Secondly, I am not aware of how judges for such pageants are chosen, but one would think they were well-versed on whatever talents the girls have chosen, plus stage modeling, speech, etc. I realize the difficulty in locating good judges but in a contest such as this, we must try our best to obtain the best for our girls. Also, having a judge from Allegany County, along with having two Allegany County contestants, was not in very good taste!

If those in charge of the pageant expect more Garrett County girls to participate or be encouraged to participate in next years pageant, then there must be some better arrangements made for next year!

To the Editor:

On September 1 in Hagerstown there was a public meeting held by a Citizen/Labor energy coalition to explain how the ordinary citizen can stop the rapid increase in the cost of natural gas. They pointed out that the main cause of higher prices comes from government de-regulation of prices designed to help the large oil companies.

The Reagan administration is now attempting to get Congress to grant more decontrol which will cause gas costs to go up by 60% by 1986. Now, that means that those who use gas will be stuck with higher gas bills, and that many industries such as brick plants, paper mills, manufacturing plants and other industrial users of gas will be forced to close down.

You as a citizen can stop this increase if you act now and support the Natural Gas Consumer Relief Act (HR 2154 or S-996). Call, write or contact your Congressperson and Senator Mathias and ask them to become cosponsors of this act. The majority of the Maryland Congressional delegation are already supporting this act.

Thirty-five people came to the meeting on September 1, and it was well-attended by the UAW and AFL-CIO leaderships. If you are angry about high gas bills and worried that higher gas bills will drive more industry out of this District, then do something. Only you as a citizen voter can force Congress to hold the line and stop decontrol. Don't wait until it's too late. Write Congress. Support the Natural Gas Consumer Relief Act.

Yours truly,
William B. McMahon

"The road not taken"

by Harry Fox

Ah, autumn. An untimely season, catching the unwary with lawns and fencerows showing the untidy evidence of tasks still undone—a season meant for football fans with ruddy cheeks, sturdy pantry shelves groaning with home canning, and hefty woodpiles waiting for teenagers' unwilling hands to feed the voracious maw of a hungry woodstove in the basement.

Judging from the size of the woodpiles growing daily in the yards and alleys of the Oakland area, it's going to be one cold winter. That's how it is in Garrett County. The seasons change with uncompromising abruptness. The fleeting breath of summer, that wisp of a thing called July, is as fickle as the daring bathing fashions that parade along the beaches before admiring male eyes.

Quickly, so quickly, attentions turn from outdoor romping to morning feet stomping on the bedroom floor in the crisp, autumn air.

Lawnmowers disappear from the sidewalks in front of hardware stores, to be replaced by preseason sales on snowblowers. Merchants rush to clear out summer apparel as the inevitable paraphernalia of colder weather arrives.

Autumn. A season that belies the sameness of things, turning thoughts to the year's end . . . to the old things of life—to familiar haunts and frequent pastimes that are no more. As holy writ says . . . "the grass withers, the flower fades . . ." And we wonder, fearfully, what of our efforts might endure?

We watch the land transform itself into the golden hues of another fall. The season seems to leave us with an uncomfortable itch. Perhaps it is the twinge of regret. Perhaps it is the primeval instinct of migration within us—for so our ancestors must have moved in the face of cold weather.

It is the itch inside, that resists the "staying put" of our domestic ways.

Beyond the bright colors is the horizon, hidden though it may be. And beyond it? New England's sage, Robert Frost, often watched his hills and valleys shed the green of summer for the more stunning overcoat of autumn. As he lived, he felt the itch and heard the call of "The Road Not Taken." In Frost's own words:

"Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference."

Board Approves Revision To NHS Vo-Tech Program

A problem in implementing the food service program at Northern High School led to a revision to the Vocational Education Program at that school by the Garrett County Board of Education Thursday.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county schools superintendent, told the school board Thursday that because the food service program should be a two-year program, a full-time rather than part-time teacher as previously planned would be required.

The board had approved the food service program in June when it approved expanding vocational offerings at both schools with the understanding a teacher would teach both food service and home economics courses. On Thursday, the board approved offering a health services program, also to be a new program at Southern High School.

Kenneth Bittinger, supervisor of vocational education, told the board that the health program is actually a better option because it will offer students a greater array of employment opportunities, particularly in Garrett County.

He added that until now, Garrett County was the only county in Maryland which did not offer a health curriculum in its high schools.

By offering the health program in both schools, either one full-time traveling teacher or two part-time health teachers could be hired, Ryscavage noted.

In other business, the board approved a curriculum program for the 13 county kindergarten classes which will insure a consistent program for county students. Charlene Evans-Thomas, instructional supervisor, told the board that all county kindergarten teachers helped develop the program which will be used this year.

A poll of the kindergarten teachers early this year revealed discrepancies in the amount of time allotted to activities and subjects at the different schools.

The Board awarded two bids for work at the Southern High School athletic field. Receiving the bid for installation of a drainage system was low bidder Frank Arnold Contractors, Inc., Oakland, at a price of $15,400. Awarded the bid for laying asphalt on the field track was Mattingly Builders, LaVale, at a price of $46,261.

James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services, stated the bid amounts were slightly lower than anticipated.

The Board approved a recommendation for changing the residency program at Camp Hickory to allow for seventh graders instead of sixth graders.

Charlene Evans-Thomas explained to the board that the science curriculum provides classroom instruction in the life sciences in grade seven. The change would better coordinate students' studies in the classroom with those at the nature center.

The Board approved a revision to the policy on substitute teachers which raised the educational requirement for substitutes from a high school degree to a four-year college degree. Dr. Ryscavage noted that persons without a four-year college degree, but who have been excellent substitute teachers will still be allowed to substitute teach.

The Board appointed its team for negotiating with the Garrett County Teachers Association. Appointed chief negotiator was James Lupis assisted by county teachers Henrietta Lease and Sally Wilson, both to serve a three-year term. Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent of instruction was named as an ex officio member.

Named to new teaching positions or as new teachers were Mary Ryscavage, Southern Middle School; Linda Youmans, traveling family life teacher; Pamela Spurrier, part-time special education teacher at Northern High School, and Patricia Powers, home economics teacher at Southern High School.

Phillip Lough was hired as a custodian at Kitzmiller Elementary School and Leroy Friend named head custodian at Southern High School.

Resignations were accepted by the Board from math teacher Terry Wolf, aide Joan Weaver and food service worker Evelyn Arnold.

Board Approves

cent average pay increase this year will be full-time aides, noncertified administrators, custodial and maintenance employees, secretaries and clerical workers, and food service workers.

Administrators and supervisors will not be receiving a flat increase as other employees because of a new salary schedule which goes into effect this year.

Dr. Ryscavage explained that under the new schedule, which reduced the number of classification from 10 to four, some administrators will receive as low as a $300 increase for the year while at least one will receive $2,000 increase. Ryscavage noted that most of this group ranged closer to the salary raise teachers and noncertificated administrators would be receiving.

Representatives of the Garrett County Teachers' Association present at the meeting informed the board they were not happy that the terms of the negotiated agreement had not been met.

"Teachers are expected to be professionals, and yet we are not being paid as professionals," said GCTA president Betty White. "It upsets me we are not being given the amount we negotiated in good faith."

White and other GCTA representatives pointed out to the board there were teachers who qualify for the WIC program and for the free and reduced meals offered in the schools.

Board members explained that because the county commissioners had cut their requested allocation by $512,756, the money was not available to provide the teachers with the four percent increase.

They added they felt they had to be fair to all employees in giving a standard percentage raise to all.

The teachers responded to that comment by suggesting the board be fair to all employee groups by negotiating with them rather than allowing them to benefit from the negotiations with teachers.

Whether the GCTA will attempt to take action to protest the raise is not yet decided. Betty White said Tuesday there was little the GCTA could do because of the strictness of Maryland bargaining law which prohibits strikes, but there are other actions the group could take.

White said the group will address the situation at its October meeting and will probably decide then.

One thing the group will do will be to examine the negotiating procedure with the board and will talk with the commissioners and the board to prevent losing a negotiated salary increase again, White said.

The GCTA representatives indicated at the Thursday meeting, the commissioners had assured them the money was in the board's budget to give them their negotiated salary increase.

Board members and staff however argued that was not the case.

When they made categorical cuts to the board's budget in June, the county commissioners cut $118,525 from the instructional salaries category which includes salary payments to principals, teachers, aides, counselors and clerical employees. Special education employees are not included in this category.

Dr. Ryscavage said Monday that the board needed an additional $80,000 for instructional salaries even without giving a raise to nonteachers. Even with some estimated salary savings, created when some retired teachers were replaced with young teachers who start out at a lower salary, the board still needed about $40,000.

Grant Resigns

Spruill also said he had not requested Grant's resignation.

Others say the problems at the church also involve disciplinary measures taken against longtime supporters of the church and the possible mismanagement of funds.

Grant defends the disciplinary measures as standard procedure in all Assemblies of God churches taken against members who exhibit "un-Christlike behavior" and who disrupt church proceedings.

In response to the charge of possible mismanagement of funds, Grant said Tuesday he has requested district officials to audit the church books before he departs.

Grant has dropped the charges of trespassing against the 26 people saying he never intended to prosecute, but he and church officials believed the action necessary to insure the safety of his family and groups using the church.

The State's Attorney's office confirmed receiving notice of Grant's desire to drop the charges Tuesday afternoon.

Grant has no definite plans for his future, although he has begun packing.

One person, who asked not to be identified, said a group in the church has started a petition to notify district officials that the Board of Deacons rejected Grant's resignation and to request that Grant remain at the church. No official confirmation of the petition's existence could be obtained, but Grant said the deacons had rejected his resignation.

Grant was the 29th pastor at the Sand Flat Assembly of God since it was first established 54 years ago. The church, which has 56 active members, has recorded a Sunday School attendance as high as 309 during the 29-year-old pastor's tenure.

But, opponents say Grant's ministry has been ineffective for months and believe it is time for him to move on.

Tom Bernard, one of the church members placed on inactive status and who has been dissatisfied with Grant's ministry expressed regret over the entire matter. "There were no winners in this situation," he said. "Our church lost, our membership lost, and our community lost."

Bernard said he believes the split which occurred in the church will mend in time. "We will try to learn from past mistakes," he said, "and take steps so that this sort of thing will never happen again."

He said he had no plans to drop the charge of battery he filed against church official Terry Wolfe after an alleged scuffle in the church between the two during the August 25 incident. Bernard said he would at least have to talk with the State's Attorney before he dropped the charge.

Grant described his opponents as an unruly group which has spoiled the dreams and visions of the hard-working members of the church.

"I have no bitterness or animosity towards these people," Grant said, "I hope God will be merciful to them."

Mountain Lake Park

by Margo Vandiver, Council Member

One day, not long ago, I was initiated into the matter of street lights. Prior to this involvement I wondered if this designated function was really a necessary one for a council member to oversee. Heavens, it couldn't be as time consuming as sewerage, streets and budget—could it? Well, it really isn't, but it does require coordination. Therefore, in order to "throw some light" on this area I will tell you how a simple request is handled.

A resident requested that the street light at G and Oakland Drive be exchanged for a brighter one. He stressed the amount of traffic using the road was heavy and compared it to other areas with brighter lighting and less traffic. So I called the electric company in Cumberland and finally reached a very helpful gentleman who readily responded to my rudimentary questions on wattage and cost. I discovered that the street light in question was indeed one of the "old" kind according to their records and that the newer mercury vapor bulb would give about triple the light for about double the cost. Presently that one light costs $4.24 per month. (That information is to give you an idea of the cost considering the hundreds we have in Mountain Lake Park.)

I now have informed the resident of these facts and have invited him to attend the next town meeting where this issue will be raised and voted on. Obviously at this point we must weigh the safety factors with those of cost. If you, too, would like to see how this is handled at the next meeting or are concerned about other issues in the community please join us.

Former County Physician Seeks Settlement Action

A former Garrett County physician, Paul P. Williams, has filed a suit in Garrett County Circuit Court asking an action to nullify an award of $152,500 given to Thomas R. and Helen R. Fowler, Deep Creek Lake, which was granted to them on behalf of their son.

According to information in the file, recorded September 8, Dr. Williams and Garrett County Memorial Hospital were named before the Health Claims Arbitration Panel of Maryland concerning care given their son, 11-year-old Craig Fowler.

The panel met in May of this year, and found in favor of the Fowler's claim. Dr. Williams appealed the panel's decision, and was denied that appeal on September 6.

The recent action filed by Williams claims that the award is grossly excessive, and asks that the decision be set aside by the court.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital asked that its part in the Fowler suit be dismissed, and that motion was granted by the arbitration panel during the May deliberations.

There will be a general meeting of the Youth Group next Sunday, September 18, at 2 p.m., at Emmanuel.

Five new members were welcomed by the congregation of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday. They were Kenneth Miller, Esther Beachy, Ruth, Naomi and Anna Yoder. They all live in Grantsville.

The Bethesda Church of the Brethren had a homecoming celebration on Sunday. Paul Yoder was the morning speaker, and a dinner was held at noon. Special music was furnished by the Jubilators.

LCW Meets

A salad supper was shared by members of Emmanuel's LCW on Friday evening with 17 present. A special birthday cake was baked in honor of Mrs. Herbert Buckel. Phyllis Buckel offered thanks before the meal with each member giving thanks for special blessings they enjoy. Margaret Hershberger had the opening devotions. During the business meeting, directed by Beulah Moon, president, a letter was read from the small boy in Brazil sponsored and supported by the group. Reports of the Synodical Convention were given by Betty Buckel, and Linda Buckel gave a report on the Triennial Convention of LCW. An LCW emblem pin was presented to Beulah Moon by Linda Buckel.

It was reported that the LCWs of the Mountain District are in first place in giving of all the units in the W. Pa.-W.Va. Synod. There was an increase of 14%. September 20 was set as the date to finish the comforters. A clothing drive will be held later, and the pickup truck for used clothing will come on December 5. Lyman Schrock gave a gift of money as a memorial for Lawrence Fortney.

Betty Buckel and Maxine Legeer presented the topic "Peace and Justice." Bible readings relating to peace were read by members and discussed, and each member was urged to examine themselves to see how they rank as peacemakers in their community. Programs for the coming year were distributed. The offering was taken and the meeting closed with the missionary benediction.

Zion's LCW Meets

The LCW of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held its monthly meeting in the church on September 4. Five members and Alta Broadwater were in attendance. Mrs. Nellie Yommer presided and led the topic "Wind and Fire, The Power of Pentecost." The chief objective of the program was to identify ways in which the power of the Holy Spirit is active in Christian lives.

The LCW periodicals, Koinoinia and Guidelines, had been received and were distributed to members. Tribute to the memory of Clyde Yommer was made through a special offering received from his wife. This offering for LCW Specifics Ministries was designated for the Kugler Nursing School in Guntur, India, and skill training for women in Zambia. Subscriptions for the devotional guide "Light For Today" were taken. A package of washcloths was sent to the Lutheran Home, Kane, Pa., as a result of the recent LCW project. Dorothy Burow donated men's shirts to be made into gowns for invalids. The meeting adjourned as Mrs. Broadwater led the group in singing "What A Friend." The next meeting is scheduled for October 4.

OAKLAND JETS SQUEEZE BY PARSONS BROWNS

The Oakland Jets notched their third victory to remain undefeated in the Mt. Top Youth Football League Sunday at Southern with a 7-6 squeaker over the Parsons Browns.

The Jets took command early on their first possession with a 65-yard drive to the Browns' end zone. J.R. Bosley capped the drive with a two-yard plunge and Scott Browning banged in for three yards to convert what turned out to be the game's winning point.

The Browns bounced back late in the fourth quarter when Kevin Corcoran unleashed a 72-yard touchdown bomb to Kevin Hebb to put the game within a point.

On the try for the conversion, the Jets linebacker Marty Sharpless shot through the Brown line to stop the runner and conserve the jet victory.

Chopper Evans, Beaver Barb and Kevin Hebb led the Browns defense, while Bosley and Sharpless led the Jets.

The Browns will play the Vikings at Parsons this Saturday, September 17, at 8 p.m.

The Jets will play a similar contest Saturday evening at 5 p.m. against the Raiders for the Oakland community championship. Both teams are undefeated with 3-0 records.

The game in Oakland has been changed from a 8 p.m. start to 5 p.m. because of the nationally televised contest between West Virginia and Maryland later that night.

RAIDERS ROLL TO VICTORY OVER VIKINGS

The Oakland Raiders posted their third victory to remain undefeated with a 19-7 win over the Parsons Vikings this past Sunday at Southern High School to set up a showdown this Saturday evening against the Oakland Jets, also undefeated.

Chris Helbig tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Horner to give the Raiders a 6-0 lead with nine seconds to go in the first quarter. That touchdown came after their first possession which controlled the entire first quarter.

With 2:50 to go in the first half, Feo Polce rambled 32 yards for a Raider touchdown to make it 12-0.

Zack Gibson rolled 12 yards at the close of the third quarter, and Helbig's run for the conversion made it 19-0, Raiders.

Darrell Nestor put the Vikings on the board midway through the fourth period on a three-yard run. Kevin Jones ran for the conversion.

Ed Carr, David Murphy, and Jeremy Smith led the Vikings on defense, while Bobby Thomas and Zack Gibson led the Raiders.

Murphy had a fumble recovery for the Vikes. Gibson grabbed an interception and blocked a point and Chris Helbig also had an interception for the Raiders.

The Vikes play the Browns this Saturday in Parsons at 8 p.m. while the Jets and Raiders square off at 5 p.m. at Southern.

RAMS TOP STEELERS 13-6 IN OVERTIME

The Thomas-Davis Rams registered their first win of the 1983 Mt. Top Youth Football League season with a 13-6 thriller in overtime against the Northern Steelers at the Cove in Accident, Sunday afternoon.

The Rams' lone score in the regulation period came in the third quarter when Jim Drenning broke loose for 14 yards to make it 6-0.

The Steelers came back in the third quarter when Duane Cambell banged in from four yards out to tie the game.

Bob Bush blasted three yards in the overtime with Jim Drenning scoring the point-after to give the Rams the win.

Jim Drenning, John Qualls, and Mike Plauger all had interceptions and recovered fumbles for the Rams on defense. Bob Bush and Carmen DelSignore also aided the Rams on defense.

The Steelers were led defensively by Eddie Lytle, Kevin Selby and Duane Cambell.

The Steelers are idle this week, but play the Vikings on Saturday, September 24, at 8 p.m. at Northern.

The Rams will host the Dolphins this Saturday at 6 p.m. in Parsons.

Rams Open With Easy Victory Over Pocahontas County, 42-14

Paced by Southern High School's veteran defensive unit, the Rams flattened host Pocahontas County Friday evening, 42-14, holding the West Virginians to a minus nine yards rushing in the contest. Coach Tom Woods gave every Southern player a piece of the action by draining the bench in the Rams' season opener.

Pocahontas was held scoreless until the fourth quarter when they recorded a pair of touchdowns against the Southern reserves.

Dave Terrant opened the scoring for the Rams with a two-yard dive in the first quarter. Jim Freeman caught the conversion pass from quarterback J. R. Gibson.

Mike Hill took a nine-yard Gibson pass in the second period for the Rams' second score. The two-point conversion attempt failed. Fullback Tim Tharp carried the ball into the end zone from the one a few minutes later and the Gibson-to-Freeman connection was successful for the two-pointer, to close out the first half of scoring.

The Rams' offensive momentum continued in the third quarter as Freeman pulled down a 40-yard scoring pass from Gibson and Terrant raced to paydirt from 19 yards out. The conversion kick by Gibson after Freeman's score failed, however Dave McLaughlin grabbed Gibson's conversion pass after Terrant's TD, giving Southern a commanding 36-0 lead as the fourth quarter opened.

A seven-yard run by reserve back Bruce Bosley rounded out the Rams' scoring.

A ten-yard run by Pocahontas County's Steve McCloud finally put the home team on the scoreboard. Mike Wallton hit Steve Liptak with a 19-yard touchdown pass and McCloud ran for the two-pointer to complete the game's scoring.

Spearheading the Southern defensive effort were Chris Foley, Dan Clark, and Scott Colaw.

The Rams led in total offense, 289 yards to 155, in a game riddled with penalties. Southern was penalized 113 yards on 13 violations and Pocahontas lost 72 yards on 11 miscues.

Needless to say, Woods was pleased with the performance of his defense. "The strength and quickness of our senior-dominated defense against a very young offensive unit is what really made the difference," he said. "Our offense kept the ball throughout much of the game and our defense played extremely well. I was especially pleased with the performance of our linebackers."

The rout by the Rams was not without injuries, however. Troy Lundquist, senior defensive back, suffered a shoulder injury and is not expected to see action this week. Center John Thayer is questionable for this week because of a bruised knee. Steve Schrock, a starter on specialty teams, received seven stitches for a laceration on his hand, but is expected to play Friday.

The first real test for the Rams this season will be this Friday evening when they host a powerful Central Preston team. Although Central is 0-1 on the season, losing to Bishop Walsh 20-2 on September 2, they possess what Woods said is "a wealth of talent in running backs."

Brad Metheny, a 6-2, 180-pound senior who was named first team All-State in West Virginia last season, was nursing an injured ankle during the Bishop Walsh game, but is expected to be 100 percent against the Rams. Metheny rolled up 1,854 yards last year.

Quarterback Rodney Lovejoy was lost for the season in the BW game, but has been replaced with another outstanding athlete in Greg Metheny, a cousin to Brad, 6-2, 188 pounds, who has been moved from the fullback position. Jeff Thorn, 5-9, 178 pounds, has moved into the fullback slot.

Central also returns eight defensive starters, led by linebacker Ron Gidley, 5-8, 190 pounds, and an enormous tackle in Tim Gawarty, 6-2, 295 pounds.

"Central Preston's offensive backfield is the best we'll face this year," Woods said, "and overall, is probably as good a team as anyone else on our schedule. With 21 seniors, they are looking for an outstanding season, despite their opening loss."

Woods believes that a low-scoring contest is a real possibility, given the strength of both defensive units. However, he said Central's offensive is explosive and could strike quickly.

Kick-off is slated for 8 p.m.

Huskies Shut Out Bruce, 7-0, In Opener; To Host Frankfort

Although facing a rebuilding year, the Northern High Huskies proved Friday night that they are still a team to contend with by shutting our visiting Bruce, 7-0, for the third consecutive year. It was the home opener for both squads.

The Yardstick

Northern		Bruce
6	First Downs Rush	7

237	Total Offense	160
4-21.0	Punts Average	6-25.0
3-15	Penalties Yards	3-35
3-2	Fumbles Lost	1-0

After a defensive battle in the first half, Bill Murray put the Huskies on the board in the third quarter by taking an 18-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Steve Zumpano. Dave George's kick for the conversion was to be the final point in the contest.

The final statistics were not indicative of the score, as the Huskies finished with 237 offensive yards, compared to 160 for the Bulldogs. Two other scoring opportunities for the Huskies were thwarted, however, by turnovers. A 47-yard field goal attempt by George in the third quarter fell just a few yards short of the crossbar.

The defensive backfield of Northern, paced by Jeff Graham, totally shut down the Bulldogs' aerial game as none of their ten pass attempts were completed. Graham set a school record for interceptions in a single game with three and safety Roy Miller, who later left the game with an injury, grabbed one interception.

Phil Carr led Northern with 12 tackles, while Jeff Eggleston recorded ten. Sophomore Bill Friend was responsible for considerable pressure on the Bruce quarterback.

Greg Diehl sparked the Huskies' offense, racing for 102 yards on 18 carries.

Leading the Bulldogs' defensive performance were Jimmy Davis and Tim Ahern, while Ahern collected 62 yards rushing on offense.

"Although we blew a few chances for more points, we were really pleased with our performance," Settle said. "We expected a struggle because Bruce had a more experienced team." The Bulldogs' starting roster contains 13 seniors while Northern starts only six.

Settle noted the play of Carr, Eggleston, Friend, Graham and Jim Swauger on defense and credited the members of his offensive line for their blocking efforts. That line includes George, Carr, Friend, Bill Laird, Swauger, Jeff McClintock and George Walker.

"I thought Steve (Zumpano) played extremely well for his first varsity start and Jeff Graham did an outstanding job blocking from the fullback position," Settle stated. "It was encouraging to have such a balanced performace with our running and passing."

Zumpano finished with 113 yards through the air and the backfield rushed for 124 yards.

Perhaps the toughest test of the season for the Huskies will be this Friday evening at home against unbeaten Frankfort. The Falcons boast wins over two other strong teams this season, Keyser (10-7) and Tucker County (7-0).

"This will be a big challange for our kids and our program," Settle said. "Frankfort is led by a group of former jayvee players who have not been defeated and allowed only six points in two years. They are big, they are strong and they are very well-coached by Jim Fazzalore."

Frankfort's multiple offense is led by quarterback Todd Pyles, a 6-4, 180-pound senior, who is also an accomplished kicker; Craig Scott, 6-0, 190-pound junior fullback; tailbacks Rob Shepherd, 5-9, 145; and Chris Buser, 5-9, 155. "Scott is an extremely powerful runner who is going to be hard to stop," Settle said.

The offinsive line is anchored by center Dave Dixon, 6-3, 205-pound senior; and tackels Stanley Cosner, 6-2, 210-pound senior, and Bob Suesse, 6-2, 215-pound junior.

Settle is also impressed by the defensive play of Darrin Wolford and Brian Mullennex, tackles. Wolford is a 5-10, 205-pounder, and Mullennex is 6-2, 190-pounds. The linebackers are led by Steve Grogg, 5-10, 180-pound senior, and Scott.

Roy Miller, offensive and defensive back for the Huskies, is listed as questionable for Friday's contest, having suffered a knee injury against Bruce.

Kick-off at Northern is set for 7:30 p.m.

Hunting, Fishing Day Exposition Slated At GCC

The first National Hunting & Fishing Day Exposition will be held at Garrett Community College on Saturday, September 24, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the McHenry Campus, according to Hugh B. Trimble, coordinator and assistant professor of Wildlife Management. This event, which is part of a National Exposition Day, is co-sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and GCC.

In addition to Trimble, Al Bourgeois, District Wildlife Biologist, and Mike Gregory, of the Maryland Forest and Parks, are chairing the exposition.

National Hunting and Fishing Day will focus on the importance of conserving natural wildlife resources and the vital role hunters and fishermen play in conservation through license fees and special taxes on sporting equipment, said Trimble. These funds pay for land acquisition, research and management of habitat for fish and wildlife and benefits nonsportsmen as well as sportsmen.

September 24 marks the twelfth annual observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day, Trimble noted. Last year, more than 12 million Americans celebrated the event, sponsored by over 3,000 sportsmen's clubs and conservation organizations nationwide.

The theme is "Sportsmen and Conservation: Building a Future for Wildlife" which is intended to promote hunting and fishing as well as the use of wildlife resources and conservation.

Six demonstrations will be scheduled at various times throughout the day. Archery will be explained by local archer Dale Paugh; muzzle loaders and muzzle loader shooting will be conducted by Doug Bittinger who will also demonstrate the art of tomahawk-throwing; trapping will be discussed by Mike Rhodes of the Maryland Fur Trappers Association, whose demonstration will include techniques and a display of equipment; bird-banding is by Fran Pope, licensed bird-bander and member of the Maryland Ornithological Society; a reptile demonstration will be conducted by Ed Thompson of the Maryland Natural Heritage Program; and turkey calling will be demonstrated by Randy Bodkins, a GCC graduate in the Wildlife Management Technology Program and the 1982 West Virginia Turkey-calling Champion.

Exhibitors will include the Maryland Wildlife Administration, Fisheries Administration, Maryland Forest and Parks Service, Re-loading Exhibition by Sandy Northcraft, Trout Unlimited, Soil Conservation Service, Garrett Bassers and the Natural Wildlife Federation.

For additional information, persons may call Hugh Trimble at 387-6666, 245-4133 or 359-9520, Ext. 127.

A TERRA ALTA NATIVE has a display of creative fiber work at the Ruth Enlow Library until next week. The display, of woven pieces of clothing, is the work of Pam Hardesty, who says she grew up in an environment of fiber work—"enormous amounts of sewing, a heritage of traditional quilting, crochet, embroidery, and tatting." Her display has been inspired largely by interests in Celtic and medieval design, and the handweaving has been supplemented by work in other fiber techniques such as stitchery, applique, and smocking. Included in the display is a medieval vest in applique techniques of satins, velvets, and handwoven bands, with a handwoven insert of honeycomb weave. A handwoven cotton blouse with accents of eight-harness huck lace ornamented with traditional smocking and other handwoven garments inspired by Celtic cultures complete the display. Miss Hardesty, who is presently employed as a production weaver at the Ann Jones Studio, Penn Alps, Grantsville, is planning to study tapestry technique in San Francisco this winter in preparation for entering the apprenticeship program at the Scheuer Tapestry Studio in New York. She has studied art and art theory at the University of Chicago and studied handweaving technique and design at the Haywood Technical Institute in North Carolina. Her feeling that "Cloth is a natural and comfortable medium of expression" is enhanced by her apprenticeship with Colleen Greiner, with whom she studied rugs and handwoven designs in Greensboro, N. C., and Louise Todd Cope, associated with Penland School of Crafts, Penland, N. C. She has also studied garment construction and design with Elsie Eagle and tapestry with Patricia Lyster. The artist says she comes to weaving "for its intricacy, its complex and rich historical tradition, its vast range of cultural forms, and technical possibilities," and manages to translate these feelings into a visible whole, as pictured here. She says she enjoys the "feel" of the fibers, the manipulation of texture as well as structure, and enjoys the fact that images in weaving are constructed rather than applied to a surface. Noting that weaving is a very tactile art as well as a strong visual art, she says she is excited by the intensity and purity of color possible and cites her interest in Celtic and medieval themes as suggestions for her work which reflects her interest in the study of symbols, of dream images, and the mechanics of the creative process.

THERE IS ALWAYS ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Although it may seem to be the same pharmacy you have always depended upon for your health needs, there have actually been a great many behind-the-scenes changes. These changes have resulted in better service to our customers and to their physicians.

New systems for keeping track of seldom-used medicines, better controlled conditions for storage of many drugs, more detailed records of family prescriptions, a larger inventory of new drugs are just a few of the changes we have made. We feel it is our duty to provide the most up-to-date pharmacy service that is possible.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT THE PROPHETS ARE SAYING
September 18, 1983

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 18:15-22; Amos 7:10-15; 5:21-24; Micah 6:8.

Devotional Reading:
Amos 7:1-9.

There has always been one main problem with prophets and prophecy: how do you determine which prophet speaks for God and which prophecy is true?

It may seem to us that the Bible is loaded with prophets and prophecies, but actually they are but a very, very small proportion of those who appeared in what we regard as Biblical times. The Bible records for us the names and words of those who in retrospect are regarded as having been authentic messengers for God. With few exceptions, it has not recorded for us the names of those who were ultimately judged to have been false prophets--a multitude by comparison.

How May We Know?

Something else becomes apparent: many of the prophets were not regarded as God's messengers during their own time. More often than not, these judgements were made later--meaning: usually too late! Deuteronomy acknowledges this problem. "And if you say in your heart, 'How may we know the word which the Lord has spoken?' -- when a prophet speaks in the name of the Lord, if the word does not come to pass or come true, that is a word which the Lord has not spoken." (18:21,22)

The problem is that we often do not have the luxury of waiting to see if this prophet or that prophet is confirmed by history. For example, two years ago a religious prophet of sorts proclaimed that in November of that year a great natural disaster would strike Florida and it would be utterly destroyed. Inasmuch as we had accepted a speaking engagement in Florida at that time, we were placed in the position of making some evaluation of this prophecy. Of course, we decided to keep the engagement and as I write these words Florida stands pretty much as always. Yet, some people we know heeded the prophecy and moved to another state.

He Has Showed You

Yet, we must remember that God's messengers are not just foretellers of future events. They come to tell us about what is happening in the present, too. Amos came to tell the people of his day what was displeasing to God: "I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies." Even more, however, he came to tell the people what God really wanted: "But let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream." And Micah's message was just as contemporary: "He has showed you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God."

We may not always be able to discern prophetic predictions of the future until it has become the present. But when we hear voices talking to us, like Amos and Micah, about what God really wants from us--justice, righteousness, kindness--we need not wait to know that God has raised up a prophet in our midst.

FARM-O-GRAM

Milk Refund Program Begins

Dairy producers who wish a refund of their second 50-cent per cwt. deduction for milk marketing should establish their base marketing at their county ASCS office. The dairy refund program went into effect Sept. 1 with implementation of the second 50 cent milk marketing deduction. To be eligible for a 1982-83 marketing year refund, producers must reduce their commerical milk marketing for Sept. 1, 1983 through Sept. 30, 1983 by 8.4 percent from the September average of the two marketing years that began Oct. 1, 1980. To be eligible for a 1983-84 marketing year refund, producers must reduce their commercial milk marketing by 8.4 percent for the period Oct. 1, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1984. Average annual marketing between Oct. 1, 1980 through Sept. 30, 1982 will be the producer's base marketing. Acceptable documentation of milk marketing are payment receipts or statements from milk handlers that show both the amount of milk sold each month during the base period and the upcoming refund period. Receipts for the refund period should also show the amount of money deducted for USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to help offset the cost of the milk support program. Producers may establish their bases at the County ASCS office anytime during the market year. Producers may file applications for 1982-83 marketing year refunds from Oct. 1, 1983 through Dec. 31, 1983. The amount refunded will be the amount the producer paid to CCC in excess of the first, nonrefundable, 50-cent deduction. For additional information contact Geep Halterman at 334-9646.

Thanks to Oakland Southern States Co-op.

Thanks to Oakland Southern States I now have a hay moisture tester available for your use. This tester can check moisture either in the bale or in the windrow. Of course, I would suggest testing the hay before baling. You can schedule the use of the tester by contacting my office at 334-2145.

European Corn Borer - Problem in Some Corn Fields

There are 2 or 3 generations of corn borers during a growing season. The first generation's eggs are laid by the female after corn is at least 12 inches tall. If the borer was a problem for this year, close observation will be necessary next season. Treat when 50% of the plants show feeding in the late whorl stage. There is no control for the second generation - the older larvae will tunnel into the stalk and overwinter; therefore, either plow under or rotary mow old stalks this fall or early spring. If you notice fallen stalks or ear drop in your fields, you may find the borer in the stalk.

Hay - for Sale?

I have had several people call me wanting to know if I knew of anyone having hay for sale. If you have hay for sale I would appreciate your calling my office with the appropriate information.

TO SPEED UP OR NOT

Most people are familiar with the word "acceleration." Every time they drive a car they use an "accelerator." Acceleration means an increase in speed or action. That same word is also used with regard to a type of clause that may be found in your mortgage.

An acceleration clause in a mortgage gives the home owner—the mortgagor—the right to increase his monthly payments. Or if he wishes, he can pay up the mortgage in full at any time. This sounds pretty good to some home owners, and they may think that this kind of a clause always works to their advantage. But our advice in that regard is: "Be careful!" The acceleration clause can work the other way too, like a twin-blade razor.

It can be used by the holder of the mortgage—the mortgagee—to speed up the balance due on a mortgage immediately after any default. The moral, of course, is to check ALL the ramifications of mortgage and contract clauses. Your Realtor and attorney know all the "ins and outs" about interpreting clauses, and can help you tread carefully when things are not as they seem to appear!

APPRAISALS

HUSKY HALLS

Viking Wins Medalist

The Viking won a Medalist from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association critique for the ninth year in a row. The Medalist ranking is given to publications selected from the first place ratings. This honor, the associations' highest rankings, is based on those qualities evident to the judges that could be characterized as the "personality" of the entry.

While no specific score is attached to the Medalist rankings, it is seldom given to publications with less than top scores. Generally, not more than ten percent of the entries in a given classification receive this special distinction.

Band Camp

The band members held an overnight camp at Camp Hickory in August. During this time, the band, drill team, and majorettes learned and practiced a half-time field show, to be performed during football season. A presentation of the band's effort was put on for their families. Band pictures were taken also.

Freshman Orientation

An orientation was held September 7 for the freshmen students. Lisa Zuckerman, student council president, discussed the intentions and goals of the student council. A brief summary was given about the purpose of the various clubs in the school. They were taught several popular cheerleading sidelines by the junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders.

Fund Raisers

The girls' varsity volleyball team is selling lollipops for ten cents each. They are also selling candy after school in the phys. ed. lobby.

The football team is selling raffle tickets for an Atari Home Video game; the winner will be announced Friday, September 16, at the football game.

Wildlife Assembly

"Animals Nobody Loves", an Antrim Bureau show was presented to ninth and tenth graders recently. The program featured live specimens from the wildlife rehabilitation center operated by Wildlife Images in Grants Pass, Oregon. Animals included skunks, vultures, spiders, coyotes and bats.

FFA Trip

Hoagie Sale

The Girls' Athletic Association is selling hoagies. They will be delivering them September 17.

New Faculty Members

Several teachers have joined the faculty this year: Mrs. Linda Youmans, Family Life; Miss Vera Graham, General Business; Bob Hetrick, Auto Mechanics; Jeff Montgomery, Building Trades; Mrs. Pam Spurrier, Special Education; Mrs. Mary Ann Hare, Vocational Support Team Aide; James Kuhn, Vocational Support Team Supervisor.

Computer Class

A new addition to the regular classes is the computer class. Gerald Snelson teaches this class, which is limited to seniors only. This class involves learning about the computer and being able to communicate with one, using the basic language. The 25 boys and girls are now learning commands in basic. It is more a "project-oriented" class than a "test-oriented" class. It has two Apple Computers, but will receive Commodore computers soon.

FHA Program for the Year

The FHA is presently setting up their program for the year and need speakers skilled in any craft related to the home to come in to demonstrate their art (drapery making, furniture refinishing, arts/crafts, upholstering, how to care for a car etc.). Any one willing to share his expertise should contact Ray Kearney or Mrs. Joanny Martin at the school.

HCO Program Workshop Slated

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College will hold a free workshop Wednesday, September 21, from 10 a.m. to noon entitled "Moving Forward/Who Are You?" to be conducted by Sandra Schofield, Outreach/-Job Awareness Coordinator of the HCO Program. The workshop will be held in Room 306 of the Oakland Center of GCC.

This workshop will make an effort to assist women in transition. "Many women may not be prepared to make career decisions if the need arises because of having spent most of their years as a homemaker serving the needs of their families," Ms. Schofield said. "Often the homemaker has given little thought to her own desires or needs. If she must seek employment outside the home due to economic necessity she may be ill prepared to deal with the situation. This problem and others will be discussed during this workshop."

All interested persons are invited to attend this free workshop. To register, or for furth information they may c 334-9184.

'Angel' alumnae try for new series success

By Peter Meade

Kate Jackson

Two "Charlie's Angels" alumnae hope to regain their TV stardom in new CBS series.

Kate Jackson, who was an Angel from the show's debut in September 1976 until 1979, stars with Bruce Boxleitner in "Scarecow and Mrs. King." Shelley Hack, who replaced Miss Jackson on the series, stars as a doctor in "Cutter to Houston."

Miss Jackson has been looking to do a series since exiting the "Angels." She got into movie work, including the controversial "Making Love," but found that TV was more to her liking.

"I can't stand working for four months and making a big heap of money" says Miss Jackson, "and then spending the rest of the time trying to decide who to lunch with."

She's now busy playing Amanda King, a single mother of two, living in the Washington, D.C. area. Mrs. King leaves her world of dirty dishes and car pools behind and accidentally becomes the partner of government agent Lee Stetson (Boxleitner), otherwise known as "Scarecow."

"On 'Charlie's Angels' everything was under control," says Miss Jackson. "There was no room or growth. With Amanda, there is the right mix of vulnerability and capability. You never know what she's going to do next. You never know if she'll shut up or what trouble she'll get into."

Be sure there will be plenty of trouble for her to get into every Monday night. But she won't be a damsel in distress, because the Scarecow might just be the most bumbling secret agent since Don Adams of "Get Smart."

Television may need another hospital show as much as a hypochondriac needs another aumoni, but Miss Hack's role as Dr. Beth Gordon on "Cutter to Houston" represents a positive step.

The former Angel shares the top billing with Jim Metzler, who played Matt Dillon's older brother in the movie "Tex"; and soap graduate Alec Baldwin. The Saturday night series revolves around the trio as they run a small hospital in Cutter, Texas.

The series hopes to balance the realism of "St. Elsewhere," the buddy-buddyism of "M*A*S*H" and the bedside manner of "Marcus Welby, M.D." Despite all the good intentions, it will probably be on the critical list shortly.

Actors prosper with L.A.-N.Y. connection

By Elaina Thompson

Ted Shackelford

Bicoastal: The first few times it hit the ear, it sounds, well, witty. Then, through overuse, the description went from apt, to cute, to cutesy, to questionable, to ughh. And that's too bad, maybe. Because it still defines the choices that actors, producers and directors have to make to keep working, and keep their careers perking, as opposed to what their colleagues in England do not have to do.

A London-based actor can, for weeks, even months, schedule daytime drives to and from movie studios that are only 20 minutes out of town and still get to the theater on time for a live evening stage performance in the West End, then zip home to city digs or nearby suburban homes.

The United States' equivalent of the West End is Broadway, but television and movies still come to life in Hollywood, several thousand miles across the continent.

Not all New Yorkers were born there. One who was, and who was the most consistent bicoastal traveler was comedian-actress Anne Meara, when she was appearing on "Archie Bunker's Place." The show originated in California, so she'd take the last plane from New York on Friday night and wing home to her husband, Jerry Stiller, and their two children. They do take separate acting jobs, but in recent years they've parlayed their Stiller and Meara comedy act into writing and producing — as well as appearing in — lucrative batches of commercials.

Their roomy apartment is in the heart of Manhattan and their production office is just a few blocks away. If a taxi doesn't come within hailing distance, she could walk. In Hollywood, she has the jitters until the rented limousine pulls up to her rented house. She doesn't drive.

Current bicoastal travelers include Nancy Dussault of "Too Close for Comfort," Ted Shackelford of CBS' "Knots Landing" and Joel Higgins of "Silver Spoons." Rod Steiger has learned to enjoy "the quieter life of California," but his long-time New York City apartment is always available when he comes East. This fall Steiger will be starring with Richard Chamberlain in a major CBS special, "Cook and Peary: The Race to the Pole." As much as Steiger loves New York City a gleam comes into his eyes when he mentions California: That's where his tennis cronies are.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

TWO PATTIS — For the past several weeks a new actress has been playing Patti on "The Young and the Restless." Will the other girl be back? — R.B., Gastonia, N.C.

No, Andrea Evans-Massey has taken over the role from Lilibet Stern. Lilibet wanted to pursue other things and she has been in Canada appearing in a musical.

Betty Buckley

LADY CAT — I would like an address for Betty Buckley, who played Abby on "Eight Is Enough." Can you help? — L.K., Verndale, Minn.

Betty is starring on Broadway in the musical "Cats," in which she gets to sing a beautiful song called "Memory" every night. (Maybe you've heard Barry Manilow or Barbra Streisand's version on the radio.) People who saw her on "Eight Is Enough" may not be aware that she is a fine musical performer. While she was still filming the TV series, Betty doubled in Los Angeles as the star of "I'm Getting My Act Together and Taking It on the Road." She took over for the original lady, Greichen Cryer. Anyway, write to her in care of "Cats" at the Winter Garden Theatre, 1634 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

STILL THERE — Did NBC cancel "Mama's Family"? — Wondering in Oakford, Pa.

No. The series just completed filming its last episode for the season. It will be back next fall on Thursdays on NBC.

THE SAD NEWS — Bob Barker's wife was often in the audience of "The Price Is Right." What happened to her? — Mrs. C.P., Billings, Mont.

Barker's wife died of cancer nearly two years ago.

Leigh Taylor-Young

LOVES LEIGH — I loved Leigh Taylor-Young on "The Hamptons." I know she was on "Peyton Place." What year was that series on and has she ever done any other series? — J.L.R., Dallas.

Lovely Leigh played Rachael Welles during the show's 1967-1968 season. The show was on from 1964 to 1969. Other than that and the recent ABC series, she has never done another series.

IN FOCUS

'Cagney & Lacey' may return in the movies

By Peter Meade

Barney Rosenzweig

This is a week of mourning for the fans of "Cagney & Lacey" and all the other network series that will not be returning when the new season begins next week.

But the loyal followers of CBS' female cop series shouldn't despair. Series producer Barney Rosenzweig has not given up the cause even though the network has.

"I called everybody when it was canceled," says Rosenzweig. "I said, 'Don't let this one die.' I believe after one more year 'Cagney & Lacey' could have become part of TV history like 'Barney Miller' and 'M*A*S*H.'" Rosenzweig's pleas became justified this summer. The networks found that "serial series," like "Dallas" and "Dynasty," do not pull high ratings in rerun season, while "C&L" became a member of the rating's top 20 during its final airings. The show also received four Emmy nominations, including one each for the title characters played by Tyne Daly and Sharon Gless.

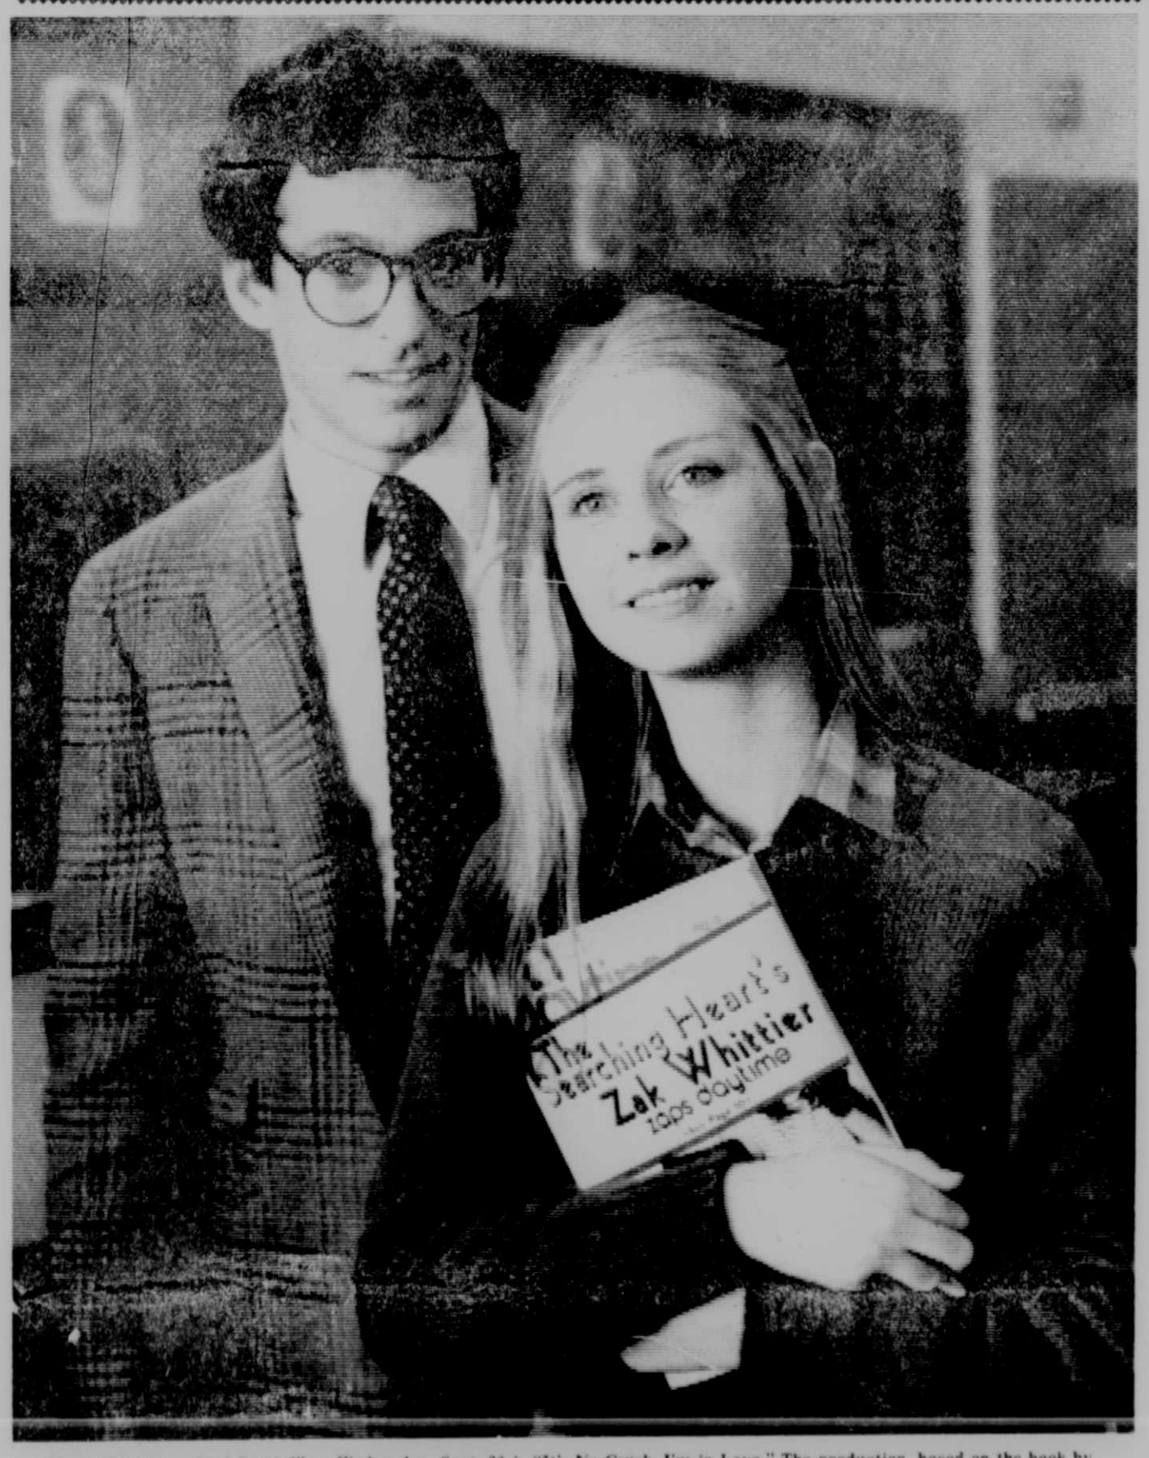
"I'm thinking about 'Cagney & Lacey: The Movie,'" says Rosenzweig. "It would be a theatrical release. You can't save a series with a TV movie."

Rosenzweig is trying to convince his new employer, Orion Television, to give him the OK on the project.



"The economy of making a movie for TV is glutted. There are so many, they are selling movies for less than they did five years ago. 'Cagney & Lacey' is a show that refuses to die and I'm excited about doing things we couldn't do on TV."

He even has a script developed. It's from a "60 Minutes" story and CBS was nervous about using it, because, Rosenzweig says, it's "juicy and explicit."

"Most shows on TV are cartoons," says Rosenzweig. "They have a finite amount of ideas. There are only so many shows about a car that talks. But realism goes on forever and that is the potential I see in 'Cagney & Lacey.'"

Since he isn't working on new "C&L" episodes for the first time in three seasons, Rosenzweig and his wife, Barbara Corday (producer of "Reggie"), enjoyed their summer at a rented California beach house.

"The nice thing about failure in this community," says Rosenzweig, "is that you get a vacation in Malibu."

The "ABC Afterschool Special" on Wednesday, Sept. 21 is "It's No Crush, I'm in Love." The production, based on the book by June Foley, stars Cynthia Nixon as Ann Cassidy, a teen-ager who is in love with her teacher (played by Mark LaMura).

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Willie joins 'EON'; Carolyn's birthday

By Kimberly Redmond

Willie Aames

Teen-age heartthrob Willie Aames joined the cast of "Edge of Night" a couple of weeks ago for a 13-week stint as the mysterious Video Disco owner, Robbie Hamlin.

Making his daytime television debut, Aames' character will wreak havoc with the lovelife of "EON's" happy couple, Jody Travis (Lori Loughlin) and Preacher (Charles Flohe).

"This character is really a departure for me, and that's one of the reasons I wanted to do it," says 22-year-old Aames. "I even changed my hairstyle (his usually dark locks have been dyed blond and straightened somewhat) for the part. I'm also a big fan of the show, and particularly enjoy working with Lori, since we worked together on the 'Tom Swift/Linda Craig Mysteries' TV movie."

"I'm very much involved in my work and I give my best effort to everything I attempt," says Aames, who has appeared in the unmemorable films "Hog Wild," "Bull from the Sky," "Scavenger Hunt" and "Paradise." For four seasons he was seen as Tommy Bradford on the ABC series "Eight Is Enough."

Aames, who lives in Southern California, brought his wife, Vickie, and their 2-year-old son, Christopher, to New York City for the duration of his run on "EON."

Julie Parrish (Maggie Brady on "Capitol") did her bit and more for charity recently when she won a Celebrity Typing Contest held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in California. The grand prize of $5,000 was donated to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Later, Miss Parrish went to Santa Clara, Calif., where she was part of a winning tennis team at the Celebrity Tennis Classic. Proceeds from that win were donated to the American Cancer Society.

Carolyn Clark (Lesley Ann Monroe) was "kidnapped" by her "Guiding Light" friends Ellen Dolan (Maureen Bauer), Marsha Clark (Hillary Bauer) and another friend not on the show, who helped the blonde lovely celebrate her 25th birthday with a surprise party. Carolyn and her friends, including her boyfriend, Harry, shared a twilight cruise around Manhattan on a chartered boat. The group danced and partied well into the wee hours of the night.

CINDY SAYS

Off to see the 'Wizard'; Peggy casts her musical

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Jack Haley Jr., son of the Tin Man in "The Wizard of Oz" and former son-in-law of its star Judy Garland (Junior was once Liza Minnelli's husband), has clamped onto some missing "Wizard" footage. "The Jitterbug," a song and dance segment that had been axed entirely, was found in the home of the film's composer Harold Arlen. Arlen's home movies of the segment, taken from a camera angle behind the scene, show a prop-man inside a prop tree moving the branches to the music. Haley Jr., producer of ABC's "Ripley's Believe It or Not!," will air this sequence on his show.

Henry Kissinger will address the first annual Sam Levenson Cultural and Arts Foundation Dinner at the Grand Hyatt in New York City on Dec. 4. Proceeds go to Sam's center at the Far Rockaway YM-YWHA... Peggy Lee is feverish for Dustin Hoffman to play her love, Dave Barbour, and for Maureen Stapleton or Colleen Dewhurst to play the stepmother in her musical "Peg."

The $5 million fee Sylvestor Stallone is grabbing for "Rhinestone" is a zircon compared to his take for "Rocky IV": $15 million... Cher's six-bedroom shack in Los Angeles is up for rent at $27,000 per month. To buy it's $6.4 mil.

Dyan Cannon is looking to marry Michael Brandon, whose credits include that he once romanced Lindsay Wagner... Last year Mount Airy Lodge in the Poconos gave Phyllis Diller a gold social security card with her number in rubies for her 65th birthday. This year maybe they'll give her a Senior Citizen bus card in platinum.

Cathy Lee Crosby is the new spokesperson for Sweet 'n Low. Her one-year deal with options pays $100,000-plus this year, more the next. There are several reasons Cathy Lee was picked: 1. She's beautiful, slim, terrific, etc. 2. She actually uses the product. 3. Research has proven she's an actress who's popular with women. 4. Her boyfriend works for the ad agency.

Alternative programming

Sports fans already know what they will be doing on New Year's Day watching football. But Enter-Tel Inc. will be presenting some alternative programming on the first day of 1984 with the first 90-minute satellite telecast of the Vienna Philharmonic, conducted by Lorin Maazel.

"The New Year's Day concert by the Vienna Philharmonic has been a family viewing tradition throughout Europe, the Far East and South America for the past 26 years," says Jann Steinmann, president of Enter-Tel.

The telecast, which will be broadcast via an ad hoc network, will feature both live and taped dance performances along with scenes of Vienna. It will also be simulcast on radio in most of North America.

Jennifer O'Neill

Future productions

Two members of the defunct "Bare Essence" series, Ian McShane and Jennifer O'Neill, will be part of the all-star cast for the NBC miniseries "A.D."

John Houseman and James Mason will also be featured in the story about the growing conflict among the Jewish zealots, early Christians and the Roman Empire.

Production has begun on "Air Force," a two-hour ABC drama set during the turbulent days of the Cuban missile crisis.

Cindy Pickett, Craig T. Nelson and Keenan Wynn star in the story of an Air Force pilot who is sent over Russia to take reconnaissance photographs.

Carol Burnett and opera star Placido Domingo will begin work on their "Burnett Discovers Domingo" CBS special next month. It will be taped at Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Daniel Hugh-Kelly (l.) and Brian Keith are the stars of "Hardcastle and McCormick," which premieres Sunday, Sept. 18 on ABC.

PUBLIC NOTICES

AMENDMENT TO TOWN CHARTER

WHEREAS, Section 21 of the Public Local Laws of Garrett County, Maryland, sets forth the charter of the Town of Kitzmillerville, and, whereas by resolution of the Mayor and Council of said Town at its regular meeting of September 7, 1983, it resolved to replace the existing charter.

AND, WHEREAS in such situations the law provides for publication of a fair summary of the variations from the Model Charter set forth in Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland, as amended, the following is published as such:

Variations from model charter as set forth in Article 23B, Annotated Code of Maryland, as amended.

The Council, Section 5 - Number of councilmen: selection; term.

All legislative powers of the town are vested in a council consisting of four councilmen who shall be elected as here-in-after provided and who shall hold office for a term of four years or until the succeeding council takes office. The regular term of councilmen shall expire on the fourth Monday following the election of their successors. Councilmen holding office at the time this charter becomes effective shall continue to hold office for the term for which they were elected and until the succeeding council takes office under the provisions of this charter.

Meetings of Council, Section 8.

The newly elected council shall meet at 7:00 p.m. on the fourth Monday of each month following its election for the purpose of organization, after which the council shall meet regularly at such times as may be prescribed by its rules but not less frequently than once each month. Special meetings shall be called by the clerk-treasurer upon the request of the mayor or a majority of the members of the council. All meetings of the council shall be open to the public, and the rules of the council shall provide that residents of the town shall have a reasonable opportunity to be heard at any meeting in regard to any municipal question.

Referendum, Section 16.

New charter provides for application of its Sections 91 and 92 to levying of special assessments instead of Section 92 and 93 as in the model charter.

The Mayor - Selection and term, Section 18.

The mayor shall be elected as here-in-after provided and shall hold office for a term of two years or until his successor is elected and qualified. The newly elected mayor shall take office on the fourth Monday following his election. The mayor holding office at the time this charter becomes effective shall continue to hold office for the term for which he was elected and until his successor takes office under the provisions of this charter.

Board of Supervisors of elections, Section 26.

There shall be a board of supervisors of elections, consisting of three members who shall be appointed by the mayor with approval of the council on or before the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January in every even-numbered year. The terms of members of the board of supervisors of elections being on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March in the year in which they are appointed and run for four years. Members of the board of supervisors of elections shall be qualified voters of the town and shall not hold or be candidate for any elective office during their term of office. The board shall appoint one of its members as chairman. Vacancies on the board shall be filled by the mayor with the approval of the council for the remainder of the unexpired term. The compensation of the members of the board shall be determined by the council.

Filing certificate of nomination, Section 32.

Persons may be nominated for elective office in the town by filing a certificate of nomination at the office of the board of supervisors of elections on or before the second Tuesday after the first Monday in January next preceding the town election. No person shall file for nomination to more than one elective town public office or hold more than one elective town public office at one time.

Primary election; municipal meeting or convention, Section 33.

(a) Time of holding; conduct of primary election—A primary election or municipal meeting or convention shall be held in the town on the fourth Monday in January in every even-numbered year, in order to select candidates for the general election on the second Tuesday in February. The primary election shall be conducted generally as specified in this subtitle for the conduct of special and general elections. Candidates' names shall appear in alphabetical order for the office sought, on the ballots or voting machine labels, with no party designation of any kind. If not more than ten persons have filed as candidates for the office of councilman, or if not more than two persons have filed for the office of mayor, no primary election shall be held as to that office or those offices. In such instances those nominated for the mayor or the nominees for councilman shall be considered as nominees and their names shall be placed on the ballots or voting machines at the general election on the second Tuesday in May. Of the candidates participating in the primary election, the two persons receiving the highest number of votes cast for the office of mayor and the ten candidates receiving the highest number of votes cast for the office of councilman shall be named and considered as nominees at the general municipal election following.

(b) Town meeting or convention—Candidates for the general election may be chosen at a town meeting or convention, at the time specified herein. Such meeting or convention for the selection of candidates shall be conducted generally according to accepted parliamentary procedure. In other respects, nominations at town meetings or conventions wherever applicable, shall be conducted as specified herein for primary elections.

Election of mayor and councilmen, Section 34.

On the first Tuesday in February in every even-numbered year, the qualified voters of the town shall elect one person as mayor and two persons as councilmen. Council so elected shall serve for four years. Mayor elected shall serve for two years.

Conduct of elections generally, Section 35.

It is the duty of the board of supervisors of elections to provide for each special and general election a suitable place or places for voting and suitable ballot boxes and ballots and/or voting machines. The ballots and/or voting machines shall show the name of each candidate nominated for elective office in accordance with the provisions of this charter, arranged in alphabetical order by the office with no party designation of any kind. The board of supervisors of election shall keep the polls open from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on election days or for longer hours if the council requires it.

Authority to employ personnel, Section 67.

The proposed new charter has no specific provision authorizing employment of officers and employees as set forth in model charter.

Compensation of employees, Section 72.

The proposed new charter has no provision for fixing compensation of officers or employees by ordinance except as set forth in other provisions of the new charter.

In addition to publication of these variances, the entire proposed new charter shall be on deposit for inspection by interested citizens at the Town Hall on Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and at the Town Branch of Ruth Enlow Library on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from noon to 5:00 p.m., and on Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Unless a petition for referendum is duly filed, this new charter shall take effect fifty days from September 7, 1983, and shall be filed with the appropriate State agencies at Annapolis, Maryland.

Passed September 7, 1983.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear mother, on her birthday. She passed away four years ago. The home I remember from my childhood days was a home that was magic in so many ways. Built and sustained by a family's love, as lasting and warm as the sun up above. Furnished by sympathy, kindness and more, with friendship that welcomed each guest at the door. Surrounded by meadows of laughter and joy, with a garden of memories that time can't destroy, and looking back now as my memory blooms, I know that the magic that filled every room, came straight from the heart and the hands of no other than you, my devoted and wonderful mother.

Sadly missed,
Daughter Mary

Board of Education Policy #474.20 and Procedures 474.21, the "Confidentiality of Student Records Policy," establishes the guidelines that the Garrett County Public Schools employ.

The provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the student which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools; to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

The policy goes on to spell out types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases there is a charge for copies of student records.

Hazardous Waste Violation Draws Fine Of $5,000

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs and Garrett County State's Attorney James L. Sherbin announced this week that a Garrett County businessman has been convicted of illegally dumping hazardous wastes there and been fined $5,000.

Bernard Ernest Burns, 58, owner of Bernie Burns Grinding Service, 237 N. Third Street, Oakland, pleaded guilty Thursday to violating the state's controlled hazardous substance law last June by pouring waste solutions containing sodium cyanide and nitric acid down a floor drain that led from his place of business to the nearby Youghiogheny River, according to Assistant Attorney General Charles R. Taylor, Jr., of the Hazardous Waste Strike Force.

A confidential informant alerted the State Police assigned to the Strike Force about illegal dumping, which they investigated and confirmed, Taylor told Allegany County Circuit Court Judge Gary Leasure, who accepted Burns' guilty plea in Garrett County Circuit Court. Burns is the first person in Garrett County to be charged by the Hazardous Waste Strike Force, Taylor said.

Judge Leasure placed the defendant on probation for 90 days and ordered him to remove all hazardous wastes from his property under the supervision of state health department officials. The cost of the clean-up will be deducted from his $5,000 fine, the Judge said.

Evidence showed that Burns, a resident of Mountain Lake Park, chemically treated solutions containing the hazardous substances at his Oakland business and then dumped the residue from the treatment down the drain. The Garrett County grand jury returned a one-count indictment against him late Wednesday charging that he unlawfully established, operated and maintained a controlled hazardous substance facility at this business without having a permit to do so.

CLEAR, COLD NIGHTS, which are now becoming more frequent on the mountaintop, allow for some interesting photography work as evidenced by the above time-lapse photo of the heavens. The short, bold white streaks are the points of the Big Dipper and the long streak from right to left is a falling star, or meteor. The circular effect indicates the rotation of the earth. Board Decides Not To Abandon County Roads

The Garrett County commissioners stated Tuesday they have shelved the idea of abandoning about 19 county roads, an idea first publicized in February.

The commissioners, after a February public hearing in which citizens protested abandoning all but one road, have attempted to visit all the areas considered for abandonment.

One road, the southern end of Pea Ridge Road, was abandoned in March.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said the commissioners decided that unless financial conditions of the county dictate abandoning the roads, they probably will leave them in the county system.

Commissioner Elwood Groves added that there actually was little cost savings to be realized by abandoning the roads because the county actually does not spend much on maintenance in those areas, but does receive a state subsidy of $1,900 per mile of county road through the gasoline tax.

The commissioners also said they didn't believe that any efficiency gained in the county roads department as a result of abandoning the roads would really outweigh the inconvenience to those using the roads.

Commissioner John Braskey said one misunderstood point about abandoning roads is that those roads abandoned by the county would still remain open for public access and could not be barricaded by a road owner.

In other business, the commissioners met with county school superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage and assistant superintendent James Lupis to discuss the school system's capital improvement program. The commissioners noted they concurred with the program, but reserved endorsement until they received confirmation of this fiscal year's revenue sharing allotment.

The commissioners explained that to endorse the program would be a commitment to fund the local share, money they may not have without the revenue sharing funds.

The commissioners also discussed, during the afternoon press conference, the unemployment situation in Western Maryland. They stated they did not endorse Senator John Bambacus' call for a special General Assembly session to address the unemployment problem in Western Maryland.

Commissioner Gregg stated that he believed the committee appointed to analyze the unemployment situation should be allowed to complete its work, because of the seriousness of the problem.

They indicated they believed extending unemployment benefits or providing training for jobs not available in this area was not the answer. What is needed they stated, is state assistance to the counties to attract business.

One area they say the state could help the county is to help solve its sewage problems which in some areas they say are critical.

Committee Seeking Alternatives To Ten-Percent Liquor Surcharge

Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Bambacus, in response to campaign promises made last year, have organized a committee to seek and evaluate alternatives to the county's present ten-percent surcharge for liquor license holders based on ten percent of their alcoholic beverage purchases.

The ten-percent charge is paid to the county quarterly, according to Joseph Wolf, administrative officer for the liquor control board. This tax brought in $126,519.24 for the county in 1982-83 from the 51 holders of the Special Class D (beer, wine and liquor) licenses.

Special Class D licenses cost $800 per year plus the 10 percent surcharge.

Commissioner John Braskey was asked to serve as chairman of the committee, which includes Robert Fousek, county clerk; William Naylor, Brenda Butscher and George Meese, liquor control board members; Wolf; and license holders Roger Ruff, Ed Bosley and Roger Resh.

As Braskey explained the committee's goal Tuesday, the group is to come up with alternatives to the surcharge which would still provide approximately the same amount of income for the county, whether this may be through increasing the liquor licenses, a restructuring of the overall licenses, or some other plan.

Braskey was to meet this morning at 9 with license holders and tomorrow with the liquor board to get both opinions before holding a joint meeting. He noted he should have some definite suggestions from the group by next week.

Edwards Speaks

Del. Edwards said Tuesday that he had been approached during his campaign and had promised to try to have the ten percent surcharge removed. He also noted that during his round of community meetings, other citizens had felt that raising the amount charged for an alcoholic beverage license would make many owners think twice before opening more bars, taverns and liquor stores.

Some citizens also apparently feel that elimination of the surcharge would help prevent misrepresentation of sales.

Susan Crawford Promoted To General Counsel For U.S. Army

Susan J. Crawford, partner in the Oakland firm of Burnett, Eiswert, Crawford, and Janes, has been appointed General Counsel of the United States Army. The appointment, announced on September 12, was made by the Secretary of the Army John O. Marsh, Jr., for the Reagan administration.

Crawford is the first woman to fill this position during a Republican administration, and she is now the highest ranking woman in the Department of Defense, with the equivalent protocol ranking of a four-star general. Prior to her appointment, she had served as Principal Deputy General Counsel, a position she had held for the past two years.

As General Counsel, Crawford will be the chief lawyer for the United States Army, responsible for approximately 2,200 military and civilian lawyers throughout the world who are affiliated with the Army. Her chief function will be to give legal advice to the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary of Army, and the Five Assistant Secretaries of the Army.

Areas of her primary responsibility include procurement, environmental matters, military and civilian affairs, and intelligence oversight. She will also approve all legislation going from the Army to Capitol Hill. In recent months she has been involved with Vice President George Bush's South Florida drug task force effort and with the proposed Army initiatives dealing with women in the Army.

About her new position in the Pentagon, Crawford says, "I compare my new job to practicing law in Garrett County. Every day brings a new challenge." She had practiced law for four years here prior to her first appointment to the Pentagon in September, 1981.

During her two years as Principal Deputy General Counsel, she has traveled throughout the United States and Hawaii. Now that she is General Counsel, she will be visiting army installations around the world, and has already planned trips to western Europe and to South Korea.

She is married to Roger Higgins, director of contracts for CACI, Inc., Federal, of Rosslyn, Virginia. The couple and their daughter Kelley now reside in Falls Church, Virginia. They still maintain their home on Deep Creek Lake, where they visit every possible weekend.

The daughter of Bill and Joan Crawford of Deep Creek Lake, formerly of Pittsburgh, Crawford is a graduate of Mt. Lebanon High School, Bucknell University, and New England School of Law.

Public Hearing Slated For Group Home Location

A public hearing on a proposed site for a second group home for mentally handicapped persons in the county has been scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 7 p.m. in Room 203 in the Garrett Community College Oakland Center.

The home, to house six persons, originally was proposed for a site adjacent to the Grantsville Town Park, but was recently changed after considerable opposition to the home was mounted by town citizens.

The Grantsville town council also refused to grant a water and sewer tap to the home during a meeting on September 6 which was attended by approximately 70 people.

Those who opposed placing the home near town and the park stated they feared for the safety of children using the park and for the safety of the senior citizens living in the area.

Grace Broadwater, who would have been a neighbor of the home said her great concern was that some of the home residents would be coming out of institutions and would not know how to act in the more informal setting of a group home. She was afraid there may be acts of violence by the home residents.

Others present at the meeting pointed to a rape case in Meyersdale, blamed on a resident of a similar type of group home, as well as a rape case near Baltimore also linked to a resident of a home for mentally handicapped persons.

Others argued the land would become state property and would be taken off the tax roles,

Thayer Jails Former Resident For Ten Years

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced a Horse Shoe Run, W. Va., man to ten years in prison yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to maim.

James Edward Patton, 34, formerly of Oakland, was arrested for the December 31, 1982, shooting of Michael Sisler, 18, Oakland. The two were engaged in several arguments earlier in the evening at Horse Shoe Run Tavern, and Patton followed Sisler from the bar to an area along Rt. 219, near the Silver Knob Road, where a final argument culminated in the shooting of Sisler. He was left at the scene, and managed to make his way to the home of a nearby resident, who summoned police.

Judge Thayer imposed the maximum sentence of ten years, ordering Patton to be placed in the custody of the state Department of Correction.

In a second sentencing heard yesterday, Lynwood Carlton Sharpless, 26, Elk Garden, W. Va., was ordered to serve four years with the department of correction on a theft charge stemming from the sale of a stolen Walker-McDonald button bit belonging to the D&L Coal Company.

The sentence was reduced by 42 months, for which he was ordered to serve supervised probation, The initial six months will be spent in the Garrett County Jail.

Sharpless was represented by John Tosten. State's attorney Jim Sherbin prosecuted for the state.

In a final decision, a plea for reduction of sentence submitted

Five Indictments Handed Down By September Term Grand Jury

A total of five criminal indictments were handed down by the September term grand jury on September 14 and 15, including a charge against Bernard Ernest Burns, an Oakland businessman, who was cited with unlawful operation of a controlled hazardous substance facility. (See separate story).

In other cases, David Andrew Bryson and Kenneth E. House, both of Friendsville, were charged with three-count indictments involving a breaking, entering, and stealing incident at the Dodge City Liquor Dispensary in Friendsville in August of 1982.

Both men were charged with theft, breaking and entering, and destruction of property.

Also cited by the grand jury were Raymond R. Spiker and his wife, Verna K. Spiker, both of Crellin.

The Spikers were arrested on July 18 and charged with manufacturing a controlled dangerous substance, possession with intent to distribute, and possession of a controlled dangerous substance after a police raid on their property netted more than 1,300 marijuana plants.

A hearing was set for September 27.

Based on one hundred contestants the prize money will

Fugitive Waives Extradition For Armed Robbery

Local police authorities arrested a fugitive from Louisiana in the Grantsville area September 13 and the man has now been returned to that state to face trial.

According to a report by Deputies David Crossland and Larry Gnegy, authorities arrested Judah Brandes, 21, at a Route 1, Grantsville address in connection with warrants charging him with armed robbery in Louisiana. Brandes was arrested without incident, with Tpr. Dale Williams of the Maryland State Police assisting in the arrest.

The fugitive was first held in the Garrett County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond, but later waived extradition to Louisiana and was returned to Alexandria, La. early this week to await trial.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 192 Pints

Norma Hesen, chairman of the Oakland Red Cross Blood Donor program, reported this week that 192 pints of blood were collected at the Oakland visit of the Bloodmobile Friday at the National Guard Armory. The quota for the visit was 150 pints.

Of the 198 persons presenting themselves, ten were deferred and four additional pints were collected at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, making the 192-pint total. Eighteen persons giving blood were first-time donors.

Giving their eighth pint of blood and thereby becoming TAKES UP BANNER FOR THE CAUSE — This young man shows his opinion that kids can support a bill for deposits on beverage containers, too. The rally was part of the events planned during the bottle bill walk across Maryland, sponsored by Citizens Against Waste.

PROCLAIM HUNTING AND FISHING DAY — The Board of Garrett County Commissioners took action Tuesday to proclaim Saturday, September 24, as "Hunting and Fishing Day in Garrett County" and then "called upon citizens to join with all sportsmen/conservationists in their efforts to ensure the wise use and property management of our natural resources for the benefit of future generations." Pictured at the signing of the document are, left to right, Commissioner chairman Ernie Gregg; Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager for the Department of Natural Resources; and Commissioners Elwood Groves, II, and John Braskey. The National Wildlife Federation, one of the sponsors of Hunting and Fishing Day, the DNR and many other interested resource groups will hold a full day of programs and demonstrations on all phases of forest conservation, hunting and fishing, and wildlife management techniques this Saturday beginning at 10 a.m., at Garrett Community College, McHenry.

Grantsville Sewer Work Delayed

Work on the Grantsville sewer rehabilitation project has been held up pending settlement of a dispute between the apparent low bidder and the town officials.

Mattingly Construction Company has filed a letter of protest against the town with the Environmental Protection Agency after the town moved to award the sewer work to the second low bidder, Trimble Contracting, Latrobe, Pa. Although Mattingly was apparently the low bidder, failure to meet certain stipulations in the contract documents meant that the firm would have to reduce its total bid of $1,025,000 by some five percent. This, however, Mattingly refused to do.

Mattingly's bid for the grant-eligible portion of the work was $905,932.65, while Trimble's was $968,083.95.

Now the town must respond, through its attorney James Braskey, to the protest and EPA will schedule a hearing on the issue..

Mayor Fred Holliday, questioned following a Monday night council meeting, had no idea how much delay will result from the snarl, but said that the action had definitely put the project "on hold" for now.

Local Resort Management Named In $300,000 Lawsuit

A Bridgeville, Pa., couple, Alfred C. and Sandy DelMastro, have filed a three-count lawsuit against Red Run Management, doing business as Railey Rentals, Star Route, Oakland, in the amount of $300,000.

According to the suit, which was filed in Garrett County Circuit Court on September 15, the DelMastro family, which includes a young son, were guests at the Red Run Condominium units in August of 1982. The youngster used the swimming pool facilities provided for guests, and, according to the suit, was exposed to excessive amounts of chlorine in the pool water. Contact with the chlorine gas prompted a severe respiratory attack, according to the parents, which caused the child much pain and physical and mental anguish.

The lack of proper maintenance of chlorine levels also caused the parents extensive medical expenditures, according to the file, resulting in the three-count total of $300,000.

The defendants were notified on September 16 through their secretary-treasurer, Ruth Umbel.

Mt. Lake Park Board Denies Two Requests

The Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals denied two requests at its September 7 meeting, according to John Nelson, county zoning administrator, and Kathy Paugh, town clerk.

The first was a request by Samuel Eastman for a special exception to allow replacement of a mobile home with another mobile home on his property at 205 E Street.

Zoning board members Dan Elmlinger and William Clary and alternate Dayle Dabney noted that the denial was based on several reasons, including the fact the board feels the mobile home would not be consistent with orderly growth of the community and its intended character as a nomination for a historic district.

The denial letter stated also a mobile home would not be appropriate in appearance with existing properties in the general vicinity; that those property owners nearby have substantial investments in their properties and feel the addition of a mobile home would diminish their investments; and that the space is rented to another and is not the principal residence of the applicant.

An application by Joseph R. Whelan, owner of the High's Store property along Route 135 for an exception to the required 20-foot distance from the road right of way for gasoline pumps was also denied. Whelan had requested permission to place the pumps within 15 feet of the highway right of way.

The application was denied because board members felt that such placement may create a traffic hazard and impede the traffic flow into the property. The board also felt that Whelan could show no real hardship if he were made to observe the 20-foot right of way distance.

Roberts Working On Management Plan For Yough

An emphasis on local involvement is what Keith Roberts plans as he works to write a management plan for the Youghiogheny River.

Roberts, hired some time ago as project coordinator for the Yough, is the new contact person in the county for outlining a plan for management of the wild and scenic segments of the river. He noted Tuesday that much of the procedure has yet to be determined in drawing up a plan but anticipates much emphasis on local public involvement and input from a new Yough River advisory board which is in the works at DNR.

Roberts, who has resided in the county for ten years and worked for DNR from 1976 through 1979 as a consultant in Land Planning Services, is presently working out of the Deep Creek Lake management offices shared with Gary Yoder. He notes that his mother's family is native to the county and that his grandparents worked with a team of horses and crosscut saw to clear their land, so he feels that he can relate to the feelings of the landowners here as a management plan is developed.

Secretary Recommends New Board

In a letter written September 16, Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown has concurred with the county commissioners, Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Bambacus in the need for a newly-appointed local river advisory board.

Secretary Brown had deliberated on the matter since receiving a letter in July from the local officials, who asked that the board be reorganized since it apparently was unable to "effectively address" the problems of the river, including a management plan and white-water rafting regulations.

The head of DNR will now call a meeting of the Scenic and Wild Rivers Review Board, which includes the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Department of State Planning, to present his suggestion that the board be reconstituted. He plans to also consult local officials, present board members and other interested persons on who should serve on the local advisory board, according to Mike Nelson DNR liaison for the county.

In his letter addressed to Commissioner Chairman Ernie Gregg, Secretary Brown said he hopes if present appointees are discharged and new and reappointed members named, this will allow the group to "put aside past animosities obstructing the function of the board."

The Secretary plans to have a new board constituted in three months. There are presently 14 members on the advisory board which reorganized last July after seven years of inactivity.

With a local consultant now hired to draft an acceptable wild and scenic river plan for the Yough, the Land Planning division of DNR in Annapolis will turn its attention to other matters concerning the state's protected rivers, such as the disputed whitewater rafting. Earlier regulations prepared last year did not adequately address rafting and the land planning division will be working closely with Natural Resources police as they devise new regulations, according to Isedora Ballard, chief of the Maryland Scenic Rivers Program.

Bottle Bill Walk Begins; Walkers Sore, But Excited

The walkers for the bottle bill in Maryland may have had sore bodies Thursday morning after the first day of their walk across the state to Annapolis, but they had soaring spirits, said Chris Darling, spokesperson for the group.

The walkers began their trek Wednesday morning at the Maryland-West Virginia line on Route 39, stopping at the county courthouse, Oakland, for a rally attended by about 50 people.

Representatives of the Garrett County Farm Bureau and the League of Women Voters were among those who spoke in support of the bill. Local musician Rob Smith sang an original tune called "If You Can't Save a Bottle, How Can You Save The World?"

Ajax Eastman, one of the organizers of the walk, spoke at the rally. Lottie Brenneman, owner of Brenneman's store, spoke in favor of the bill as did Lois Brenneman. Also singing at the rally was Lana Brenneman. Jack Fridinger spoke on behalf of the League of Women Voters.

The walkers noted that Senator John Bambacus has announced his opposition to the bill. They asked citizens to show Bambacus their support for the bill.

The walkers were joined by five county residents Wednesday and were cheered on by motorists who waved, honked, and offered victory signs as they passed by. One motorist stopped and gave the group $20, Darling said.

The group was hailed over to the St. John's Episcopal Church, near Deer Park, by pastor Rev. John Grant and offered cookies and coffee or tea for refreshment.

The walkers planned to pick up cans along their journey, but abandoned that idea when they collected two full garbage bags within the first mile. Darling said they hoped to deliver those bags to a recycling center and were carrying them in the support vehicles which will accompany the walkers to Annapolis.

The group spent the night at the home of Fran Otero and Steve Shaffer, Deer Park, after stopping for the day in Swanton. They resumed their walk at about 10:30 a.m. Thursday and hope to reach Annapolis by October 1.

Several Mishaps Being Probed By State Police

The driver of a dark colored compact vehicle with extensive damage to the front end is being sought by Maryland State Police at the Garrett County detachment. The vehicle was reportedly involved in a hit-and-run accident on Wednesday afternoon on the Bishoff Road, near McHenry.

The unknown vehicle was said to have been northbound on the Bishoff Road, after having turned left off the Sang Run Road. The car lost control in the loose gravel, crossed the road, ran through 20 feet of a barnyard, and struck a steel silo, causing extensive damage.

Owner of the property, James Rodeheaver, reported finding tracks and the property damage to Tfc. Gary Resh, who is continuing the investigation.

In another Wednesday accident, Timothy W. Glotfelty, 16, Mt. Lake Park, and Dewey M. Warnick, 12, Oakland, were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following an accident on the Turkey Neck Road/Rt. 135 intersection.

Police say Glotfelty was driving the 1979 Chevrolet Caprice, which was deemed a total loss, westbound on Rt. 135, when he reportedly took his eyes from the windshield to look at an animal in the car. The vehicle ran off the left side of the road and struck a tree.

Southern Rescue Squad responded to the call, which was investigated by Sgt. R.E. Edwards.

Correction Noted

Information last week under a photograph depicting the county commissioners with several persons affiliated with the Emergency Medical Services in the county contained one bit of misinformation about one of those pictured. Linda Beachy was incorrectly identified as president of the Northern Rescue Squad.

Beachy is actually treasurer of the squad, and Lynn Newman is president. The Republican regrets the error.

Oakland Council To Hold Hearing On Zoning Change

The Oakland mayor and council has not yet set a date for a public hearing on a proposed change in the town's table of use regulations requiring a special exception for home profession office and home occupations in town residential zones.

A group of citizens had approached James Stanton, chairman of the town's planning commission, to request the change, and Stanton presented the letter to town officials. The planning commission did not make a recommendation on the matter, however, so a public hearing is required before the council can make a decision.

Tax Bills Mailed

Oakland residents should receive their fiscal 1983-84 tax bills reflecting the $1.20 per $100 of assessed value this week. The bills were mailed from city hall Friday and entitle residents to a three-percent discount if paid before February 29, 1984.

Revenue Sharing

No citizens were present at last Monday's town meeting to discuss the proposed $30,462 expected from federal revenue sharing for the town.

The mayor and council agreed to allot $7,000 for the street department for an equipment building; $20,000 for water improvements, and $3,462 for maintenance of municipally-owned buildings.

Grand Jury Visits County Bureaus

The September term of the Garrett County grand jury expressed negative findings concerning the board of education in its report on county agencies, citing the need for a new building or total renovation of the present facility.

Also noted were the lack of storage areas, fire hazards present in the form of no self-closing doors, boxes stored in hallways or any other available space, water damage to ceilings, cramped and cluttered spaces, and broken or missing floor tile.

Members of the grand jury also heard reports from Rodney Glotfelty, with the county health department, who discussed the recent rabies situation in detail; from Arzella Parsons, county treasurer, who discussed reports of the fiscal year's ending, and how money was spent in the county; and a lecture on property assessments by Jerry Moyer and James Margroff.

Sheriff Frank Finch discussed his department's need for a four-wheel drive vehicle, as mentioned last year, and spoke of savings to taxpayers through his plan to house state prisoners at his facility.

Northern High School principal Ed Green, and Southern High School principal Luther Parrack gave a summary of problems and situations at their respective schools, calling attention to discipline, alcohol, and drug problems which are present.

Kenneth Metheny, Garrett County Roads Department, discussed the upgrading of county equipment, and Commissioners Ernest Gregg, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey discussed the renovation of the older part of the courthouse for historical purposes. Also discussed were various means of bringing more industry into the county.

Committees from the grand jury visited the animal shelter, the dump sites in the county, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

An exhaust fan was recommended for the dark room, as was suggested in the past; and the incinerator was ordered to be repaired and inpsected by the fire marshal.

It was recommended that a library be placed in the county jail for the inmates, and renovation of both the inside and outside of the courthouse was requested, as time and money permits.

The committee visiting the local hospital was impressed with the upgrading of new equipment.

Local Merchant Injured In Fall

A McHenry man, Francis Sweene, 46, part owner of S&H marina, Deep Creek Lake, was listed in satisfactory condition late Tuesday afternoon where he was admitted last Wednesday following a fall. According to a co-worker, Sweene slipped while getting out of a boat, breaking several bones in his foot and ankle.

Sweene was admitted with a severe compound fracture of the leg, according to the report, and was initially taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad. He was then transferred by State Police Medevac to the Cumberland facility.

Sgt. Buckley New DNR District Chief

Sgt. Robert G. Buckley, Clear Spring, was promoted to district supervisor of Department of Natural Resources Police July 13 this year, assuming charge of three officers each in Garrett and Allegany Counties. He is also responsible for the activities of two boat patrol police who work at Deep Creek Lake in the summer.

He replaces Sgt. Lawrence Fioria, who has retired.

Sgt. Buckley, a native of Kempton, was named Officer of the Year in 1979 for the quality and quantity of his work, his attitude, personality and overall work evaluation.

He had been working in Washington County for the past 14 years, after having joined the former Department of Game and Inland Fish as Wildlife Officer in October 1969.

A son of Harry B. and Pauline V. Buckley, Second Street, Oakland, he attended elementary school in Kitzmiller and graduated from Elk Garden High School. He attended Potomac State College in Keyser and in 1958 enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps, serving in the Caribbean, Mediterranean, and Great Lakes areas. He was honorably discharged in 1960.

He and his wife, the former Sandra K. Warnick of Bloomington, have two children, Greg, 19, and Michelle, 17. The family attends Faith Temple Full Gospel Church near Hagerstown.

State Trying To Find Owners Of Unclaimed Funds

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says the State of Maryland or one of its city or county governments may owe you some money. "Our office is now advertising the names of 4,268 individuals who may be able to claim part of the $1.5 million in State income tax refunds, retirement accounts and various other funds now being held by government agencies," Goldstein stated.

Names of the apparent rightful owners of the unclaimed funds are being advertised in newspapers throughout Maryland, based on the county of last known address. Ads are running in The Republican the weeks of September 18 and 25. There is a total of $2,963 in unclaimed funds in Garrett County.

"State income tax refunds which have been unclaimed for two years, the contributions of some former employees to the various state retirement programs, and accounts held for patients at some instiiutions are among the unclaimed funds for which owners are being sought," Goldstein said. "If you see your name in the advertisement, follow the instructions at the head of the ad for filing your claim."

The comptroller noted the efforts to locate the apparent rightful owners of unclaimed funds during Fiscal Year 1983, resulted in a record number of claims being honored. "During Fiscal Year 1983, our Abandoned Property Section processed 1,904 claims for a total of $1,232,850, compared with 596 claims for $330,199 the previous year," Goldstein stated. "These figures do not include those claims honored by banks, insurance companies and other institutions after ads appeared, but before the funds were turned over to the State.

"Funds which remain unclaimed at the close of the fiscal year are returned to the county of last known address," Goldstein said. "For Fiscal Year 1983, the 23 counties and Baltimore City received $1,170,040 as their share of these unclaimed funds.

"Even if you miss your name in the current series of ads, however, the State of Maryland will honor claims at any time in the future by you or your legitimate heirs."

The State Comptroller's Office has been running advertisements on a monthly basis since April, 1982, to cope with a change in Maryland law which required institutions to report inactive accounts to the Comptroller's Office much sooner, increasing the likelihood of locating the rightful owner.

County Police Check Thefts

Investigations by the Garrett County sheriff's department are underway in several recent thefts, according to new reports filed in the office this week.

Two coal companies on Potomac Camp Road, Buffalo Coal and Mountain Top Coal, reported breakings and enterings September 19. At Mt. Top, storage and workshop buildings were entered and several items taken. At Buffalo Coal fire extinguishers were discharged. Deputy Donald Tucker is investigating.

Sometime between September 17 and 19, unknown persons probably used a truck to haul away an inoperative 1979 yellow RM400 Suzuki dirt bike belonging to Steven Wayne Lowers and located on the Wilson-Corona Road. Deputy Larry Gnegy is investigating.

September 15, Lois Glotfelty, Memorial Drive, Oakland, reported that someone had broken into her home and removed approximately $110 worth of property. An investigation is underway by Assistant Chief Deputy Paul Pratt.

Richard D. Clever, Lyndale Road, Oakland, reported that between September 5 and 12, unknown persons removed a Zenith stereo turntable from his residence. Chief Deputy Pratt's report listed the value at $300.

A Doberman pinscher pup valued at $400 was taken from a pen behind owner Chris Kahl's home along the Deer Park Hotel Road September 16. The two-month old puppy is described as silver brown in color. Chief Deputy Pratt is checking into the dognapping.

Appeals Board Lists Decisions

The Deep Creek Board of Zoning Appeals denied one request, approved another and deferred a third at their September 1 meeting.

A request by Leo R. Savilisky for a variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance for rear yard set-back requirements was denied,. The board said it feels the property owner did not demonstrate that denial of such a variance would create a real hardship for him. Savilisky had asked permission to construct a residence within ten feet of the Penelec line instead of the required 40 feet.

An application by Mrs. Celeste Lascaris for variances from lot width and land area requirements for individual lots was approved by the board, and a request by Adolph Waitekunas for a variance from side yard set-back requirements was deferred until the October 6 meeting. The Waitekunas property is located on Hazelhurst Road and the owner wishes to construct a residence which would extend to within eight feet of one side property line instead of the required 15 feet.

Board members participating in the meeting were Irving Day, Dr. William Savage, Mrs. Betty Friend and John Marple.

October 6 Meeting

Other requests scheduled to be heard at the October 6 meeting to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the old Grand Jury room of the Courthouse include an application for a variance by Robert Redic concerning the rear-yard set-back requirement for his property on Paradise Point Road.

Richard Shaffer is requesting a similar variance for his property on Rock Lodge Road, Fred Bell for his property on Lake Forest Subdivision Road, and Paul E. Williams for his property on Mayhew Inn Road.

Lonnie Lewis is asking a special exception to allow placement of a mobile home on the Helen Heath property located on Boy Scout Road.

Should We Be There?

As the fighting becomes more intense in Lebanon, the impatience and squeamishness of the American public increases in direct proportion. The bitter taste of the Vietnam war, a war which claimed many American lives, a war which we lost, remains strong in the mouths of our people. Most of us are not even sure of who is doing all the shooting in Lebanon.

"Why are we there?" is the big question in the minds of many. The answer given by the president is that we have a commitment to the Lebanese people, as do the other members of the multinational peacekeeping forces, to protect them and their shaky, but free, government. To withdraw would be a humiliation and a black mark on America's credibility.

On the one hand, it seems senseless and a worthless sacrifice of American lives to be involved in this war. Lebanon and all of the middle east nations have been fighting for centuries and it seems that our involvement will do little to change that. What can we possibly gain by assisting the Lebanon forces? Afghanistan was invaded by communist forces, and yet we have not sent the marines to that country.

On the other hand, our nation and government must be concerned about all forms of aggression in the world, particularly those backed directly or indirectly by Soviet forces. Less than 50 years ago our nation refused to get involved in the war in Europe until Hitler was within an arm's length of taking complete control. That was a mistake that we do not want to make again. The middle east is a vitally important area of the world to the United States.

As with most issues, there are some good arguments on both sides. Almost everyone would agree that protecting our nation is of utmost importance. But is risking the lives of our young men by placing them in a crossfire of numerous foreign, hostile forces in a faraway land part of this protection? To the president and his advisors, it seems that it is. To the parents of men like Glen Frazee (see feature on page five), such an argument is unacceptable.

In Other Words

by Carol Fox

As parents, most Americans like to think they have most of the answers to most of the questions they're called upon to supply during the rearing time of the children. If the time comes that a subject or a particular question becomes an issue without a clear remedy, the average parent will seek advice from reference books on the subject, call the minister, or consult the family doctor.

Apparently, some enterprising souls somewhere in the country decided to offer us an even better way to talk to our children about the serious side of life—according to their philosophy.

The first is a board game, based on the old standard from Milton/Bradley called Monopoly. The new game is designed to aid parents who can't bring themselves to discuss the facts of life with their children. It's called (are you ready for this?) Humanopoly! The playing pieces are sperms and eggs, and the object of the game is to form a human creation, following guidance from separate piles of instruction cards which explain more details, including genital parts of the body, and uses thereof. The first to create a human being is declared the winner. Those who work with this "game" seem delighted with its possibilities.

Personally, I'm appalled at its possibilities. Thank goodness we have competant family life teachers in the Garrett County School System to handle things that some parents find difficult. I'd rather see these "game" creators spending more time on educating parents, or expanding school programs which aid in a child's quest for knowledge.

Beyond the tastelessness of these products, it is unfortunate that such "games" play right into the hands of those who oppose legitimate, serious efforts at education in health science and family life. If such ideas as these met with an early demise, it would be easier to convince concerned persons of the vital importance of giving proper information to young persons.

The second game is called "Divorce, of Course," and is another board game on the order of Monopoly. The object in this case is to obtain the divorce while gaining the most in community property, child support, alimony, and legal fees. It portrays lawyers as unscrupulous individuals, and encourages the "looking out for number one" syndrome while staging mock custody hearings and courtroom battles.

It's no crime to encourage open-mindedness and strive to shorten the generation gap many parents and children find themselves in, but this is a bit ridiculous. Surely there's a better way. Hopefully, most parents will seek it, and the game inventors will be stuck with warehouses full of their useless "games."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In reference to the article in your newspaper on September 14, page 3, entitled "Mtn. Lake Park Refuses to Sign Sewer Agreement."

As usual, The Republican prints only one side of the issue. The Town of Mountain Lake Park was not contacted for its input on this issue. Apparently the information for this article was obtained from Wendell Beitzel of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission.

In 1976 the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn knew nothing about an agreement with Broadford Park whereby they would be provided with free sewerage at the expense of the two towns. When Southern Middle School was built, apparently in their haste to provide sewerage for this facility, the Garrett County Commissioners, Garrett County Sanitary Commission and the Board of Education made an agreement with the Town of Oakland without consulting the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

The taxpayers of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn pay their share of operation and maintenance for the Trout Run Treatment plant, so why should Broadford Park be given free service? If the Garrett County Sanitary Commission wishes to supply free service to Broadford Park, then the amount should be deducted from the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

Thank you,
Russell B. Alexander, Sr.
Mayor, Mt. Lake Park

To the Editor:

I want you and all members of The Republican staff to know how much I personally appreciate the coverage you have given the events sponsored by the Town and Community women of Friendsville, this past year.

Our activities have been many during this our first full year since organization, and thanks to you folks at The Republican the citizens in our county and neighboring communities have attended many events plus having the added pleasure of reading about what did happen in The Republican.

Our activities started last year with the July 31st appearance of the Dixie Dogs Band—Then a Halloween Community party for children and adults.

In November a Chili Supper with proceeds to the Friendsville Fire Dept.—$500. December Christmas baskets for the Senior Citizens and shut-ins in our community.

One of our most successful events was in May which you folks helped promote: The coordination of the fund raising project for the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad—over $12,000.

Then on to July and the third Friendsville Summer Festival—again thanks for your excellent coverage.

And the latest event was the Bluegrass Band—The Johnson Mountain Boys Concert on September 2.

Yes, members of Town and Community Women and many local citizens have truly been busy this past year and your staff reported it all.

It is always dangerous to single out individuals when a cooperation effort is evident, however, I would be amiss if I did not add my pleasure in working with Carol Fox, Bob Sincell, Jerry Stewart and Harry Fox, they are true professionals.

To each and everyone of The Republican Family—A warm and sincere thank you.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Maryland Citizens Against Waste in Garrett County, we would like to thank you for your coverage of the walk across Maryland that started here last week. Your support of the Bottle Deposit Bill has been very encouraging to those who have been working hard to make people aware of the fact that recycling beverage containers is a good idea.

Ultimately it will be our elected legislators, Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Bambacus, who will vote on this issue. They have not supported this bill because they are sympathatic to special interests such as unions and the liquor industry and not the will of the people. Last week's meeting with the Liquor Control Board to try to drop a 10% surcharge and to support Sunday sales of liquor in Garrett County shows that they have no regard for what the people want. If they want to help the liquor industry, they should support a Container Deposit Bill which will cut production costs as demonstrated in New York State where the deposit law just went into effect September 1, 1983 and wholesale prices dropped the first week.

Please take a minute and write a letter to these two legislators as they were elected to represent your views . . . if you let them know.

Sincerely,
Fran Otero
Steven K. Shaffer

Editors Note:

Ed C. Lewis, a former resident of Mt. Lake Park, was inspired by the recent interest in the Park, as reported in The Republican. He wrote the following letter to Mary I. Love coordinator of Mt. Lake Park Days, held in July.

Mr. Lewis, now 87, lives in Wadsworth Ohio.

Att. Ms. Mary I. Love:

About the turn of the century my father built a house on the Deer Park Road. It was next to Major Burns which was the last house on that street. The last time I saw it it looked in good shape though the little red barn and the coal and hen house had vanished.

My father acquired a large three-story barn near the Oakland Road and kept about 12 horses with runabouts, surreys, several 3-and 4-seated carriages and a couple road wagons and bobsleds for heavy work.

A Ms. List ran the Dennett (Hotel) later the Loch Lynn (Hotel) and we furnished most of the riding and carriage business for her guests.

Several of us used a hole in the fence by a large oak tree on the far side of the Auditorium fence instead of the gate. We could then spend our 15 cents at Malette's refreshment stand across the street.

I remember father taking me up to shake hands with Mr. Bryan (William Jennings). I changed my opinion of him later.

They drained the lake in the fall and let it fill with clean water for ice. A large icehouse on the far shore was filled and the B&O took out carload after carload. I suppose they stored it for their diners. Father had his own icehouse after he bought the Columbian Hotel. He also erected a tank on a 60 ft. tower at a well between the stable and the hotel with a gasoline engine and furnished water for them and the Braethorn.

I had a sailboat on the lake one summer and a shack up the creek from the upper end of the lake.

The platform you mentioned was for little tykes. You used to see 15 or 20 having a great time in it.

I attended H.S. in the old red Courthouse, on the hill at the same time as Mary and Donald. I knew Mr. Ben too. (Sincell)

I joined the Marines at the outbreak of World War I and never went back except for short visits.

If you have read this far, I thank you, and if you haven't, I don't blame you.

You mentioned Miss Thayer. I knew her brother and father and I remember when we needed a monocle in a H.S. play she had the only one in Oakland.

Hoping I haven't bored you too much I am

Respectfully,
Ed C. Lewis

P.S. Another hotel was Faith Home, run by a lady from Virginia who paid kids for raking her grounds with a bag of raw peanuts. It was located near the edge of the Park toward Deer Park.

To the Editor:

Being a handicapped person I have become an unofficial "Handicapped" advocate. Garrett County is cruelly deficient in handicapped consideration.

Why is the Maryland District Court in a non-architecturally barrier free location now? I worked voluntarily for years on the Governor's Commission for the Employment of the Handicapped. We spent untold months and hours voluntarily on an architecturally barrier free survey for entrance to public buildings, stores, etc.

I worked as a member of GORC and GARC for years in behalf of the mentally retarded, hoping for care also for the "mentally ill" as Garrett Countains became educated to their needs. I am sadly disappointed.

I did not read in your newspaper of the controversary over the placement of a Group Home for the mentally retarded in Grantsville. Why? I read of it in the "Citizen" and it was reported on WMSG.

Checking on the facts I was appalled. What do the people who opposed the Group Home in Grantsville think a mentally retarded person is? If you tell me "any" of these people sit in church and claim to be christians, I'll say no way!! Read your Bible!!

To the Editor:

I have just had the pleasure of working with a group of Garrett County's most dedicated and professional citizens, the dispatchers at Garrett County Central Alarm.

The life and property savings service these persons provide usually go unnoticed by the majority of the public. Twenty-four hours daily the 911 center is manned, ready to dispatch fire, ambulance or other emergency organizations as needed. These trained professionals must forsake many holidays and personal plans to maintain their constant vigil for Garrett County and its seven neighboring counties. Many hazardous and life threatening incidents are averted due to the calm and quick reactions on the part of the dispatchers. Although the pressures and stress of the job are constantly present, the dispatchers always maintain their high level of proficiency.

These unsung heroes provide a critical lifeline for the citizens of Garrett County. With help for emergencies only three digits away (911), Garrett County is a safer place for all. Continue the great work gang, and thanks for being there.

Sincerely,
Rick J. Skeweris

Second Impression

. . . for an honest day's work?

by Harry Fox

Time was that the most common cause of unemployment was plain laziness. The homespun wisdom was "an honest day's work for an honest day's pay." But, nothing is as certain as change itself, and there are thousands of area residents caught, often with no warning, in the "job" of being suddenly, shockingly, unemployed.

Several blows to the area's economy have stunned both the work force and government leaders in recent weeks. Locally, the decision by Cargill to terminate its production of poultry at the Sterling Processing facility in Oakland has cast some gloomy shadows on the future employment of that plant's work force. This week brought the (probably inevitable) news that the mammoth Amcelle fibers plant in Cumberland will close permanently—the victim of a changing market. In plain language, the Amcelle factory isn't needed any longer to meet the market demand in the textiles industry.

Of course, if the market doesn't need the fibers, the company no longer needs the plant, and it certainly doesn't need the work force. That's the sad "daisy chain" of the economy. Ask the unemployed steel workers, coke plant workers, coal mine workers and river workers in the Mon valley. Changes, cutbacks, lessened demand in one segment of the industrial world do inevitably work their way back to the primary suppliers of that industry.

Here in the mountains of western Maryland we have been happily isolated from many of the more catastrophic effects of the employment revolution. But, as recent events witness, we are not isolated enough to feel smug or indifferent to the problems of the unemployed. Ask the highly paid workers in California's "silicon valley" of the microcomputer empire. Market changes, shifts in demand, and foreign competition have left a bitter taste in dashed hopes of security and freedom from unemployment. In today's highly interdependent world NO ONE is unaffected.

This Friday at 2 p.m., the history and philosophy departments of Frostburg State College will convene a special panel discussion on "The Future of Work in Western Maryland." A group of business, labor, government and educational leaders will open the program as these persons (all, I believe, employed) attempt to discover effective means of combating the declining employment opportunities in our region.

As a story in this newspaper indicates, the public is invited to participate, and the audience will be encouraged to assist in developing proposals.

One place to begin is by gently dislodging the stubborn prejudice that only the lazy are unemployed. In this complex world there are thousands of industrious workers who find themselves looking for an honest day's work.

Surcharge

charge such a surtax and in many counties the number of liquor licenses is held to a specified number.

Negative Comments

Brenda Butscher pointed out this week, however, that it will be very difficult to come up with a sum comparable to the $126,000 realized from the surcharge without raising the cost of licenses to prohibitive amounts, which could drive some of the smaller license holders out of business. "Why remove a tax that's working?" she asked as well.

The ten percent charge is not the only surcharge in the county. For Class B (beer, wine and liquor) license holders (there are two) the license costs $800 and there is a 20-percent surcharge of purchases collected quarterly.

There are presently 13 establishments paying $150 for a Class A license permitting sale of beer for off-premises consumption; 14 Class D beer license holders paying $150; one Class D beer and wine licensee paying $350; and 36 draft beer licensees paying $75 each.

Money received from these licenses during 1982-83 was $45,537.57, including the five percent clerk's fee amounting to $2,276.89; incorporated towns share of 50 percent for establishments in the town limits, or $5,785.13; and the county portion of $37,475.55.

The beer tax, which is unrelated to the ten percent surcharge, amounted to $131,371.53 in 1982-83, and is based on a two-cent charge for each 12-ounce container or less; 5½ cents for each container between 12 and 32 ounces; and six cents per gallon of draft beer. The tax is paid by Garrett County wholesalers monthly to the liquor board, based on sales.

Group Home

that the values of their homes would decrease with the home in the area, while still others suggested the home be located out in the country or even in the Savage River Forest and trips to town for the home residents become a special treat. They believed the home would be well suited to the country, because there would be land to farm.

A petition had also been circulated in the community which had been signed by 80 persons, opposing constructing the home in Grantsville.

Dan Elmlinger, administrator of Garrett Crossroads, Inc., a group home for mentally handicapped located on Broadford Road, near both the Broadford Recreation Area and Southern Middle and Broad Ford Elementary schools, said he believed most of the fears of the community residents were based on stereotypes and outdated beliefs about the mentally handicapped which equated mentally handicapped with mental illness.

He pointed out most of the residents would be coming out of state residential centers, not institutions, and would be screened both by psychologists and his staff for ability to reside in a group home. Persons showing violent tendencies would not be considered suitable, he said.

Elmlinger noted part of the purpose of the group home is to prepare mentally handicapped persons, who are capable, to live self-sufficiently in a community.

But Elmlinger, who said there have been no problems with the group home on Broadford Road, said that the sentiment expressed during the town council meeting indicated that a group home was not wanted, although some persons apparently had voiced support for the home.

Some of the reasons Grantsville had been selected for a group home was its proximity to Cumberland, where many mentally handicapped persons in the area must go for medical treatment, and because a Greyhound bus line runs through the town, and because there are mentally handicapped persons in the northern part of the county who could be served by the home.

The site now being considered for the group home is located on property between U.S. 219, south of Oakland, and Weber Road.

The Garrett County Commissioners, who apparently were criticized by Grantsville residents for trying to secretly push the group home on the town, said Tuesday they have had very little to do with the group home and neither approved or disapproved the site.

Commissioner John Braskey stated the only thing the commissioners' office did in the matter was to run several public hearing notices for a July 6 hearing on the proposed site in Grantsville at the request of Garrett Crossroads, Inc. That hearing was attended by about three citizens. Property owners received letters from Garrett Crossroads about the proposed home after the public hearing.

Jim Willis Trends

At 1:30 p.m. Alaska Standard Time on Sunday, September 18, 1983, a 30-year-old Englishman named George Meegan appeared around the bend of a gravel road. He walked hand in hand with his Japanese wife, Yoshiko, toward the shore of the Beaufort Sea in the Arctic Ocean at the top of the world.

As I watched him drop the handle of a two-wheel cart which had carried his gear some 19,021 miles, he smiled at Yoshiko and walked toward the steely gray water carrying the Union Jack of Great Britain.

With the last halting stride of his 31,000,000-step journey which spanned nearly seven years, this gaunt Briton placed the flag of his homeland at the head of a queue of flags honoring 16 nations.

He then turned toward the ocean wearing a pained expression and slid down the three-foot slope of black sand beach. With the snow-covered tundra behind him and an azure sky before him, he bent and splashed in the icy water. I watched as his thin body, clad in a tan parka, convulsed with silent sobs.

A single triumphant cry broke the perfect stillness and he wailed, "It's over . . . this is the end of my dream."

Of the perhaps 15 people who were privileged to watch the final moments of the longest continuous walk in recorded history, none were without a lump in the throat and tears in their eyes.

George stood up and in a brief speech dedicated each flag to the people of the 14 nations he'd walked through, a Japanese flag for his wife's homeland, a Swiss flag honoring his mother's heritage and the flag of the British Merchant Navy which he'd joined at 16.

He called the walk a "celebration of freedom."

The journey which began January 26, 1977 at the tip of South America and ended 2,426 days later was completed without sponsorship and without much money. It presented a terrible physical hardship to George and was an emotional strain on his wife and their two children.

I watched their five-year-old daughter, Ayumi, whose name is Japanese for "Walk," and their three-year-old son, Geoffrey Susumu, whose second name translates "Keep going," skip through the line of brightly colored flags that day. I hope they'll remember and understand what it meant to be there.

Throughout South America, the United States, Canada and finally Alaska, through drought and famine, swamps and mountains, infection and disease and incomprehensible peril, this soft-spoken Englishman tramped through our hearts and our lives and was the recipient of 10,000 acts of kindness. It was for the common, noble people who befriended him that this journey was dedicated. Its only significance is that an impossible dream was fulfilled.

As I write this on an airplane somewhere high above California, I think of my friend George and his odessey. When next I see him it will be at his tiny village of Rainham, England on the River Medway, where as a boy he would sprawl on the riverbank and contemplate great adventures.

Soon he will be reunited with his mum who has sat at home these past seven years sipping her tea and wondering whether her adopted son was alive or dead. Now at least she has the assurance that two continents and perhaps the entire world respect her son and his gift to them—the gift of impossible dreams.

Garrett County Marine Doing His Part To Strive For Peace In Lebanon

by Donald Sincell

The military conflict in Lebanon has occupied the spotlight of the various media for several weeks now. One cannot listen to a newscast or pick up a newspaper without being confronted with the latest developments in this war-torn middle east nation.

The main reason the U.S. media are following the events there so closely is because our nation has 1,200 marines based in the Beirut Airports part of a multinational peacekeeping force. French and Italian troops make up the remainder of the force. The marines have been dodging bullets and mortar fire for several weeks. Four of them have been killed in the past month and more than a dozen injured.

There is one Garrett County family which is following the day-to-day developments in Beirut much more closely than the majority of Americans, for they have something precious at stake there—the wellbeing of a son, husband, father and brother.

Cpl. Glen E. Frazee, son of Dale and Ruth Frazee, Deer Park, is one of the 1,200 marines in Beirut, one who has been in mortal danger on more than one occasion in recent weeks.

Cpl. Frazee, who turned 21 in August, joined the marines in June, 1980, just one week after his graduation from Southern High School. He arrived in Beirut on May 12 of this year aboard the U.S.S. Iwo Jima.

Frazee married the former Teresa Smith, daughter of Mr. Robert and Betty Brown, Underwood Road, in July of last year. Mrs. Frazee gave birth to a daughter, Nicole, on July 4 of this year, a daughter whom Frazee has not yet seen.

His major responsibility in Lebanon is serving as the crew chief of a helicopter unit. It was his chopper crew who on August 29 flew two fatally wounded marines to a nearby U.S. Navy ship for aid. These were the first two marines to die in actual fighting in Beirut. Two others were killed about two weeks later.

The following letter, dated August 30 and received by Frazee's family September 12, is a dramatic account of the events of August 29:

Dear Mom, Dad and family,

How is everyone there? I'm exhausted. I guess you've already heard about what's going on over here. Things are getting really bad now. They're bombing the airport and city tonight. All of Beirut is blacked out. The only things you see are the flashes of explosions. But thank God they're letting us shoot back now.

So many things have happened to me in the last few days that I don't know where to begin. I was on Rock Base at the airport the morning it all started. We had just taken off and were going around the pattern when the tower radioed in that we were being fired at. I started looking around and saw the MAO fuel pits blow up. About that time the aircraft took three hits in the aft fuselage.

As soon as that happened, I ran back to see what damage it had done, and we took two more. One missed me by about two feet. So we got out of there then. We flew out over the water and then got a call that check point 69 and the University were getting hammered and we had wounded to pick up. So we set down on the boat and got some ammo and went to the University. We got about 500 yards from the LZ and took five more rounds.

We saw where it was coming from then. Four guys on a roof top were firing small arms at us. That's when I got the call from the pilots to "free fire" and I let them have it. I shot over 200 rounds out of the 50 cal. I don't know if I hit them, but they didn't shoot any more.

So we set down and they brought the three guys that got hit at check point 69. One died before we even got to the boat. The staff sergeant died when we got there. The other one is all right; he got hit in the legs.

I really can't believe this is all happening. Today, Marty, a friend of mine, got shot. It didn't hurt him because they make us wear metal plating that weighs about 90 pounds. It lodged in his flight vest.

Did you hear on the news where the Cobra fired a Zuni missile before it got shot down? He hit an armored personnel carrier.

The Eisenhower (battleship) pulled in yesterday so now we got the heavy stuff on those planes if those guys want to play some more.

Right now, we're all on 15 minute standby, so we just grab cat naps when we can. Can't write much more.

Love you all,
Glen

Many Americans don't understand why we have troops in Lebanon, an area where war has been a way of life for years. What makes it more confusing is the fact that numerous different forces within the country are fighting against each other—the Lebanese army, which the U.S. is assisting; the Druze militia, the military arm of the leftists Progressive Socialist Party; the Lebanese forces, run by the rightist Christian movement; the Amal militia, leftist, anti-U.S. and pro Ayatollah Khomeini; the Mourabitoun militia, also fighting against the Lebanese army and government; plus a number of foreign military forces, including Syrians, Israelis, Palestinian guerrillas and the U.N. peacekeeping forces.

"It is senseless that we have troops there," stated Cpl. Frazee's mother, Ruth. "When we watch television and see that someone has been hurt or killed, we all get so upset. I keep visualizing this military car pulling into our driveway bringing bad news about our son. It might be easier to justify if we understood why, and who's fighting who."

Frazee's sister, Lisa, said, "We were told after the four marines were killed that this was a 'sacrifice' we have to make. But these 'sacrifices' are loved ones who are dying. If President Reagan and Senator Mathias had a son or brother there, they might think differently about keeping the marines there. I know it is the duty of the marines to protect the country, but this could become another senseless Vietnam."

Another sister, Vicki, shares the same frustrations. "It is so sad that he has not seen his little girl. We pray for his safety every night."

Teresa, Frazee's wife, who is presently residing with her parents, received a few more letters from her husband this week, but she said they are very brief because he doesn't have much time to write.

Teresa received a phone call a few weeks ago from a woman whose son, an acquaintance of Frazee's, had telephoned her from Cyprus. Frazee asked his friend to have his mother phone Mrs. Frazee to tell her that he was all right.

"It really scared me at first," Teresa said, "when the operator asked if I would accept charges from a woman I didn't know, who said she had information about my husband. But it was great to hear from him."

One of Frazee's recent letters brought tears to the eyes of all the members of his family, Mrs. Frazee said. It was written on July 5 to his daughter, Nicole, who was just born the day before. "He writes so well," Teresa said, "and he wrote it directly to Nicole, as if she would understand every word. We all cried."

Mrs. Frazee is confident that her husband will be home by December 10, even if the government decides to keep troops in Beirut.

Mrs. Frazee said her husband had previously talked about reenlisting in the marines, but recent letters indicate he has changed his mind. "He just can't stand not being able to see his daughter," she said. "But he may change his mind again. He does that a lot."

Meanwhile, the Frazees wait, they hope and they pray.

A LARGE TENT of camouflage netting covers the living quarters of marines stationed at the Beirut Airport. Below is a photo of the helicopter of which Cpl. Glen Frazee, of Garrett County, is the crewchief. It was his aircraft which flew two mortally wounded marines to a nearby ship.

Local Automobile Dealership Earns AAR Designation

J.S. Chevrolet, Inc., Oakland, has been certified by the AAA-Automobile Club of Maryland as an Approved Auto Repair (AAR) program participant. The facility's owner is John Spoerl and the service manager is Lorraine Gnegy.

There are now 109 facilities in Maryland and Delaware in the guaranteed repairs project. Approval is available to any auto repair facility meeting AAA's strict standards, including workmanship, cleanliness and customer service, and willing to abide by the terms of the AAR contract.

Started over three years ago as an answer to customer dissatisfaction with auto repairs and service—the No. 1 consumer complaint—the program has successfully upgraded the auto repair industry and facilitated disputes between customers and repair shop owners, according to the AAA.

Club members have used the AAR program over 165,000 times since it began in April, 1980.

PILLOWS ARE PERSONAL

A comfortable pillow is a treasured and very personal possession. But, as pillows age, they lose their resiliency and become matted. With proper care that includes occasional washing, you can make them last as long as possible.

Pillows are filled with foam rubber, polyester fiberfill, down and/or feathers. For regular care, refluff fiberfill, down and feather pillows every morning. The air trapped in the fill adds to sleeping comfort.

In general all pillows can be washed whether they are filled with foam, fiberfill, down or feathers. Check manufacturer's care instruction. If machine washing is recommended, use the following procedure: Check pillow covers, making sure they are securely stitched. Sew any ripped seams or holes before washing. Partially fill the washer with warm water. Add detergent and agitate to dissolve the detergent.

Place two pillows opposite each other in the washer to balance the load and let washer completely fill with water. Push pillows under water to wet thoroughly. Wash with gentle agitation for four to eight minutes. Stop washer several times to press air from the pillows. Do not wash down or feather pillows unless they can be dryer dried.

All pillows can be dried in the dryer, but foam must be dried without heat. Dry foam pillows on the air dry cycle only. For others, use highest temperature setting and dry until pillows are fluffy and free of lumps. Stop dryer occasionally and shake pillows to redistribute the filling.

Down and feather pillows dry very slowly and must be thoroughly dried to prevent mildew. They may take 1½ to 2 hours to dry completely.

Despite good care, pillows eventually become matted. Selecting new pillows is probably one of the most personal purchases a person can make. Preferences vary—some people like a soft pillow, other prefer support. Any pillow should be purchased to fit individual taste for the best possible sleep.

Pillows come in three densities: soft, medium and firm. Some manufacture's offer guidelines to indicate that the soft density supports people who like to sleep on their stomachs; the medium density, on their backs; and the firm, on their sides.

MORRIS TO PERFORM — To open the 1983-84 concert season, the Tri-State Community Concert Association will present Richard Morris, organist, at Fort Hill auditorium, Cumberland, on Thursday, September 29. Morris, a native of Atlanta, Ga., began playing the piano at the age of seven. He later received a degree in piano at Rollins College, Fla., and a degree in theology. He was ordained a minister in 1968. While serving as a parish priest he continued to play church organs and give piano lessons. In 1972, urged on by Virgil Fox, he went to New York to become a concert organist. When the organist in the already-successful Toccatas and Flourishes became ill, he filled the vacancy and has continued to tour with that duo ever since. The concert will begin for season ticket holders at 8 p.m.

Council Urges Artists To Enter State Exhibtion

The Garrett County Arts Council is encouraging all local professional artists and photographers to participate in the 1984 Maryland Annual General Assembly Art Exhibition.

The art exhibition, which includes both a multi-media division and a photographic division, will be selected by a group of nationally prominent jurors for display in the Maryland State Capitol Complex in Annapolis during the 1984 session of the Maryland General Assembly, January 9 through April 10.

Applications for the exhibition will be made available in the Ruth Enlow Library. Entries are due by September 26.

DAV Auxiliary Commander Will Visit September 26

Ruth McMichael, department commander of Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary of Maryland, will make her official visit to Disabled American Veterans Mt. Top Auxiliary Unit 29 during that group's meeting Monday, September 26. The meeting will be held in the Oakland fire hall beginning at 7:30.

Other department officers are also expected to attend, and Wilda Sanders, local unit commander, urges all members to attend.

There will be an open discussion period when Mrs. McMichael will offer suggestions to the local unit on any questions they might ask. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Whitley To Speak At School Of Christian Living

Dr. Sterling Whitley, vice president/administrative of the Burlington United Methodist Home for Children and Youth, will present a workshop entitled "A Living Witness-Social Principles for Christians" at the third session of the School of Christian Living to be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Grantsville, this Saturday morning. This is the concluding session of a three-week school which offered basic adult Christian education more broad in scope than that which can be offered in Sunday School or worship services.

Dr. Whitley's presentation will be offered twice, at 9 and 10 a.m. Since the Burlington Home depends in large part on volunteer services and the Christian community for support, Whitley is expected to address both the social needs and the Christian response to need.

The alternative course being offered at 9 a.m. is "Organizing to Beat the Devil: History of the United Methodists," being taught by Winnie Parsons of Friendsville. Mrs. Parsons is a lay member of the North Garrett Parish Council which is sponsoring the School of Christian Living.

Rev. Edd Myers of the Friendsville Methodist Charge will present "How the Bible Came to Be As We Read It Today" at 10 a.m. This course will trace the steps that brought various ancient writings together as the accepted Bible of today and how others were omitted by the same steps. Rev. Myers was previously with the Cassleman, Pa., United Methodist Charge.

The concluding presentation at 11 a.m. will be "The Sacrament of Communion: Gather 'Round the Table" conducted by Rev. K Almond of the Grantsville United Methodist Charge. This course will begin with a presentation on how Communion has been celebrated since the origin at The Last Supper and will conclude with celebration of the sacrament.

This school is open to all interested people. Doors will open at 8:30 a.m. with coffee and refreshments being served. A nursery will be provided throughout the morning.

TO PRESENT CONCERT — The Rockingham Male Chorus of Bridgewater, Va., will present a concert Sunday, October 2, at 7 p.m., at the Garrett Community College auditorium sponsored by the congregations of the McHenry and Hoyes United Methodist Churches. A freewill offering will be accepted. The 76-member chorus organized in 1966 by Dr. Nelson T. Huffman, director of the Music Department of Bridgewater College for 40 years, presents numerous concerts throughout the east each year and has produced five L.P. recordings and tapes. Some 48 men turned up in response to the original invitation for chorus members, and all vocations are represented by the members who feel "If a person really wants to do something, he'll find the time." The group rehearses weekly to share "fellowship and receive inspiration in singing together, and in turn share this inspiration with others through their programs and daily living." Donations are federal tax deductible, and the public is welcome.

Oak Grove Church Members Honor Pastor Sunday

The congregation of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren honored their pastor, Rev. Donald Matthews, Sunday with a surprise celebration of his 25 years of pastoral ministry at the church.

The celebration was part of the church's annual homecoming and was attended by approximately 200 people.

Rev. Matthews said he came into the church about 11 a.m. prepared to conduct the morning worship service when he and his wife were escorted to seats of honor and members of the church began the celebration.

Rev. and Mrs. Matthews received a plaque, a letter of appreciation and a money tree.

Members of the congregation shared their memories over the past 25 years and the youth of the church spelled out the word pastor with a meaning for each letter.

The celebration lasted until 4 p.m. and included a dinner at noon, served by the ladies of the church, and special music was provided by the Cherry Glade Mennonite quartet and Robin Ringer, Ellerslie.

An anniversary cake was provided by Wilma Rexroad.

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News

The Youth group of the Bittinger parish had a meeting on Sunday afternoon at Emmanuel. Following the meeting, the film "Peege" was shown. It was a dramatic story of the elderly in nursing homes.

Members of Emmanuel's LCW will knot comforters on Tuesday, September 20, beginning at 10 a.m.

A musical program will be presented at the Glade Mennonite Church this Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. The musical group is conducted by Neil Townshend.

The homecoming at the Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday was well attended with over 200 present. Mr. Isaac Metzler, 94 years of age, spoke of the early years of the church. Her husband, now deceased, was the first pastor to be called to the Glade church in 1935. Before that time, pastors from Springs, Pa., and other areas came to hold services. BROWNS WIN PARSONS CONTEST OVER VIKES

Chopper Evans scored two touchdowns and three extra points to lead the Parsons Browns to a 27-7 victory Saturday night in Parsons for that town's bragging rights in the 1983 Mt. Top YFL Campaign.

The Vikes scored first on a run by Ed Carr. The conversion was good to give the Vikings a 7-0 halftime lead.

In the third quarter it was all Browns with Evans on a 60-yard run and another 20-yard streak. Chris Bishoff intercepted a Viking pass and cruised 35 yards for the Browns third TD. Evans scored all three extra points.

Quenton Close rounded out the Browns scoring with a 12-yard run. The conversion attempt failed.

Erick Evick, Darrell Nestor, and Carr led the Vikings defensively, while Evans, Bishoff, "Mustang" Hebb, "Beaver" Barb and Mike Bates paced the Browns' defense.

The Browns, now 2-2 on the season, draw a bye next week, while the Vikings play the Steelers this Saturday at 8 p.m. in Accident.

JETS WIN BATTLE OF THE UNDEFEATED

The Oakland Jets won the battle of the unbeatens on strong defensive play with a 7-2 victory over the Oakland Raiders Saturday evening at the Southern High School Field.

The Jets took the opening series to the Raiders end zone with Scott Browning blasting in from 11 yards out at the 3:36 mark of the first quarter. J.R. Bosley banged three yards for the conversion.

Defense prevailed until three minutes to go in the fourth quarter where the Raiders had a first and goal from the six, but the stubborn Jets' defense allowed three yards on four Raiders charges before taking over on possession.

The Jets then ran the clock to five seconds and, with fourth and nine, Jet quarterback Bobby Bernard ran into the end zone for an intentional safety. That moved the ball to the Raiders' 50 with two seconds and one last pass play which was an incomplete pass to give the Jets the win.

Bobby Thomas, Brent Sanders, Chris Helbig, and Jamie Colaw led the Raiders defense, while Marty Sharpless, J.R. Bosley, and Billy Martin led the Jets' resistance.

The Jets and Raiders both travel to Terra Alta Sunday for 1:30 and 3 p.m. games against the Dolphins and Rams.

RAMS UPSET DOLPHINS KEEP DIVISION LEAD

The Thomas-Davis Rams maintained the lead in the West Virginia division with a 13-8 come-from-behind win over the Terra Alta Dolphins Saturday night in Parsons.

The Rams drew first blood when Allen Paugh blasted six yards into the end zone, which was set up by a 79-yard run by Rob Bush to the 18. The PAT was a pass from Jim Drenning to Ross James to give the Rams the early lead.

The Dolphins came back in the fourth quarter when Jimmy Freeland banged in from seven yards out to close the gap to 7-6 after the missed conversion.

A bad snap forced the Rams into a safety, giving the Dolphins 8-7 lead with just minutes to go in the game.

The Rams bounced back by the pass and pulled the game out with a nine-yard aerial by quarterback Jim Drenning to Rob Bush to cap the scoring.

Jerry McFarland, Danny Hall, Brian Dixon and Jimmy Farris led the Dolphins defensively. The Rams were led by Drenning, James and Bush.

The Dolphins play host to the Jets at 1:30 this Sunday at Terra Alta while the Rams play the Raiders at 3 p.m., also in Terra Alta.

Scott Leads Falcons

Huskies Outmanned By Falcons, 26-13; Scoring Even Until Fourth Quarter

The Northern Huskies kept an even pace with Frankfort on Friday in Accident, at least on the scoreboard, until midway through the fourth quarter when the greater strength and experience of the Falcons finally took their toll, resulting in a 26-13 Frankfort win.

The Yardstick

Northern		Frankfort
3	First Downs Rush	13
1	First Downs Pass	1
0	First Downs Penalty	0
4	Total First Downs	14
16	Passes Attempted	5
6	Passes Completed	2

65	Net Yards Rushing	242

5- 35	Punts-Average	1- 33
1- 5	Penalties-Yards	1- 15
1-1	Fumbles-Lost	2-2

It was the third straight win for the Falcons, who are rated the number two team in the area by some pollsters.

Craig Scott, a 6-0, 190-pound fullback, was the workhorse for Frankfort, gaining 134 yards on 32 carries and scoring three touchdowns.

The Huskies stunned the visitors on the opening kickoff, which Jeff Graham received and returned 92 yards for a touchdown. The kick for the conversion by Dave George was no good.

Northern's defense held the Falcons in check until the second period, when Scott crashed over from the two for his first score. Chris Buser booted the extra point.

On their next drive, Scott scored from the three-yard line to extend the Falcons' lead. Buser's kick for the conversion failed.

The Huskies came right back with their best drive of the evening, culminating in a seven-yard scoring run by Greg Diehl. George's successful point-after kick tied the game and ended the scoring of the first half.

Northern's defense remained on the field throughout much of the third quarter, but did not yield a score.

With about six minutes remaining in the game, Scott once again carried the ball into the end zone, this time from four yards out, and Buser added the conversion kick.

With time running out, Northern's offense went to the pass on their final drive, only to have one of Graham's tosses picked off and returned deep into Husky territory. Todd Pyles then gave Frankfort one final touchdown on a three-yard burst.

Frankfort led in total offense by a 267 to 142-yard margin. Diehl paced Northern in rushing with 60-plus yards on 15 carries.

"The major keys to our loss," Northern Coach Jack Settle said, "were that they just physically wore us down and they had an excellent punt return team that gave them good field position all evening.

"They ran over 50 offensive plays to our 31," he continued. "Our defense was just on the field too much. We also have a lot of players going both ways (offense and defense), where they have several playing just one way."

Settle also said he was impressed with the strength and blocking ability of their offensive line. "They were not very quick, but they were unbelievably strong. They did very little passing and running outside, but they just pounded us up the middle all night, tackle to tackle. Scott is a good, strong runner."

Settle said that the bright spot of the evening was the successful drive just before the end of the first half. "I think a lot of people thought we would be blown off the field by Frankfort, but we weren't. I thought we played well against them, but we were just outmanned."

He noted the defensive performances of Jeff Graham and Diehl, who each grabbed an interception; Phil Carr, who had four unassisted tackles and 24 assists; linebacker Jim Swauger and defensive end Bill Friend. He also stated that he was pleased with Diehl's running. "Greg's average per carry was equal to Scott's, but we just didn't have the ball that much for him to carry it more," he said.

Another stiff challenge awaits the Huskies this Friday evening in Frostburg against Beall. The Mountaineers are 1-0 thus far, having defeated Hampshire.

Beall is paced by a veteran squad of running backs, including some highly touted transfer students.

Settle is anticipating a close game and says his team has put the Frankfort loss behind them and is anxious to meet the Mountaineers. "We know the game won't be easy, but I guarantee that we'll be there," he said.

Lady Lakers Open Season With 3-0 Win Over FSC

The Garrett County Laker Volleyball squad opened its 1983 season with a hard-earned 3-0 victory over Frostburg State College on Saturday by scores of 16-14, 15-5, and 15-9.

In the opening game, the Lakers managed a 7-5 advantage before falling behind 7-12, victim of Andrea Wohlfarth's powerful serves. The Lakers fought back to tie the game at 12-12 only to see Frostburg score two more points and achieve a game point situation 12-14 before losing serve.

At that point, Gwen McBee entered the game and sparked the Laker rally with her serves and the game was won 16-14.

The second game saw the Laker offense finally come to life with Susan Harper hitting for eight points and Christy Fratz serving for four. The Laker setters Mary Daugherty and Kathy Baker each had five assists in the game as the Lakers won handily 15-5.

Garrett gained a 14-4 advantage in the third game only to see Frostburg narrow the advantage to 14-9 on the hitting and blocking skill of Kim Ramsburg. Two rotations later Garrett won game point on Kathy Baker's serve.

According to Laker Coach Mike Friend, this was a big win for his young team. "Frostburg has a real good squad this year–better than in several years and they really tested us. We made some mistakes due to inexperience and we can serve better than this, but our team showed some character and will to win and that's the big thing I look for in an opening game. Our setters came through for us today with an excellent job. That's very critical for us this year. We have a solid hitting game if we can control the sets."

The Lakers travel to Pennsylvania this week to tangle with a powerful Carnegie-Mellon University squad and the Penn State Fayette team before returning home this Saturday against Frederick Community College, the Lakers first conference match. Game time is 2:00 p.m.

GETTING READY to throw a block for Southern Ram split end Steve Bennett is No. 43, Dave McLaughlin, against a Central Preston defender in Friday's contest on the Rams' field. Southern's defense halted the powerful Central offense and the Ram offense penetrated their veteran defensive unit to take a 22-6 win, their second in as many starts. Also identifiable in the photo are Rams No. 22, Dave Terrant; No. 24, Jeff Beeman; and No. 32, Tim Tharp.

WITH FOUR DEFENDERS on his tail, Northern Husky running back Greg Diehl scampers around end for yardage against the Frankfort Falcons Friday evening at Northern. The undefeated Falcons scored a pair of touchdowns late in the fourth quarter to break a tie with the Huskies and pick up their third win 26-13.

Next Stop: Musselman

Defense Shuts Down Central Preston As Rams Record Second Win, 22-6

Led by another outstanding defensive effort, the Southern High Rams earned their second win in as many starts this season as they overpowered Central Preston Friday evening, 22-6, in Southern's home opener.

The Yardstick

Southern		Central Preston
12	First Downs Rush	3
3	First Downs Pass	1
1	First Downs Penalty	1
16	Total First Downs	5
13	Passes Attempted	8
6	Passes Completed	3

216	Net Yards Rushing	45
341	Total Offense	97
2 19.0	Punts Average	5 22.0
7 65	Penalties Yards	10 77
0 0.	Fumbles Lost	3 0

The Ram tacklers yielded only 45 yards rushing to Central's experienced running backs, who are led by 1982 West Virginia first team All-State selection, Brad Metheny. The 6-2, 180-pound senior was held to only 22 yards on the ground. The Ram defensive unit has allowed an average of 18 yards on the ground in its first two encounters.

Southern's offense also displayed a strong showing both on the ground and in the air against a Central Preston defense which includes eight starters from last season's winning team. Quarterback J.R. Gibson connected on seven of 13 passes for 125 yards, while he and the other running backs rolled up 216 rushing yards.

Dave Terrant paced the Southern ground attack with 91 yards. Fullback Tim Tharp also accounted for considerable yardage through the middle of the Central defense.

After a scoreless first quarter, Gibson found Jim Freeman with an 11-yard toss into the end zone, early in the second stanza Gibson also hit Freeman for the two-point conversion.

The Rams came back for another score late in the quarter as Gibson connected with Steve Bennett on an 11-yard toss. The conversion attempt failed.

It appeared that the Rams could take a 14-0 lead into the locker rooms at the half, however Central Preston's Jeff Thorne received a Ram punt and rambled 73 yards for a touchdown with less than one minute remaining. The kick for the conversion went wide to the right.

Southern's defense put two more points on the board in the third quarter by dropping the Central Preston runner in his own end zone for a safety.

A 12-yard run by Tharp in the fourth period rounded out the scoring for the evening.

A 70-yard punt return to the end zone by Southern's Dave McLaughlin in the second half was nullified because of a penalty.

"The key to our win was the fact that our kids played a very intense, physical game and never let up," Coach Tom Woods stated. "We have one of the strongest, quickest defenses we've ever had and our skilled people are as good as we have had in a long time. I was a little surprised, but certainly pleased, that we were able to throw against Central Preston as well as we did."

Two concerns expressed by Woods were the performance of the special teams, which gave up one score and almost allowed another one, plus the inconsistent play at the defensive corners. "We have to do better at controlling the runs to the outside," he said, "especially against teams like Musselman."

Woods also noted the performance of Mark Younkin at center, who filled in for regular John Thayer who is out with a bruised knee. There were no fumbles during the exchanges between Younkin and Gibson.

Competition will most likely be even tougher this week for the Rams as they travel to Musselman to take on the undefeated Applemen, who won the state double-A championship last year and hold a 27-0 record in regular season games. The last Musselman loss was to none other than Southern two years ago.

Back from last year's championship team are three of four starters in the offensive backfield. Halfback Beetle Robinson, another West Virginia All-State selection, picked up nearly 2,000 yards last year. The 5-9, 155-pound speedster is joined by wingback Kevin Bain, 5-9, 155, who is just as fast, and fullback Vince Owens, 5-10, 188-pounds.

Other standouts include defensive and offensive tackle, Dale Murphy, 5-10, 205, and Scott Staubs, a 6-0, 190-pound tight end and linebacker.

Musselman's record is 2-0-1 so far this season, the 0-0 tie coming last week against Clark County, Va. The Applemen have yet to be scored against.

"Musselman has the strongest program on our schedule," Woods said. "Every year they get 100 kids out for football, so they have a lot of talent to choose from. They also have an excellent coach."

The biggest problem Woods sees for his defense is keeping the backs contained around the corners on sweeps. "They run eight out of ten plays around end," he said, "and if we are unable to stop them, we're going to have a big problem."

With their quickness, Woods also said that the play of their special teams is excellent, particularly on kick and punt returns.

John Thayer is the only Southern gridder expected to miss Friday's contest because of injury. Back in the lineup is Tim Sanders, who sees considerable action at guard and defensive end. Reserve Don Horner is also healthy once again.

Kick-off at Musselman is slated for 8 p.m.

Grantsville Chief Arrests Four On Charges Of Theft

Grantsville Police Chief John M. Thomas reported several arrests in connection with a September 5 theft at Buckel's Market, located in that town.

According to the officer, Ms. Jeannie Weimer, 24, Lonaconing, a former employee of the market; James Walker Winebrenner, 18, Grantsville; Franklin Fay Wilt, 20; and Robert Eugene Wilt, 18, both of Grantsville, were arrested on September 9 and charged with theft after a money box was taken from a refrigerator during business hours at the establishment. Weimer allegedly took the money box from the storage place, put it inside a cardboard box, and carried it to a car parked near the store. The action was observed by the 12-year-old son of the owner, and police were notified. Weimer returned the cash box to the owner the following day, and confessed to her part in the theft, according to the report.

Robert Eugene Wilt was later charged with consuming alcohol in a public place and disorderly conduct by Chief Thomas after he resisted arrest.

Repairs Continue Behind Schedule At State Bridge

Construction work at the Bear Creek Bridge will take a few weeks longer than anticipated due to a problem with obtaining supplies, said a State Highway Administration official Monday.

Wallace Beaulieux, SHA district engineer, said the supplies for the contractor, HMF Enterprises, were sent to the wrong location, delaying the work by about a week.

State highway officials previously projected the work on the bridge would be completed by mid-September. Now, the work is expected to be done by the end of September.

County school buses, which usually crossed the Bear Creek Bridge along U.S. 219, to transport students have been detoured on a county road under the bridge while the bridge undergoes the repairs.

Republican Women Schedule Political Education Forum

The Women's Republican Club of Allegany County will conduct a political education workshop the first Saturday in October, October 1, from 9:30 to 12:30 in the continuing education building of Allegany Community College.

The title of the workshop will be "Running an Effective Campaign." Guest speakers for the morning session will be State Sen. John Bambacus and Mrs. Lois Hessler, campaign activities chairperson for the Maryland Federation of Republican Women.

Sen. Bambacus will discuss campaign organization, fund raising and points to consider before running for office.

Mrs. Hessler plans to explain the Federation's perspective in campaigning, what Republican women can do to help, and encouraging women to run for office.

All Republican clubs and registered Republicans in the area are invited. Reservations must be received by Monday, September 26. To register or for further information, call Susan DeHart at 722-4535 during the day or 729-6348 in the evenings.

"Speak Up" Is New BPW Theme

"Speak Up and Join BPW" is the national international motto for the coming year for all Business and Professional Women's clubs, reported membership chairman Marci McClive at the September 8 meeting of the Garrett County organization at Will O' the Wisp.

Ms. McClive continued by saying that when asked why women join the Garrett County BPW they respond with "I believe in the purpose of BPW which is to elevate the standards of working women. I am interested in personal growth, leadership development, committee interaction, making change happen for working women in Garrett County. I want to be involved in the community, improving the status of working women, and BPW works to do this."

Other reasons quoted included "I want to network with other professionals. I was looking for the fellowship of membership and BPW is a group which has my needs in perspective."

Ms. McClive then cited local help toward elevating the standards of working women through special programs such as the Young Career Woman which honors women between 20 and 30 who are developing careers; Woman of the Year which honors a club member of achievement; and state convention which is a forum for club concerns and serves to collectively make the position of BPW members everywhere in the state known.

The local club also supports women who are candidates for political office through contributions to a Political Action Committee, hosting political forums and nominating women for local and state appointments.

Anyone desiring more information about membership may call Marci McClive at 387-4745.

Reports Given

Reports from all standing committee chairmen were given, and plans formulated for a food booth to sell chili and hot dogs, hot chocolate and coffee during the Autumn Glory parade October 15 in Oakland. The booth will be located in front of Hair N' Phernalia on Second Street.

Patricia White, the club's delegate to the National Convention in Ohio in July, gave a report on activities there, and Lenore Pyle, the club's scholarship recipient for 1983, presented her thanks for the financial aid.

The club will be selling chances on a handmade quilt until its December meeting and is planning a "games" night in November to aid the scholarship fund, according to Leona Beckman, club president.

The next meeting is scheduled October 20 at Will O' the Wisp.

Gilpin was jailed for assault, malicious destruction, and disorderly intoxication following a 1981 altercation between himself and Perry Edminson, manager of the New Germany State Park.

Gilpin had driven his vehicle into the Savage River Reservoir, and had flagged Edminson down to help him remove the vehicle. He then entered the state owned vehicle operated by the park employee, became abusive, and damaged the vehicle.

Autumn Glory Festival To Again Feature State Banjo, Fiddle Events

"Carl Baer and the Sounds of Country"

The Maryland State Five-String Banjo Championship and Maryland State Fiddle Championship are among the highlights of Garrett County's 16th Annual Autumn Glory Festival scheduled for October 13-16.

The Banjo competition begins Friday, October 14, at the Southern High School gym at 8 p.m. After the competition and following a short intermission, "Carl Baer and the Sounds of Country" band will be performing. Carl Baer is the lead vocalist and ryhthm guitarist. Carl's son, 15-year-old Stephen Baer, has been playing on shows for the past five years and now is the lead guitarist for the group. On bass guitar and vocals is Denny Reed. In the past, Denny has played studio backup music in Nashville for well-known stars. Playing drums is Joe Kirby, better known as "J.W. Kirby, super genius." Kirby has been with the band since its beginning and also does vocals. He has done studio work with top Nashville stars also. The Sounds of Country Band has been on the road for the past two years.

The Fiddle competition is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, October 15, also at the Southern High School gym. After a short intermission and the announcement of the fiddle winners, winners from the fiddle contest and banjo contest will return to compete against each other. After the competition the band "Southpaw" will perform. The band consists of four musicians: Butch Moats, vocals and bass; Rodger Ware, vocals, guitar and banjo; Brian Sheally, vocals and drums; and Bill Janoske, guitar. "Southpaw" was formed in April 1983.

Contestants for both of these events are from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states.

In and Around

Mountain Lake Park

by Margo Vandiver, Council Member

Thank you, Senator Randolph! While it's no longer news that you honored us with a visit on September 4, 1983, we want to let you know that we appreciate you joining our list of prestigious visitors which in the past has included U. S. presidents. In fact you have helped us bridge the gap between past and present, since we have not been honored in quite awhile by a visiting government official.

As town residents we recognize several significant points regarding your visit:

One, a man with a very busy schedule, long representing constituents of a neighboring state, took time out to present a very special gift to our small town.

Two, despite little publicity, Park residents welcomed you with a standing room only audience.

Three, your gift of an American flag which has flown over the Capitol serves to remind us that we have citizenship responsibilities not only at the local, but the state and national level as well. We cannot afford to think of ourselves as residents of a small, insignificant town tucked away in the western recesses of Maryland, but must recognize that many individuals from the far reaches of the globe have fond remembrances of our hospitality and traditions.

Therefore, we not only have a right to feel proud about our community, but must in fact do so. Thus we will insure that the Park will be as well remembered by future generations as you and many others do today, Senator.

All leads in this case have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers is seeking the help of the public. Merchant Begins Program To Aid Needy Students

A Deep Creek Lake business has started a program in the county schools which involves providing clothing and meal ticket money to needy students.

James Lascaris, president of the Silver Tree Inn Restaurant, said Monday the idea was born out of his desire to help those in need in this county and his memories of his school days when he saw students without basic necessities, such as a winter coat.

"Now I can afford to donate some money," Lascaris said. "I believe in helping those at home first.

The restaurant will be sponsoring four students in county schools, providing each with a meal ticket and a $200 clothing allowance. Their plan is to sponsor a boy and girl in Northern Middle School and in Southern Middle School.

But, they will not know the identity of those they sponsor.

School principals Tom Fowler and Jack Rickman both stated they believed keeping the names of students confidential was necessary. "No one will know except some administrators and counselors," said Rickman.

The two are working with their staffs to determine how the students will be selected.

The principals noted that about 35 percent of their students benefit from the free and reduced price lunch program, but there are some who qualify for the program but do not take advantage of it. These students would probably be considered for the aid before others who are already benefitting from the school's program.

Robert Rodeheaver, a Board of Education instructional supervisor, who is working with Lascaris and the principals, stated the concept is unique. He recalled a similar program, run by former school superintendent Willard Hawkins, in which persons in the community donated money and Hawkins took needy students to local stores to buy them clothing. Money was also contributed to provide milk to needy students.

Both principals believed the idea to a be a "great" one, and believed it would help many students, particularly in the middle and high schools. Fowler pointed out that from sixth grade up, students begin to care more what others think of them and care about their appearance. This program, he thought, would help improve a youth's self-image.

Lascaris said he hoped other businessmen in the community would join in the program.

Laurel Run No. 2 Mine Sets Coal Production Safety Records

One tri-state area mine has quietly gone about setting a new safety record for its company and setting an excellent example for all mines.

By Friday, September 9, Laurel Run No. 2 mine had compiled 214 days without a lost-time accident, and had had three state and seven federal inspections without incurring any citations for mine safety violations.

This is particularly outstanding in light of the fact that the mine opened in January of this year and is only 1,800 feet from the portal, a time normally one of the more hazardous to coal miners.

The entire safety picture for Laurel Run is enhanced by the fact that since opening Laurel Run number one in 1971, there has never been a fatality.

Laurel Run is located along Route 93 not far from Virginia Electric and Power Company's Mt. Storm Fossil fuel station. Mt. Storm uses all of the Upper Freeport seam of coal mined by Laurel Run to run its steam turbines to generate electricity. Additional coal needed to fuel the steam-fired turbines is purchased from local strip mines or other deep mines such as North Branch, a division of Island Creek Coal.

Laurel Run is a wholly-owned subsidiary of VEPCO, purchased in 1982 from Eastern Associated Coal.

According to John Ely, general mine superintendent since 1978, the mines broke production records last month and this year expects to mine more than 1.1 million tons of coal. During previous years the average amount mined was 600,000 tons. In August, the mine produced 143,713 tons, far above the normal 90,000 to 95,000 tons.

Ely attributes part of the increase to the longwall installed in Laurel Run's number one mine in 1981. That mine is expected to be finished with the longwall by 1987, when the longwall equipment will be moved to number two mine. Estimated coal reserves at the number two mine are expected to last 35 years at the present rate of mining, with 24 hour a day production on five continuous mining sections and the longwall.

Laurel Run owns or leases over 2,000 surface acres between Davis, Bayard and Mt. Storm. Thousands more acres of mineral rights are expected to keep the 407 men and women coal miners there and working well beyond the year 2,000 without opening a new mine portal.

Laurel Run's number two mine employs 62 of the company's 407 employees. Construction on the mine first began in 1977 but it was closed down in 1980 until January of this year due to various problems experienced there.

Ely also noted that when the miners transferred to number two mine, they "did a tremendous amount of work" to get the mine ready to produce coal by April.

Mine officials in addition to Ely who are justifiably proud of the Laurel Run record include George Helms, general mine foreman; William Thomas, master mechanic; Dick Wills, longwall coordinator; Joe Scott, supervisor of the safety department; Garry Mayfield, day shift foreman; Marshall Hottle, second shift foreman; and Earl Zirk, third shift foreman.

The 34th reunion will be held the first Sunday in August, 1984, at the same location.

TUBING encloses a conveyor belt carrying coal from the mines to the Laurel Run preparation plant for cleaning, and from there some 10,000 feet to VEPCO's Mt. Storm power station to fuel the steam turbines. The beltline is capable of carrying 750 tons per hour to the power plant.

VITAL BRIDGE

Living on an island has its problems! Islands are just fine . . . until you run out of bread or need the refrigerator fixed. That's why we built this rustic bridge last summer. It's safer for the children than our old boat, and it links us with our neighbors if we or they need help in a hurry.

There is great need for another bridge these days . . . not of wood or stone, but of understanding between the world's people. "No man is an island . . ." We are all children of God, made in His image.

The Christian Church is the living bridge that seeks to unite people everywhere in the fellowship of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. By supporting your church and striving to live by its teachings, you help to span the gulf of ignorance and fear that still separates us from our brothers and sisters.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE BEST LIKENESS

September 25, 1983

Background Scripture:
John 1:14-18; 14:8-11; Hebrews 1:1-4; 1 John 1:1-4.

Devotional Reading:
John 1:14-18.

One of the standard philosophical arguments for the existence of God is our continuing discovery that in every corner of the world there is testimony and evidence that virtually al peoples have believed in some kind of Higher Power, Ultimate Source, or Ground of Being--to use just a few of the terms that have been used to designate the reality you and I call God.

For some people this conviction has been founded upon a perception of God as creator. For others, this perception has been manifested as the experience of God in history. Still others have perceived God as the source of morality, particularly through the pronouncements of prophets and lawgivers.

Various Ways

Since my first days in the Christian ministry I have come to realize that all religions tend to point us in the same direction. Although initially I was quite insensitive to the value of other religions, I have since discovered much of value in the teachings and experiences of religions other than Christianity. God has said some important things to us through Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, and so forth. There are many, many different paths to the one God. Some of them I can understand and appreciate and some I cannot. (That is a reflection upon me, not the other religions.)

Yet, as my understanding and appreciation of the value of other religions has grown over the years, I have come to an even deeper appreciation for and attachment to the revelation of God I find in Jesus Christ. I cannot choose for others or even judge the value of their choices. For myself, however, I am even more convinced of the magnitude and depth of the fullness of the God I find in Jesus Christ. For me, then, the words of Hebrews have a very special meaning:

> In many and various ways God spoke of old to our fathers by the prophets, but in these last days he has spoken to us by a Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom he also created the world. He reflects the glory of God and bears the very stamp of his nature... (1:1-3a)

Seeing The Father

Ironically, it is my faith in Christ that helps me to appreciate the value of other religions. The God I encounter in Christ is not the parochial tribal God so many people try to present as "Christian," but a God so big and great that only the whole world and all its peoples are a creation big enough and great enough to be his. There are and will continue to be lots of questions which my faith leaves vague or unanswered, but, if I want to know the essential nature of God, I know I have only to look to Jesus Christ to find the key to life in this cosmos. I know fully what Jesus means when he says, "He who has seen me has seen the Father."

All accommodations are top-drawer at 'Hotel'

By Peter Meade

James Brolin has received more pilots than O'Hare Airport since "Marcus Welby, M.D." ended seven years ago. But the first one he checked into was "Hotel."

The reason is simple: The show has success printed all over it. What other series can boast Bette Davis and Anne Baxter as cast members? The staff of "Hotel," based on the novel by Arthur Hailey, also boasts Connie Sellecca and Shari Belafonte-Harper, along with a guest list of stars that would impress even the Waldorf-Astoria.

James Brolin

"There's a large enough cast for variety," says Brolin. "The situations are endless. It's going to be a top 20 show. That's what I felt when I read the pilot."

The first show was filmed at the opulent Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. This required starting the day's filming at midnight and continuing until noon. For the rest of the 12 episodes executive producers Aaron Spelling and Douglas S. Cramer had an identical set built — the largest ever for a TV series — on three stages at Warner's Hollywood Studios.

"A Spelling-Cramer show is always so luxuriously done," says Brolin. "There are so many nice touches put in. This was the last pilot I'd read — it was a straggler. I had decided I'd do TV and then Spelling got me on the phone. He's quite a salesman."

Brolin was impressed by the show, by Spelling himself, and that the series didn't require his presence in every frame. He got a better grasp of his character, the sauve hotel manager Peter McDermott, by reading Hailey's novel as the pilot was being shot.

"Hotel" will utilize the format of several ongoing vignettes and cutaway endings pioneered by "Hill Street Blues."

"By leaving the stories open-ended," says Brolin, "people can't wait to get back to it. We have to develop some approach to get people to watch and make it hard for them to reach out and change the channel."

'It's Not Easy' tries to laugh at divorce

By Peter Meade

Divorce may not be the ultimate laugh-a-minute concept, but ABC's new series "It's Not Easy," to debut Thursday, Sept. 29, is trying to show the humor involved in the plight of America's population of 11 million divorced people.

The show's title might be the reply of the once-married masses when asked how one can survive divorce, single-parenting, extended family life yet prosper and flourish in the furious '80s. These may be serious subjects but the half-hour tries to bring out the lighter side. Patricia Nardo, the show's creator, writer and producer, has had to deal with divorce and single-parenting in real-life — as have two-thirds of all Los Angeles households. So have cast members Jayne Meadows and Ken Howard.

Howard says he first heard about the series just after his "White Shadow" series went off the air in 1981. But, as a dutiful stepparent, he thought it was too soon to get involved with another series when his stepchildren would be going off to school in just a couple more years.

"But I'd always wanted to try the half-hour format," says Howard. "It's a real civilized schedule. We work 10 to 6, like normal people."

Although recently he's best known for his more serious roles in the miniseries "The Thorn Birds" and "Rage of Angels," the 6-foot-6 former Yalie agreed to join the sitcom because he believes his acting strength is in comedy.

Ken Howard

"I did comedy on Broadway (making his debut in 'Promises, Promises'), " he says, "and I came out smelling like a rose. If I try to be dark and sinister, all I could get would be construction work."

With the children in boarding school back East, Howard and his wife, Margo, left their Connecticut farmhouse and moved West to live by the beach.

"My wife calls California my cheap girlfriend," says Howard. "It's a paid vacation. I play a lot of golf. I started playing about five years ago and the only way to be consistent is to play a lot. The only thing I can say about my golf game is that it's better than my tennis game. I also go out and run on the beach a lot. We have a lot of fun, but when the taping is finished we have to go back to the real world."

A Van Patten weds; Diahann's music box

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Lisa Marie Presley, 15, and her beloved, Scott Rollins, 18-year-old nephew of her legal guardian, were pulled in for speeding in his Buick. They're head over wheels, a person might say... George Hamilton now has custody of his son. Little Ashley now lives in Natchez, Miss., where daddy has a plantation. Alana Hamilton Stewart, Ashley's mummy, is the mummy of two more children by Rod Stewart, but they don't live on a plantation. They make do in a drafty old castle... Actor Jim Van Patten — he's Dick's boy — and model Nicollette Savalas — Telly's stepdaughter — will wed next month.

Robert Redford, whose vocation of late has been ecology, is returning to his avocation — moviemaking. He'll produce "River Rats" for Paramount. It'll star Tommy Lee Jones. The young girl lead will be 13-year-old Martha Plimpton, child of actress Shelley Plimpton... Broadway's Music Box Theatre presented a gift to Diahann Carroll for stepping into the "Agnes of God" role so effectively. They gave her a music box.

Jaye P. Morgan broke her wrist in three places. Forget about falling off a moving horse. Jaye P. fell off a rocking horse. In her own house in Malibu, yet. Now playing an agent in "The Unknown Comic Movie," with Pat Paulsen and Linda Blair, the script is accommodating the injury by letting her play an agent with a broken arm.

And then there's Sylvester's brother, Frank Stallone, who just broke both ankles. Doing a concert in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Frank leaned over to shake hands with fans in the front and got yanked into the audience.

For five years Joe Silver has done Fixodent's TV commercials. He's the aggressive guy who slaps his pals on the back and watches their false teeth pop out. Silver, who doesn't wear dentures and doesn't even have a cavity, signed another three-year deal.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Has Glen Scarpelli left "One Day at a Time"? — E.W., Joplin, Mo.

Yes. Glen, who played Alex, has left the series. In the new season Howard Hesseman (formerly of "WKRP in Cincinnati") joins the cast as the father of Mark Royer (played by Boyd Gaines), who is married to Valerie Bertinelli's character on the show. And to increase the family feeling, Hesseman's character is Ann's (Bonnie Franklin) new husband. Scarpelli will show up on NBC's new Friday night sitcom "Jennifer Slept Here," starring Ann Jillian.

Glen Scarpelli

I have heard that Victor French plans to continue "Little House on the Prairie." I would like to write him so I could submit a manuscript based on actual experiences of life on the prairie. Where can I reach him? — H.C., Camas, Wash.

Victor French, who played Mr. Edwards and frequently has directed episodes of the series, was very outspoken when the popular series was canceled. Enough people agreed with him for the network to order three "Little House" movies for TV, one of which has already been shot. Since the stories were based on a series of books about prairie life by Laura Ingalls Wilder, they don't need additional material. Also, it's unlikely anything you sent would be read. Submissions should be from an agent. However, if you want to write Victor after all that, you can do it in care of the series at MGM Studios, Culver City, CA 90230.

Efram and Stephanie Zimbalist

Is Stephanie Zimbalist of "Remington Steele" related to a famous classical pianist? — S.F., Charlotte, N.C.

No, but she is the granddaughter of a great classical violinist, Efrem Zimbalist. And the great classical violinist is the father of Efrem Zimbalist Jr., of "The FBI" and other TV series, who is Stephanie's father.

Ken Howard (l.), Carlene Watkins and Bert Convy star as a trio with an interesting past and questionable future on the new ABC's Thursday night sitcom "It's Not Easy."

Bergman adds mystery to the 'DOOL' cast

By Kimberly Redmond

"Days of Our Lives" has added the handsome blond good looks of daytime newcomer Richard Bergman to its cast as Anna DiMera's mysterious gigolo brother, Brett Fredericks.

Born in Plymouth, Ind., Bergman excelled in football, baseball and basketball before he became interested in acting. It was while attending Hanover College in Southern Indiana on a football scholarship, that Bergman made the decision to major in theater arts. Upon graduation he joined a theater group and did summer stock and dinner theater productions before moving to Los Angeles.

Bergman's television credits include "Barnaby Jones," "B.J. and the Bear," "Galactica 1980" and "Dallas." In the summer of 1981 he landed the role of Father Joe Parker on "Father Murphy." On "DOOL," Bergman's role will be anything but priestly as he connives and schemes his way into the lives, and pocketbooks, of the local Salem residents.

Bergman resides in California's San Fernando Valley with his wife and daughter.

Composer-pianist Earl Rose, whose credits include scores for motion pictures and television shows, has become an integral part of "Ryan's Hope." The composer plans to write individual songs and musical themes for many of the characters in the series. Along with his composing activities, Rose has toured the country as a concert pianist and appeared as a guest artist with various symphony orchestras. His first theatrical musical comedy, "Nobody's Perfect," was recently presented by the Equity Theatre in New York's Lincoln Center.

Due to a "lack of story line," Rose Alaio (Helena Manzini) is the latest in a long list of cast casualties on "Guiding Light."

"I had a lot of fun working on 'GL,' " says Miss Alaio. "It was a wonderful experience for me, and an opportunity I feel I've made the most of. This has happened for the best, because it's never wise for an actor to get too comfortable. It's time for me to move on."

She is already working on a new play and recently received a film offer, so it's obvious she isn't going to be idle for long.

Also dropped from the "GL" cast for a similar reason was long-time cast member Tom O'Rourke (Justin Marler).

'The Chipmunks'; ready for a comeback

By Elaina Thompson

The biggest comeback in show business history? It may be those feisty little Chipmunks.

Absent for 13 years, the 1980 album from the squeaky-voiced trio hit gold status two months later, then on to platinum. Their first television special last Christmas scored higher ratings than other animated favorites Charlie Brown, Pac-Man and the Smurfs. Now there's a feature movie in production and the new NBC Saturday morning series "Alvin and the Chipmunks."

How did this exploding success start? Songwriter Ross Bagdasarian Sr. hit on the idea of singing chipmunks after hearing a speeded-up recording. Later he developed a plotline that fitted the animation with himself as the model-and-voice of the Chipmunks' human protector, David Seville.

But by 1967 he had phased them out of his business interests. He died in 1972, while Ross Jr. was still in college aiming to be the businessman and a lawyer as his father wanted him to be. Although he received his law degree in 1976, Ross Jr. found he was mesmerized with the thought of giving his father's Chipmunks a future.

The idea of the Chipmunks began on a dark night in 1958 when Ross Sr. braked his car in time to avoid hitting a critter crossing the road. He was startled by the defiance of this chipmunk, and it reminded him of the tough executives in the music business, like his chum, Alvin Bennett." (The other chipmunks, Theodore and Simon, were named after other bigwigs in the field.)

Ross Bagdasarian

"No, the real Al didn't mind the chipmunk being named for him," Bagdasarian says. "Not after the Chipmunks sold 30 million records for his company."

But all the original contacts and boosters were gone when Ross Jr. and Janice Karman — partners for seven years, husband and wife for three — began working on the recent Chipmunk resurgence.

"The breakthrough came by a fluke when a disc jockey did a punk rock speed-up (of an old song) and said it was a new Chipmunk release," Bagdasarian says. "It started a demand."

Ross Jr. and Janice already had formats in mind. Her background is film production and she does the story-boards, flies them to Korea for animation and with Ross co-writes the scripts and music. She also does the voice of Theodore. Ross does Alvin, Simon and David.

Simon MacCorkindale

'Manimal' debuts

New York police consultant Jonathan Chase has found a unique way to fight crime. This is the premise of NBC's new Friday night series "Manimal," to debut with a 90-minute episode on Sept. 30.

Simon MacCorkindale plays Professor Chase, but you won't always recognize him. He has been experimenting with transformation and this has led to the biggest secret in crime fighting since someone found that silly red and blue uniform in Clark Kent's closet. Chase can change himself into a variety of animals and that's how he helps detective Brooke McKenzie (Melody Anderson) fight crime in the Big Apple. This show ought to be funnier than a barrel of monkies.

Nancy & Grace

First Lady Nancy Reagan is on hand when "Great Performances" returns on Monday, Sept. 26. She will be part of a musical tribute to the former First Lady of Monaco, in "Princess Grace Remembered."

The National Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Mstislav Rostropovich, will be part of the 90-minute presentation taped at a benefit concert last March at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

The music will include "Adagio for Strings," the late Princess' favorite selection, and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 5."

A montage of photographs and film clips of Princess Grace's public life and acting career will be shown, as will interviews with Mrs. Reagan and Rostropovich.

Pierre Salinger, who interviewed Princess Grace in her last on-camera appearance, is the host of the tribute.

The 1983 Maryland State Teachers Association Convention will be held October 28-30, at Ocean City. Five delegates will represent G.C.T.A.: President Betty White, Cindy Downton, Keith Harvey, John Helmick and Lowell Leitzel.

On the state legislative scene, teachers can expect another attack on the teachers' state retirement system. According to Jim Spencer, M.S.T.A. Assistant Executive Director for Research and Governmental Relations, the retirement system is currently sound. However, Tom Gray, M.S.T.A. chief lobbyist in Annapolis, has stated that State Senate President Melvin Steinberg will again push for measures to limit and/or revise the retirement system and the benefits for teachers. For further information, teachers should watch for articles which will appear in the M.S.T.A. Actionline.

N.E.A. Items

The National Education Association held its annual convention in July in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Mary Hatwood Futrell was elected to succeed Williard McGuire as N.E.A. President. Ms. Futrell was the former N.E.A. Secretary/Treasurer. John Helmick represented G.C.T.A. at the N.E.A. Convention. He has a video cassette tape of some of the convention proceedings, which is available to members upon request.

Ms. Futrell addressed Maryland teachers in August at the M.S.T.A. Leadership Training Institute at St. Mary's College. To prepare teachers for the year ahead, Ms. Futrell stated: "The coming year is going to require that you and I be stronger, better organized, and unified. The decisions will be tough, but they must be made—and implemented. Each of us will have to work harder to recruit members—to ask every person eligible to join to do so. We must advocate for all our members and teach them to advocate for themselves and for the children they teach."

Maryland School Board Convention To Begin Sept. 28

Excellence in education will be discussed when nearly 150 Maryland school board members gather in Frederick September 28-30. The annual Maryland Association of Boards of Education convention will be at the Sheraton Inn.

Using the many recent reports on education as a point of departure, state education funding commission chairman Benjamin R. Civiletti and state superintendent David W. Hornbeck will discuss "Excellence in Maryland education: where do we go from here?" Friday morning. Civiletti's task force has been working through the summer to propose alternatives to Maryland's present aid to the education funding structure.

Attending from Garrett County will be school superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage and Board of Education members Clarence Stem, Anna Mary Fratz, Beverly Murphy and Dr. Leo O'Neill.

Futurist Marvin J. Cetron will be Wednesday's keynote speaker. He is expected to predict the role education must take as technology becomes more important. School board members will also attend a number of sessions on the uses of computers in public schools.

Dr. Conrad F. Toepfer, Jr., another major speaker, has had wide influence in education circles, proposing applications of adolesecent brain research to learning.

Board members will also choose from such workshop offerings as changing college admission standards, employee contracts, legal issues, and a debate on merit pay.

Gertrude H. Crist, former board of education member from Howard County, will receive the association's annual Charles W. Willis Memorial Award for outstanding school board service. Mrs. Crist, now a member of the State Board for Higher Education, was a member of her local board from 1953 to 1970, including two terms as its president and four as vice president. She was twice elected president of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education.

The State Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday morning in conjunction with the convention. The Association will also elect new officers at its annual business meeting.

MABE's current officers are Elizabeth C. Draper, Queen Anne's County, president; Rita S. Gordon, Frederick County, first vice president; Carolee B. Smith, Baltimore County, second vice president; Wilson H. Parran, Calvert County, treasurer; and Robert L. Fletcher, Carroll County, treasurer.

Executive committee members are Howard E. Marshall, Baltimore County, immediate past president; Susan B. Bieniasz, Prince George's County, Glennon L. DeRoy, Harford County, Dr. Marian L. Greenblatt, Montgomery County, Corinne S. Les Callette, Wicomico County; Clarence L. Stem, Garrett County; and Dr. John L. Wisthoff, Anne Arundel County.

Convention program committee members are chairman Gail T. Bowerman, Frederick; Robert T. Walker, Baltimore City; Dr. Edward W. Holmes, Baltimore County; Shirley J. Slusher, Calvert; M. Anne Miller, Carroll County; Kathleen H. Wise, Dorchester; Karen A. Federline, Howard; Marilyn J. Praisner, Montgomery County; Donna Wigglesworth and Evelyn T. Hill, Somerset County; and Linda C. Finzel Resident, Jorn K. Bramann, Publishes Book

Jorn K. Bramann, Finzel, has just published an anthology of philosophy and poetry under the title Self-Determination with Adler Publishing Company in Rochester, New York.

The book, which also features illustrations that are related to the philosophical issues, deals with the question "Who am I?", What is my true identity?", and with problems related to that question. It is a publication on which Dr. Bramann has been working while living on his small farm in Finzel.

Dr. Bramann is a native of Germany who has received an advanced degree from the Universtity of Oregon and is presently teaching half-time at Frostburg State College and working on two more books, Gainful Unemployment, which he is co-authoring with Jim Ralston of Garrett Community College, and a scholarly study, Wittgenstein's Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus and Modern Art. He has previously published articles on literary and philosophical topics and is editor of Nightsun, a literary and interdisciplinary yearbook which features nationally and internationally known authors.

Self-Determination traces the origins of various twentieth century conceptions of the self back to the exploratory thoughts of seventeenth to nineteenth century philosophers and writers. It discusses such authors as Descartes, Kant, Emerson, Thoreau, Whitman and Dostoyevsky. It shows how modern self-conceptions have developed from their historical predecessors.

"This collection should be especially useful in stimulating student thought . . . the interesting juxtaposition of different strands of philosphic thought centered around one theme, and a meaningly one at that, strikes me as being a valuable educational tool. And I especially liked the intermingling of excerpts from poets, novelists, and social thinkers as well as philosophers," wrote Harry Magdoff, co-editor of Monthly Review.

Self-Determination will be available in area bookstores, or can be ordered from Adler Publishing Company, P.O. Box 9342, Rochester, New York 14604.

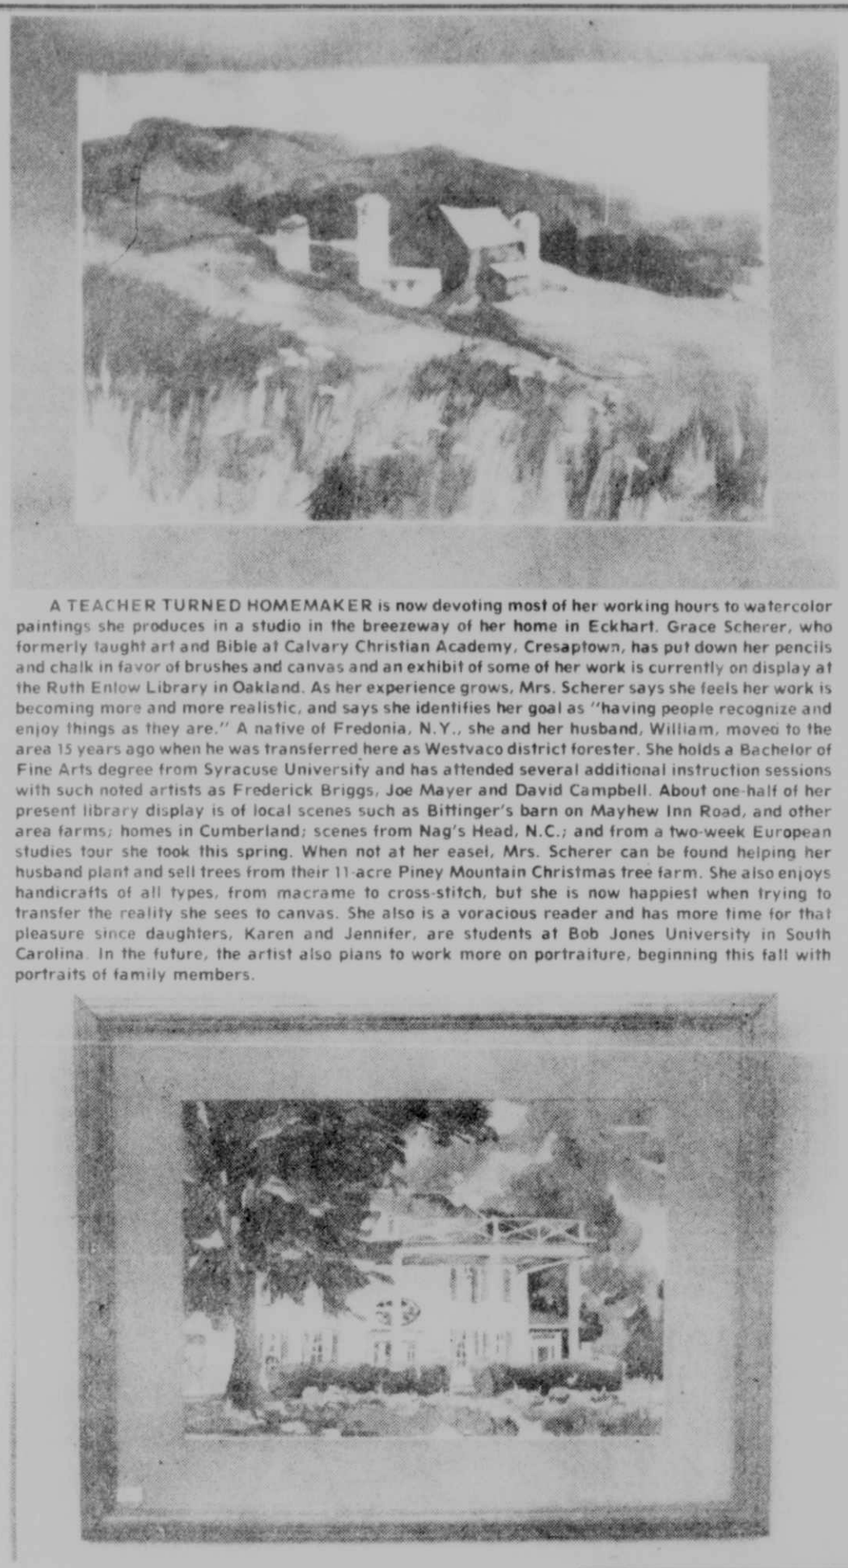
Senior Citizens Attend Jamboree At Wildwood

Forty-six senior citizens departed from Oakland on Sept. 15 at 6 a.m. for a trip to Wildwood, N.J.

The trip was arranged by Ernest and Alice Spoerlein. The bus driver was James Abe and the escort was Martha Armstrong.

Entertainment was provided by Ernest Spoerlein, Joseph Welch, Hugh Denison and Robert E. Lee.

The group spent Tuesday at Atlantic City and on Wednesday took a boat ride around the islands. Thursday they took a trip to historic Smithville and traveled to Wheaton Village on Friday where they toured the Wheaton Museum of Glass and witnessed a demonstration of glass blowing.



They had dinner at the famous Enrica Restaurant which was followed by music and dancing.

The trip concluded with a White Star Senior Citizens Jamboree at Convention Hall, complete with music, dancing and entertainment.

Those taking the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spoerlein, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Denison, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steyer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Lester White, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Steyer and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lear.

A TEACHER TURNED HOMEMAKER is now devoting most of her working hours to watercolor paintings she produces in a studio in the breezeway of her home in Eckhart. Grace Scherer, who formerly taught art and Bible at Calvary Christian Academy, Cresaptown, has put down her pencils and chalk in favor of brushes and canvas and an exhibit of some of her work is currently on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. As her experience grows, Mrs. Scherer says she feels her work is becoming more and more realistic, and says she identifies her goal as "having people recognize and enjoy things as they are." A native of Fredonia, N.Y., she and her husband, William, moved to the area 15 years ago when he was transferred here as Westvaco district forester. She holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Syracuse University and has attended several additional instruction sessions with such noted artists as Frederick Briggs, Joe Mayer and David Campbell. About one-half of her present library display is of local scenes such as Bittinger's barn on Mayhew Inn Road, and other area farms; homes in Cumberland; scenes from Nag's Head, N.C.; and from a two-week European studies tour she took this spring. When not at her easel, Mrs. Scherer can be found helping her husband plant and sell trees from their 11-acre Piney Mountain Christmas tree farm. She also enjoys handicrafts of all types, from macrame to cross-stitch, but she is now happiest when trying to transfer the reality she sees to canvas. She also is a voracious reader and has more time for that pleasure since daughters, Karen and Jennifer, are students at Bob Jones University in South Carolina. In the future, the artist also plans to work more on portraiture, beginning this fall with portraits of family members.

Census Survey To Gather Data On Immunization

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey in Garrett County during the week of September 19-24, to determine the extent people have been immunized against selected diseases, James F. Holmes, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced recently.

The survey is conducted throughout the U.S. every year to provide information on immunzation against measles, influenza, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, rubella, and mumps needed for administration of health programs geared to a disease prevention. These health questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country.

Personal information supplied in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Holmes.

Sheriff Releases August Reports

Some 374 county residents were served with papers relating to civil, law, criminal, equity and juvenile cases by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department during August, according to the monthly activity report released by Sheriff Franklin G. Finch.

Numerous patrol checks were made on homes and businesses, and 336 complaints were answered. Eighteen were arrested on various charges such as theft, assault, and assault with intent to murder, fugitive from justice; fraud, driving while intoxicated and others.

Inmate population at the jail was 28 at the beginning of the month, 46 were added and 41 released, leaving the number of inmates at the end of August at 33.

Monthly activity added 26,000 miles to departmental vehicles while answering complaints, transporting prisoners, serving papers, making patrol checks, and other police business.

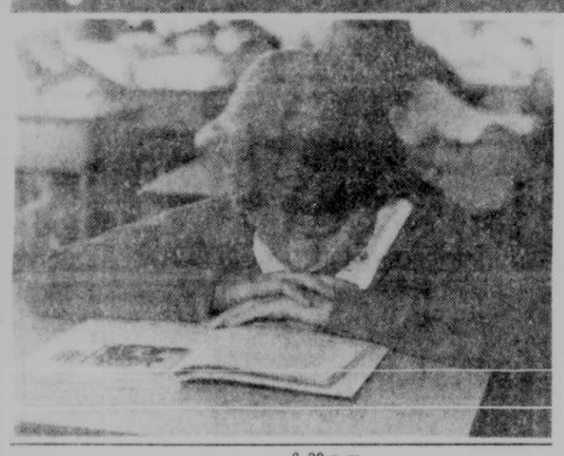
TEAMWORK was stressed with the seventh and eighth grade students of Yoder School as they completed activities in observance of International Literacy Day on September 8. An activity of first-through-third grade students was the decoration of placemats carrying the Literacy Day theme (below). Jason Campbell, left, second grade, and Dennis Yoder, third grade, unleash their creative talents, while fourth grader Dorothea Kaiser is carried away into another land as she engages in some silent sustained reading.

Yoder School Students Observe Literacy Day



International Literacy Day was celebrated at Yoder School on Thursday, September 8. Each class was introduced to the word "literacy" and its meaning.

Miss Ada Schrock, language arts teacher, handled the special activities in grades four to eight. The two upper grades discussed the etymology of "literacy" prior to completing tasks involving synonyms, multiple meanings and words with analagous relationships. The middle grade students (grades four through six) worked on exercises in choosing the right definitions and antonyms. As a bonus, both groups were given an extra S.S.R. (Sustained Silent Reading) period.

Mrs. M. Carol Warnick's primary graders joined the celebration by making placemats and bookmarkers announcing Literacy Day. Their special treat was to listen to John Ciardi's book of poems entitled I Met A Man.

Based on the 1980 census, about five percent of adult Americans have no higher than an eighth grade education. In Maryland alone, there are about 939,620 adults, or one out of three, who have not graduated from high school. Two hundred thousand of these adults have not made it past fourth grade.

Because of these statistics, the International Reading Association and the Western Maryland Reading Council decided to promote International Literacy Day on September 8. The Western Maryland Reading Council (W.M.R.C.) felt this issue is important enough to be stressed throughout the school year. The W.M.R.C. Literacy Committee compiled a packet of materials to provide information and teaching strategies to emphasize the importance of literacy to students.

Real Estate

PRINTED VS. TYPED-IN CLAUSES

Forms, paper work, signing, duplicate, triplicate . . . these are all part of real estate operations! Just as in other types of businesses, the paper work is necessary for reasons of uniformity and legal requirements. Here again, as in many other instances, we use professional expertise to make sure the right forms are filled out properly at the right time.

One stumbling block that could cause the real estate non-professional problems concerns printed clauses. For example, the PRINTED portion of the contract might say the seller has to provide good title within, say, fifteen days of the contract date. However, the TYPED-IN PORTION of the contract—the contingency clause—may state that the buyer has thirty-five days to get a loan!

The point we're trying to make is that the two time periods should be the same. The seller should have the same amount of time to deliver a good title as the buyer has to find the money. The two activities are, after all, dependent on each other. They both figure in achieving the mutual goal of the transfer of the property to everyone's satisfaction.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Farming in Maryland

Maryland Crop Prospects Dimmer

For two consecutive months, temperatures were above normal and precipitation was below normal, dimming crop prospects for Maryland farmers. Corn, soybean and tobacco yield forecasts on September 1 declined further from August, announced the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.

Based on the growing conditions, at that time, the corn crop was expected to average 65 bushels per acre. That yield is the lowest for corn since 1968 and 22 bushels per acre below the August 1, 1983 forecast. If realized, production would amount to 35.8 million bushels, 49 percent below last year's second largest production on record, and 25 percent below the August 1, 1983 forecast.

Soybean yields, at 20 bushels per acre were off six bushels from the August 1 forecast and at their lowest average since 1966 when yields averaged a mere 14 bushels per acre. Production, forecast on September

Dairy Refund Program Begins

A second 50 cents per hundredweight is being deducted by USDA from dairy farmers' milk checks, effective September 1, according to the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Milk producers who have reduced their commercial milk marketings by 8.4 percent for the period September 1, 1983, through September 30, 1983, may be eligible for a refund of 50 cents per cwt. The reduction is based on the September average of the two marketing years that began on October 1, 1980.

To help offset the cost of the dairy price support program and reduce milk production, USDA on September 1 increased the deduction from proceeds on the sale of all milk sold commercially during this period by 50 cents to a total of $1 per cwt. "Starting in October of 1983 eligible producers may apply for a refund of the second 50-cent per cwt. deduction for milk marketings during September 1983," said William B. Crum, Chairman of the Maryland State ASCS. Both the milk marketing deductions and the dairy refund program are authorized by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982.

To be eligible for the refund, milk producers will be required to reduce their commercial marketings from the base period. Crum said the base period is the average of the two marketing years that began October 1, 1980. "Dairy farmers may establish their base marketings at our office anytime during the marketing year by submitting payment receipts or statements from milk handlers. Those who sell milk directly to consumers should have sales records and canceled checks as proof of marketings and the amount paid to the Commodity Credit Corporation," he said.

Refund applications for the 1982-83 milk marketing year may be filed from October 1, 1983 through December 31, 1983. Applications for the entire 1983-84 marketing year may be filed between October 1, 1984 and December 31, 1984.

The ASCS official said after April 1, 1984, dairy farmers may request a 60 percent advance of the refundable deduction paid for the first six months of the 1983-84 marketing year. However, they must certify that the required 8.4 percent reduction in marketings will be made for the entire marketing year.

For additional details on t refund program, dairy p ducers may contact the cou ASCS office.

Silage Quality, Proper Harvesting Procedures.

If I would ask 5 farmers when they should harvest their corn silage, I would probably get 5 different answers. Harvesting time and procedures will have a large effect upon the quality of silage. The proper maturity and moisture content along with dropping and packing are extremely important. When is the corn ready for silage? Corn silage is ready when a black layer has developed in the tip of the kernel. You can easily identify this layer by cutting a crossection of the kernel. The best quality silage should be between 32% and 40% dry matter with a kernel dry matter of 65% to 70%. Also the chopper knives should make cuts of ¼ to 3/8 inches. This setting allows the kernel to be cracked which helps in digestion of the silage. Your corn silage should be topped off with wet forages (30%-35% dry matter) and covered with plastic to help prevent spoilage. Remember to have your silage anaylized for nutrient value.

Barley as Good as Alfalfa?

Barley is making its move into the forage program and for good reasons. Some research has shown Barley Silage harvested at the boot stage with that of top-grade alfalfa; however, if harvested at dough stage the quality drops considerably. Barley also could be double cropped in our area. If the Barley was planted as early in the spring as possible and harvested for silage by June 20th, a second crop could be planted such as sudangrass and annual ryegrass.

ASCS Helping Livestock Owners To Locate Hay

Although prolonged drought conditions have created hay shortages in some areas, other areas have a surplus of hay or other roughage. To help livestock producers who need hay to locate sellers, and to help those with excess hay locate buyers, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is making an all-out effort to collect information concerning the need for the availability of hay and other roughage in the area.

"The task has been given top priority," said William B. Crum, chairperson of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. "We are contacting other federal agencies, State departments of agriculture, hay dealer associations and all other available private sources for the names of producers with hay or other roughage for sale." This listing will be maintained in our office for interested persons to review, he said.

The list of available hay and other roughages will include the producer's name, address and telephone number, the type of roughage, and the amount and approximate price. Crum said hay and roughage availability also will be monitored in surrounding States and counties.

"All livestock producers who are in need of hay, and those who have hay or other roughage for sale, are urged to contact our office as soon as possible," the ASCS official said.

Number Of Farms Unchanged From '82

The number of farms in Maryland in 1983 is estimated at 18,000. This number is unchanged from the previous year, but is down one percent from 1981.

Total land in farms dropped two percent to 2.7 million acres. This means the average Maryland farm consists of 150 acres, three acres less than in 1982.

Nationally, farm numbers declined one percent to 2.37 million from 2.40 million in 1982.

Milk Production Higher In July

Maryland milk production during July 1983 totalled 138 million pounds, one percent more than June 1983 and nine percent more than July 1981.

Accumulated milk production during the first seven months of 1983 totalled 949 million pounds, up four percent from the same period in 1981. Production per cow averaged 1120 pounds during July 1983, 60 pounds more than July 1981. The total number of milk cows averaged 123 thousand head during July, up 1000 head from June and three percent above July 1981.

Local Log Home Company Receives National Listing

A local firm which began offering log homes complete from timber lot to homeowner's lot in 1979 has won recognition in a supplement to the 1983 Pre-Cut Home Company Directory, according to an article in the Fall '83 Log Home Guide for Builders and Buyers.

Publisher and editor Doris L. Muir provided a page for information about the company, its eight-inch logs, the hexagonal-design package known as the Spruce Knob model, and modular log home styles.

The article also lists the items contained in a standard package home and line drawing reproductions of modular and Spruce Knob models.

Mountaineer general manager Karen Spiker says, the business is family-oriented and offers the expertise of her husband, Adrian, who has over 20 years experience in the home building industry; and her father and uncle, Don and Gene Frazee, whose Interstate Lumber Company provides the wood for the logs from company land in Maryland and West Virginia. Interstate also debarks, saws and dries the logs and can provide either the CCA salt treatment or kiln drying if desired.

Mrs. Spiker noted the business provides numerous jobs, from the timber cutting and milling to Rigidply Rafters which supplies all the roof trusses, to Beachy Lumber Company which provides the remainder of items needed for the shell package. Mountaineer Log and Siding also employs construction crews, office staff, and a draftsman for interior design.

When the company first began, homes were constructed mainly for local customers but with word of the lower prices, because the logs need not be shipped from New England or other places out of the area, homes have been built in northern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ocean City, North Carolina, Ohio, and Michigan, according to Mrs. Spiker.

Flu Vaccinations To Be Given By Health Officials

The Garrett County Health Department announced this week that it will offer the influenza vaccine throughout the month of October at various locations around the county. The cost will be $2 per person.

According to a spokesman for the Health Department, influenza virus infections occur every year in the United States, but vary greatly in incidence and geographic distribution. Infections may be asymptomatic or they may produce a spectrum of manifestations, ranging from mild upper-respiratory infection to pneumonia and death.

Influenza A and B, the spokesman said, are unique in their ability to cause periodic widespread outbreaks of fibrile respiratory disease in both adults and children. The vaccines for 1983-84 will include protection from types A/Brazil, A/Philippines and B/Singapore viruses.

Annual vaccination is strongly recommended by health officials for: older persons, particularly those over 65; all persons, children and adults, who are at increased risk of adverse consequences from infections of the lower respiratory tract because of a pre-existing medical condition, such as heart and lung diseases, diabetes, chronic kidney diseases, severe anemia, and any other conditions which suppress the body's immune system; emergency personnel such as firefighters, police officers, hospital workers and rescue workers; and cigarette smokers.

Persons who should check with a physician before taking the influenza vaccine include: persons allergic to eggs, persons who have been paralyzed with Guillian Barre Syndrome, pregnant women, and persons who have a fever at

Cumberland Woman Killed Monday In One-Car Mishap Near Finzel

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment investigated a traffic accident Monday afternoon near Finzel, which claimed the life of a Cumberland woman.

Mrs. Ellen Lee Elliott, 35, the wife of Cpl. Thomas L. Elliott, a member of the Cumberland Police Department, died after being transported to Memorial Hospital in that city by the State Police Medevac helicopter.

Mrs. Elliott was traveling alone when the accident occurred at approximately 2 p.m. on Route 546, north of Finzel.

The 1978 Chevrolet Chevette was northbound on Route 546 near the Samson Rock Road when Mrs. Elliott apparently lost control, ran off the roadway, and struck a utility pole and a large tree. The vehicle was demolished.

Allegany County Civil Defense dispatched Eastern Garrett firemen and the Frostburg Area Ambulance to the scene, along with the Medevac unit. Tfc. Chester Miller is continuing the investigation through reconstruction of the accident sequence.

Born in Frostburg, she was a daughter of Mrs. Mary Wilhelm Brode, Hoffman, and the late John W. Brode, Sr.

Mrs. Elliott was employed as a nursing assistant at Lions Manor Nursing home.

In addition to her mother, she is also survived by her husband, Thomas L. Elliott; a daughter, Miss Melissa Witt; a son, Leroy C. Witt, Jr., one brother, John W. Brode, Jr. Hoffman; and two sisters, Miss Mary F. Brode, Hoffman; and Mrs. Karen Hook, Mount Savage.

Deputy Recovers $8,000 Taken In Armed Robbery

Information received from a suspect arrested here following an armed robbery in Alexandria, La. earlier this month has led to recovery of nearly half the $18,000 taken in the robbery.

According to Assistant Chief Deputy Harland Tichnell, Judah Brandes was arrested at a home near Grantsville September 13 in connection with an armed robbery in Louisiana, and Brandes waived extradition to that state.

He was returned to that state September 20, and a few days later local authorities were notified that over $8000 could be found in a brown paper bag in the house where he was arrested.

Deputy Tichnell spent one entire day listing the serial numbers of the bills in the bag and the money is being held until Louisiana authorities can pick up the money.

A man suspected to be Brandes' accomplice was arrested in New Jersey several days ago and returned to Louisiana, but the other half of the money has not been recovered.

Deputy Destroys Illegal Grass

A tip from a resident of the Mt. Lake Park area alerted the Garrett County sheriff's department to a patch of illegal "grass" near that town this week.

According to a report by Deputy William Thomas, someone told him of a patch of marijuana growing in the wooded area between Mid-Towns Plaza and Weber's.

An investigation turned up some 39 plants, three to four feet tall, which were confiscated and destroyed by the department.

Police are still investigating the matter to determine who was growing the illegal plants.

The goal was set at 140 pints.

There were 21 first-time donations. Michael Duda completed his sixth gallon. Three gallon donors were Marvin Beachy and Dorothy Teets. Elmer S. Yoder was a two-gallon donor, and gallon donors were Sammie Yoder and Sharon Glotfelty.

Volunteer nurses assisting were Mildred Yoder, Bonnie Heatwole, Marlene Tice, Linda Maust, Mildred Beachy, Rhoda Maust, Barbara Schmuck, Rhoda Miller, Emily Maust, Edith Butler, Luella Yoder, and Freda Maust. Rosie Miller, Shirley Baker, and Brenda Hawkins served as aides.

Dr. Elvin Martin and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad provided emergency coverage.

Other volunteers included Lois Bender, Mary Opel, Ercell Jenkins, Lois Durst, Mabel Brenneman, Alma Camp, Helen Durst, Alice Younkin, Hilda Sturtz, Cleda Baker, Mary Broadwater, Phyllis Durst, Bertha Gerhart, Ruth Yoder, Raymond Yoder, Wayne Butler, Herman Yoder, Menno Yoder, Steve Vincent, Zelda McKenzie, Lois Shockey, Marilyn Garlitz, Donna Lapp, Judy Artice, Brenda Spiker, Pat Schmidt, Kay Layman, Linda Resh, Sandy Murray, Ruth Stanton and Isolde Bender.

Flinn, son of Eugene and Barbara Flinn, Oakland, will be designated an Eagle Scout at a special Eagle Court of Honor on Sunday, October 2, at 2 p.m., in St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House. An Oakland businessman, Harry Ward Hinebaugh, Jr., owner and operator of Ward's Bar and Ward's Package Liquors, died Friday in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Born in Oakland, he was a son of Mrs. Bessie Shrout Hinebaugh, Oakland, and the late Harry W. Hinebaugh, Sr.

Mr. Hinebaugh was a veteran of World War II, and was awarded a Silver Star for gallantry in action. He was also a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, and was an Eagle Scout.

Crime Rate In State, County Still Declining

Serious crime in Maryland decreased nine percent during the first six months of 1983 when compared to the same period last year, according to statistics released this week by the Maryland State Police. This is the ninth quarter in a row that Maryland has experienced a reduction in crime.

Garrett County's crime rate also decreased during the same period, by four percent. The county showed a crime index total of 276, compared to 287 during the same period last year.

The only categories to show an increase in the county were robbery, from no cases in the first half of 1982 to one in the same period of 1983, and larceny and theft, from 162 cases to 172. Aggravated assault cases dropped from 18 to 14, breaking or entering from 86 to 76, motor vehicle theft from 20 to 13, arson from seven to six, and forcible rape from one case to none. There were no murders in either six-month period.

The Garrett County crime index of 276 is the third lowest among Maryland's counties and Baltimore City.

A total of 111,299 crimes were reported to the 135 police departments in the state from January through June, 1983.

Figures show that the violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault as a group decreased three percent statewide, while the property offenses of breaking or entering, larceny and motor vehicle theft dropped 10 percent as a group.

Crime declined in all regions of Maryland for the first six

Oakland FFA Horse Judging Team Places Second In National Contest

The Oakland Chapter FFA Horse Judging Team scored a major victory by placing second in the National Horse Judging Contest held at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., September 16-18.

The team, consisting of Karen Hamilton, Lenard Custer, Kenny Michaels and Craig Marple, started practicing in February in preparation for the Maryland state contest on April 30. Team members judged halter and performance classes and gave oral reasons under the direction of Howard and Bernice Kepple, coaches. Kepples' Acorn Acres, Butch Smith's Triple S Ranch Mexico Farms, and Lois Savage's farm were the locations of many of these practices.

The team traveled to Robin's Nest Quarter Horse Farm near Frederick on April 30 to compete against the 12 best teams in the state of Maryland. The contest consisted of placing five classes of horses on conformation, oral reasons and written examination. The team placed first overall and received a first place banner. Custer and Michaels received first and second place pins, respectively, for individual standings. Hamilton placed fourth and Marple placed 14th individually.

The team then continued practicing for the National Contest, but reduced the team to the three members with highest previous standing. Traveling by charter bus with the other teams competing from Maryland, the members, their advisors, Janet Boggess, and coach Bernice Kepple arrived in time to see the exhibits at the Eastern States Exposition.

Later that day the competitors judged four halter and two performance classes and gave two sets of oral reasons.

The Oakland team was bested only by New Hampshire in a close contest.

Michaels placed fourth individually, while Hamilton and Custer also placed high in the standings. The winning members received certificates at the Horse Judging Banquet held at the Exposition.

Commissioner Braskey Suggests Legislators Look At Liquor Board

A committee organized two weeks ago to seek and evaluate alternatives to the county's present ten-percent liquor license surcharge never gathered all its members together, reports Commissioner John Braskey, chairman.

Instead, after separate meeting's with members, Braskey made the personal observation that both Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Bambacus should look at the entire salary and benefit package available to the liquor board and its administrator.

Braskey will be making that suggestion to the legislators later this week, and will also present some of the alternatives to the surcharge suggested by members of the committee representing the liquor license holders.

That segment of the committee, including Roger Ruff and Roger Resh, met three and a half hours with Braskey and Robert Fousek, county clerk, last Wednesday morning. Braskey described the license holders as "very cooperative" in attempting to find alternatives to the ten percent surcharge which would produce the same amount of money—$126,519 from 51 license holders—as last year.

Before releasing these suggestions to the general public, however, Braskey planned to present them to the legislators for their perusal. Committee member Ed Bosley was unable to attend.

On Thursday, Braskey and Fousek met a half hour with members of the liquor board Brenda Butscher, George Meese and William Naylor, and administrator Joseph Wolf. Their stand was that no changes whatsoever be made, and the group apparently told Braskey that they feel it is their responsibility to keep the surcharge and were not willing to look at alternatives because in their opinion this is the best system.

Because of the adamant stand of the liquor board, Braskey cancelled plans to bring the entire committee together for a meeting.

Commissioner Braskey said that in suggesting that Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus

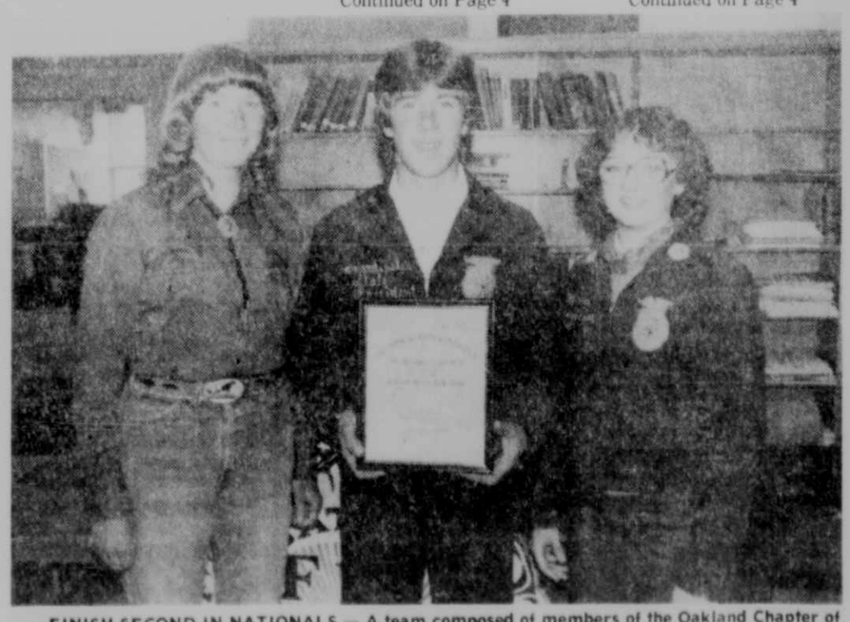
Mtn. Lake Park On Register Of Historic Places

Editor's note: The following article written by United Press International tells of the town of Mountain Lake Park being included on the National Register of Historic Places. Details of what this means to the residents of the town in the way of tax advantages and the availability of low interest loans or grants for renovation will be released in next week's issue of The Republican.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md. (UPI)—This 100-year-old mountain town, which was started by Methodist ministers who wanted to develop a religious and cultural resort, has been named to the National Register of Historic Places.

Town officials said Thursday they had been notified the Garrett County town in far Western Maryland was entered into the register September 1.



The Park, which in its youth attracted wealthy families from Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia and Washington, D.C., included bans against drinking, dancing, card playing and gambling in all property deeds.

Most people traveled on the B&O Railroad to the Park, which filled with large houses, many of them following classic Victorian lines. Some people spent the summer in fancy boarding houses or hotels.

But the Depression and changes in vacation habits sent Mountain Lake Park into a decline as a resort.

"Although joined by some successful businessmen, they (the ministers who bought the land in 1881) operated a private club and placed such strictures on ownership that after the first burst of enthusiasms, property was hard to sell," said Mary Love, who compiled a historical program on the town.

Deep Creek, Mt. Lake Water Are Among Sanitary Commission Topics

Members of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission had four main topics for discussion at their September 20 meeting: Deep Creek sewer project, Kitzmiller water, the Mt. Lake Water Company, and Trout Run sewerage treatment facility.

Deep Creek was one of the most time consuming topics, with discussion of project status. Four contractors, those responsible for Mayhew Inn Road, U.S. Route 219 central portion, Rock Lodge Road and Marsh Hill Road, have completed their work with the exception of inspections by various agencies, county road sign-offs, and certification by the engineer that the work has been inspected and is complete.

The only right of way which has not been granted for the pumping stations continues to be a small plot of land owned jointly by the Pinnacle Rock Spring Trust. However, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, further discussion on the matter is expected next week to work toward a solution of the problems existing there.

Proposals have been received both from Rummel, Klepper and Kahl and Greenhorne and O'Mara for engineering services during construction and inspection of the expanded system. The commission is now reviewing the proposal received from RK&K and has requested clarification on several points.

Members of the lake project sewer user rate study advisory group have kept the commission informed of their meetings as they work on a rate structure for repayment of the local share of the lake project costs. That group is meeting again this evening.

The commission has finalized arrangements with the Garrett National Bank for interim financing for a portion of the local share of the basic system, according to Beitzel.

Kitzmiller Water

Paperwork continues to mount as the commission and its engineers, Frederick Ward and Associates, attempt to satisfy the Department of Natural Resources' requests for additional information before that agency will grant a stream construction permit and water appropriation permit for construction of the Kitzmiller water system. Approval is also being sought from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Trout Run Problems

The towns of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn still have not signed service contracts with the sanitary district to pay for treatment of those towns' sewerage at the Trout Run treatment facility.

Mt. Lake has refused to sign until the sanitary district forces Oakland to pay for costs of treating sewerage from Broad Ford Park, despite an agreement with that town made several years ago.

However, Beitzel has approached the Oakland council concerning the matter and the item is now under consideration by that town. If the Oakland officials will not agree to pay any fee, then the sanitary district may have to use other means to resolve the matter, since as Beitzel said, the district cannot continue to provide treatment and incur expenses without payment by Mt. Lake and Loch Lynn.

Water Company

All work on the new water line and at the spring above Landon's Dam for the Mt. Lake Water Company has been completed by Frank Arnold Contractors, and it was noted that neither Loch Lynn nor Mt. Lake Park had had to decrease water use during the recent dry weather.

GCC Enrollment Jumps By 16%

Entering the fourth week of classes, registrations for the fall semester at Garrett Community College show a 16 percent increase over fall, 1982, according to a September 26 report from the Registrar's Office.

The head count now stands at 647 compared with 546 in September, 1982. Of this group, 295 are registered full-time and 352 are registered as part-time students.

A full-time student is one who has registered for 12 or more credit hours; a part-time student is one who has registered for 11 or less credit hours.

The senior citizen enrollment has also increased showing a head count of approximately 50.

A large number of students are enrolled in a general studies program or have registered as an undeclared major.

The second most popular programs are Business Administration Transfer Degree and Business Administration Occupatinal Degree.

In addition to English classes, those courses also showing high enrollments are computer courses, psychology, speech and botany.

$10,000 Reward Being Offered In Ronald Wotring Murder Case

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sanders of Oakland, parents of Regina K. Wotring, have announced that they are offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the prowler who entered the home of Ronald F. Wotring and their daughter on Harold Drive in Cresaptown during the early morning hours of August 19, 1983.

Ronald Wotring's body was found by his wife about 2 a.m. that morning, and he was pronounced dead as the result of wounds from a 30.06 rifle.

Regional Group For The Disabled Receives Grant

Senator Charles McC. Mathias (R-Maryland) announced on Friday, September 23, that Garrett-Frederick Residences, Inc. has been awarded the $849,000 Non-Metro HUD 202 Grant for the State of Maryland.

Garrett Crossroads, Inc. a local private, non-profit organization that provides community residential housing and programs for developmentally disabled people in Garrett County, was active in the development of the HUD 202 grant application. Crossroads' Executive Director, Daniel Elmlinger, is an officer of the Garrett-Frederick Residences, Incorporated.

Garrett-Frederick Residences, Incorporated was formed by the Western Maryland Coalition for the Disabled, Incorporated to develop housing and programming to meet the needs of the disabled in Garrett and Frederick Counties. Garrett Crossroads, as well as the Appalachian Center, is a member of the Coalition from Garrett County.

The nineteen units that will be constructed through this HUD 202 grant will be owned by Garrett-Frederick Residences, Inc. and leased to private, nonprofit agencies in each of the counties that provide housing for the handicapped.

Elmlinger stated that the number of units Garrett County will receive will be determined next month.

Garrett Crossroads will be applying for four units to develop an apartment for mentally retarded males, similar to the one they currently are operating for females. This will help Garrett Crossroads provide a more comprehensive residential program for the developmentally disabled in Garrett County and fills a void in its provision of service according to Elmlinger.

Additional units will be used for satellite apartments, that are apartments with no live-in staff, and for individuals with physical disabilities that need architecturally barrier-free living quarters.

Garrett Crossroads, Inc. currently is operating one group home in the Town of Mountain Lake Park and an apartment in the Town of Oakland for eleven mentally retarded adults. In addition it also provides a home care service to families who are caring for individuals who are mentally retarded and for individuals who are living independently of someone elses care.

A second group home is being developed, that will provide service to six additional mentally retarded individuals, near the towns of Mountain Lake Park and Oakland. Garrett Crossroads has been serving the community residential needs of the developmentally disabled since 1981.

TIME LIMIT FOR LOAN

People who try to sell their own homes often run into problems regarding the time factor. By time factor we mean not only the time required for the entire transaction, but also the period required for obtaining a loan.

The familiar story usually goes something like this: A person trying to sell their home finds a potential buyer. There are meetings, discussions, forms, more meetings, and finally an agreement is reached. Everything's fine except for the rather important matter of money. The buyer has to go out and try to get a loan, and this takes time. He assures the seller that he is trying his best to get a mortgage.

Time marches on. The seller keeps checking with the buyer, but gets the same story... he can't seem to get the money. Days drag into weeks, and weeks go into months. Soon it becomes apparent that the buyer really doesn't want to buy the property and is using the finding of a loan as an excuse to stall.

In order to avoid this, a contingency clause in the contract should allow the buyer a certain time period to get a loan OR allow the seller to get a loan for the buyer!

Gormania Presbyterian Church To Observe 95th Anniversary Sunday

Members of the Gormania Presbyterian Church will be celebrating its 95th birthday anniversary this Sunday, October 2. The day will start with special services at 11 a.m., including music, greetings from past ministers, members and friends. At 1 p.m., refreshments will be served and the Garrett Highlanders will play a selection of pipe tunes.

The church was built at its present location in 1888 and is a very ornate wooden structure with a corner entrance bell tower and tall spire. Sunday School rooms were added in 1925. Since that time, members of the church have repainted the exterior and refurbished the interior, adding restroom and kitchen facilities.

According to a brief history written by Mrs. Charles Evans, Fairview Road, this was not the first church built to contain Presbyterian services. In 1855 churchgoers gathered in a building on a farm in the neighborhood of Fort Pendleton with the traveling minister, Rev. C. N. Campbell of the Winchester Presbytery. Out of this group grew the Winston Church organization.

In 1858 a building was erected at the turn of the road on Hoffman land along the Northwestern Turnpike which crosses the bluff at the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The war between the states came on and work was interrupted and the members scattered. In the meantime the building suffered from neglect, until after a time only the frame remained. Finally in September 1882 the frame itself burned to the ground. It is said that Indians camping in what was left of the church built a fire and did not put it out on their departure. The stone foundation remained for many years.

A pastor of the Presbyterian Church in the Allegheny field preached once a month in Oak Grove Church which was near a schoolhouse along Nydegger Run in Garrett County, and as membership grew, the present church was constructed.

In the fall of 1918 money was collected in six months' time to purchase the manse for the minister and his family.

All members, past members and friends are welcome to join in Sunday's celebration.

PROCLAMATION SIGNED — In conjunction with Governor Harry Hughes' proclamation of Respiratory Therapy Week, the Garrett County commissioners have proclaimed the week of September 25 through October 1 as Respiratory Therapy Week in Garrett County. There will be a respiratory therapy display in the lobby of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the remainder of the week. All interested persons are invited to visit the hospital and learn more about respiratory therapy. Standing left to right behind Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Elwood Groves and John Braskey are Randy Crabtree, C.R.T.T., certified therapist; Eric Tribbey, R.R.T., director of GCMH cardiopulmonary laboratory; and Larry Beck, hospital administrator.

Panelists Suggest Ways To Aid Unemployment

Several suggestions were aired last Friday at the panel discussion at Frostburg State College concerning ways to alleviate the unemployment problems in western Maryland. Suggestions came both from the five panel speakers and the 65 members of the audience.

Completion of the National Freeway and the Port of Baltimore were both mentioned, as was support of a state bond bill to finance a resort and convention center in western Maryland.

Other ideas were to transfer one or more state divisions to western Maryland as a "quick fix" which would send about 500 jobs here. As F. Perry Smith, chairman of the State Board of Universities and Colleges, said, "They could transplant about 500 jobs here from where they are now stumbling all over themselves in Annapolis."

It was also suggested that western Maryland leaders strive to have a prison built here and to establish a military installation here since either would create jobs.

Location of a convention center in western Maryland and elimination of bans against steep slope strip mining of coal were brought out for consideration by Del. W. Timothy Finan (D., Allegany).

Sen. John Bambacus, who has asked Gov. Harry Hughes to call a special session of the legislature to address the ending of unemployment benefits for many, told those present there are at least 2,000 jobless in Garrett, 6,000 in Allegany and 7,000 in Washington County. He said that government has a responsiblity to meet expectations of the public which wants to work and which sometimes equates dignity with having a job.

Bambacus, a political science professor at Frostburg State College, also called for a new industrial policy because "the old rules aren't working."

This would mean a renewed emphasis on so-called smokestack industries because those firms also attract service industry employment.

Bambacus' other ideas include better lines of communication between state and local officials; that education should be involved at all levels of resolving the employment dilemma; encouraging recreation and tourism and agriculture here; promoting a responsible state policy about coal; and taking a better look at the Cumberland Area Health Education Center to merge health technology and training and the local workforce.

All seemed agreed there are no quick and easy remedies for unemployment. Other panelists in addition to those listed above taking part were David W. Edgerley, Allegany County Office of Development Assistance; Arthur Morgan, founder of Artmor Plastics; Stanley Zorick, Western Maryland Central Labor Council president; and Rev. P. Francis Murphy, auxiliary bishop of the Baltimore Diocese.

Hughes' Press Conference

In a press conference in Annapolis September 22, Gov. Harry Hughes was questioned about the possiblility of a special session of the General Assembly to address loss of extended benefits for the unemployed.

The governor pointed out that everyone was aware that the extended benefits were to trigger off as the unemployment rate lowered statewide, and pointed out that Maryland was the first state in the union to extend benefits. Some 26,000 Marylanders received $21 million of unemployment benefits following the special session last year, but Hughes pointed out for that special session, legislative leadership and the community were in agreement on a plan to aid the unemployed.

This year, he says that it would be "holding out a false hope" to people because no one has been able to come up with a program that would satisfy all elements—employers, labor leaders, the communities, and everyone involved.

It has been proposed that certain areas of the state with high unemployment have targeted benefits but Hughes pointed out that this is not a simple matter since all employers are now paying the same surcharge for the unemployment fund.

This would mean all employers would pay the rates but only the unemployed in certain areas would receive additional benefits because the unemployment rate was higher there.

He also said "We have to think of the solvency of the fund itself." The fund is now down to about $90 million and dropping every month, and by around March it is expected to get down to $700,000 before it starts picking up again.

Roof Fall At Laurel Run Traps Three Temporarily

Three coal miners at Laurel Run's No. 1 mine escaped injury last Wednesday evening when a roof fall kept them trapped in their working area for approximately an hour and a half.

According to John Ely, superintendent at the mine near Mt. Storm, the three men were operating a roof bolter in the face area of a section when the top began to fall about 7:30 p.m. Rather than attempt to leave the area, the three stayed under the canopies of the bolter.

The fall, which brought down a section of roof seven feet in depth and some 20 feet in length, was not enough to totally block the area but did trap the three until workmen from nearby could install enough temporary roof supports to allow them to get out safely. The two groups of men had verbal contact with each other during the work to free the trapped miners.

The three roof bolters are David Moe, Mt. Lake Park; Nelson McClure and Larry Porter, of West Virginia.

Justice Scores . . .

The system of justice in this nation and a number of judges continue to be the recipients of much criticism from the general public for the seemingly outrageous leniency of the courts in certain cases and an apparently excessive number of loopholes available to the criminal. A good example of such absurdity is the sentencing of two individuals who kidnapped, raped and then murdered a Frostburg State College student recently. Both killers will be eligible for parole in about 11 years because of the actions of one particular judge.

However, we wish to commend the Tennessee Court of Appeals this week for a ruling made recently in the case of 12-year-old cancer patient, Pamela Hamilton. The court ordered that Pamela was to receive chemotherapy and radiation treatments immediately, against the desires of her parents. Her father is a fundamentalist minister who believes that all healing should be left to God and man-made treatments of illnesses are forbidden. Hamilton and his attorneys have not given up, however, and are attempting to get the order appealed based on the judgment that the courts have no right to intervene this way between a parent and child.

We believe the courts have not only a right, but a responsibility to intervene in such matters. The result of such medieval, misguided thinking is the death of innocent human beings like Pamela. What these people fail to understand is that God has provided us with the means to combat illness, just as he has provided us with the means to create other things to improve the quality of life, such as clothing, shelter, means of communication, transportation and entertainment. He provides the materials and the skills we need to find cures for disease. We assume Mr. Hamilton wears clothing, and owns a automobile, and owns furniture, and owns a house. All of these things are manmade also, just as many medicines are manmade. By using medicine, one does not deny God or the power of prayer, or make His importance secondary.

Mr. Hamilton has no right to kill his daughter. As the deputy attorney general of Tennessee Michael Terry stated, "Let's give Pamela an opportunity to grow up and decide what her religious beliefs really are."

After just a few treatments, the tumor on Pamela's leg has stopped growing and her chances for survival are increasing. Thank God!

Grocery Roulette??

by Carol Fox

Cheese, butter, flour, rice, corn meal, honey, dried milk . . . Sounds like a grocery list, doesn't it. In a way, that's what it is. Uncle Sam offered the goods to the states, and neighborhood centers handled the installments of food. So far, so good. The needy receive the surplus, and everyone is happy. Not quite.

A new set of guidelines recently set down by the state created mass confusion during the recent distribution program in our county, and probably across the state. The latest requirement for receiving the free food was possession of either a public assistance photo identification card; a food stamp card, a Medicaid card, a current unemployment insurance benefits card; or a grant letter or card from the federal Supplemental Security Income program. For many reasons, this newest card system does not insure that the food gets to the truly needy. Those cards do not necessarily represent an indication of need.

Take, for instance, the unemployment benefit card. Suppose the person presenting that card is the only out-of-work person in a household of five working people. They could have a well-stocked freezer and filled pantry shelves in that home, and still have free groceries being brought in, while a family of four whose income is at or below the poverty guidelines who has not yet turned to the Social Services Department for whatever reason is left with no recourse in the free food distribution. Wasn't the program designed for these families?

It seems the only true answer to the problem is for the state to allow the neighborhood centers to take applications from those who feel they qualify, and those applications should be honored only on absolute proof of income. The applications could be distributed throughout the county senior citizen or Community Action centers, through the mail, or at various pick-up points in the county. Persons who truly need the surplus food would then be qualified to receive it in a dignified manner, with no cheating of any kind. The centers would be able to verify income and the receipt of foodstuffs, and the system designed to aid the truly needy would begin to make sense.

If enough support for the income guideline system of free food distribution is mustered, perhaps the winter allocations will fall into the hands most deserving. Write your opinion today and mail it to Ken Shiflet, who heads the commodity food program through the Maryland State Department of Education, or tell it to David Hornbeck, head of that department, at 200 W. Baltimore Street, Baltimore, MD 21201.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In observance of the recent EMS Week, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad would like to inform the public about some basic functions and requirements of the Squad.

Southern Rescue offers 24-hour emergency care without charge to the patient. This is a remarkable accomplishment for any community. This organization is funded totally by the citizens of Garrett and surrounding counties, through contributions and community participation of fund-raising activities.

Patient care is rendered by certified emergency medical technicians and paramedics (CRTs). Any person, at least 16 years of age, is eligible to become a member of Southern Rescue. To accomplish this, a person must complete an 81-hour EMT-A class, and pass a written and practical examination. To become a CRT candidate and be eligible to enroll in a CRT training program, a person must be at least 18 years of age, have at least one full year continuous experience as an EMT-A and be currently certified in (BLS) basic life support. After completion of the class the candidate must pass a written examination compiled by the State Board of Medical Examiners.

One can readily see that a considerable amount of personal time and effort is given by the volunteer members.

Southern Rescue at present maintains a fleet of three ambulances and an equipment truck. Future letters will explain what equipment is carried on each vehicle.

Because the Rescue Squad is a community project, it is imperative that anyone interested be offered the opportunity to become more knowledgable about the internal structure of the organization. Through individual and community sponsored support, we can serve you 24 hours a day supporting the EMS motto, "Your Life is Worth Our Time!

Sincerely,
C. Fitzwater (CRT)

To the Editor:

The series of tragic boating accidents on Deep Creek Lake this summer points up the need for early adoption of up-to-date lake water safety regulations. The water-safety matter is one of three projects currently being processed by appropriate governmental agencies as follows:

First, the Garrett County Planning Commission will soon receive a staff report on possible changes to the existing Deep Creek Watershed Plan.

Second, the Committee on charges and allocation of sewage taps for the Lake sewage treatment system.

Third, the DNR Advisory Committee for safety and other regulations for Deep Creek Lake and the Buffer Strip. This Committee was appointed pursuant to legislation passed by the Maryland legislature in 1979 and amended in July 1, 1982.

The resolution of Lake Safety Regulations should not be delayed. One evening in August at a point near the Glendale Bridge the DNR patrol boat was struck amidships by a pleasure craft and critically damaged. The DNR Officer operating the boat was hospitalized with a broken arm and broken ribs.

The boats involved in this collision were both of medium size. What would have been the result if the offending boat was 29½ long with engines generating 740 horsepower? This boat description is postulated because there are presently on the Lake three boats of "SCARAB" type, and each has 740 horsepower. The boats are permitted since they are just 29½ long, and the only present regulation is a prohibition on length in excess of 30 feet. There is no limitation on horsepower.

It would now seem extremely desirable for the Department of Natural Resources to work with the Advisory and Review Committee for expeditious completion of the new safety regulations, particularly a much-needed limitation on horsepower of motor boats.

Time is running out on the opportunity to preserve for the future the rare beauty of Deep Creek Lake.

To the Editor:

In response to the letter in the September 21 issue of The Republican written by Ms. Louise Harvey about the group home for the mentaly retarded that a few people wanted to locate here in the town of Grantsville:

Mrs. Harvey states that she has checked into the facts of why the people of Grantsville are so set against it being located here, and finds it very disgusting to her way of thinking. In the the first place, Ms. Harvey does not know anything about the reason the people here were opposed to it being located where they wanted to locate it. The parcel of ground that they wanted to locate on was right in the center of town and the lot was entirely too small for a place of that kind and in a residential area. The people of Grantsville were not opposed to their locating in this area, but it should be located some distance from the town area.

For Ms. Harvey to tell the people of Grantsville what awful sinners they are, she should be sure she knows all of the facts by coming here and talking to the people here in town. The Bible says "judge not, unless ye be judged," Ms. Harvey.

I could give you many more good sound reasons why we were opposed if you have the time to visit Grantsville. I understand these homes are a very profitable thing to get into and I am very pleased that they are locating near Oakland where it should have been in the first place.

Thank you kindly,
Verna C. Beachy

To the Editor:

We are asking all or any of the Garrett County taxpayers for their help and support for the situation our county commissioners have left our family in.

We live on the corner of Little Bear Creek bridge that the commissioners have torn up. We have no way of getting our fuel supplies in for winter. We have called their office to talk to any of them. They are not available at the time. We leave numbers for them to call back—no return calls. We asked for appointments to see them, they are booked solid for the day. The same goes for the county roads department supervisor.

But they put a piece in the newspaper of how much money they get to maintain the roads per mile. They haven't maintained Lime Stone Hill for the past two years. It is not fit to travel.

Now, I ask, what are we to do to survive? We have lived here 22 years, paid taxes the same as everyone else, and can't get supplies to our home.

If they can do this to our family, watch out, taxpayers! Who will be next?

Thank you,
Blaine and Lilly Meyers

Braskey Issues Clarification On County Roads

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey issued a statement at Tuesday's press conference to clarify a statement he made last week concerning county abandoned roads.

Braskey had commented that roads abandoned by the county would still remain open for public access and could not be barricaded by a road owner.

However, Tuesday, Braskey said there are exceptions to that rule, particularly when a road abandoned has not been used by the public for a period of over 20 years. The Pea Ridge Road, one county road the commissioners abandoned in March, has not been used since 1944, Braskey said, and so can be barricaded by its owner.

Braskey had received several calls on the comment after it appeared in the September 21 issue of The Republican.

In other business, Tuesday, the commissioners noted they were applying for federal historical renovation funds to restore the old portion of the county courthouse.

The commissioners met with members of the Garrett County Fair Board who stated they were still pursuing ways to purchase the property for the county's annual fair. They had attempted purchasing the land through an industrial revenue bond but were disqualified because of the IRS classification.

The commissioners also met with Louise Harvey, a Friendsville resident, who expressed her concerns about the lack of facilities and treatment for mentally ill persons and for the lack of recognition of their needs in the county.

Hearing On Sludge Project Draws Few Citizens

Garrett County's first public hearing for a sludge disposal permit drew few county citizens Thursday evening.

Present for the hearing were Edgar Harman, director of environmental health division of the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg and Elwood Groves and Jack Hett and Robert Murray, representing the State Highway Administration which was the agency applying for the permit.

Harman stated the permit was for a small sludge disposal project near Keyser's Ridge. SHA proposed to combine sludge from the Upper Potomac River Commission wastewater works, Westernport with equal parts of top soil to be applied to less than one acre of land along the Westbound Route 48-219 access ramp.

The project was described as an experiment by SHA officials, said Harman, in an attempt to find a solution to runoff problems in some areas along Route 48 where cuts into the land were made to construct the highway.

One problem, acid and aluminum contamination of Lake Louise, led to a lawsuit by the owners of the lake, located near Keyser's Ridge against the SHA. If the sludge-top soil mixture works at the proposed site, the SHA may use it at various places along the highway to reduce contaminating drainage, Harman said.

Another experiment the SHA is conducting, in the same general area, is development of a stagnum peat bog which reportedly filters aluminum out of runoff water.

Harman, who will be the person to approve or reject the permit application, said he is waiting on more information from the SHA before he makes a decision.

Industrial Park Idea Considered By County Leaders

Plans for a new southern Garrett County Indistrial Park have the support of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Development Corporation, but are still being considered by the Garrett County Commissioners.

The plans involve developing 96 acres of land on the northern side of Rt. 135 which is owned by Bausch & Lomb and sits across the highway from the firm's facilities, says Tom Jones, county development director.

Site development would involve grading the property, extending water and sewer lines, installing an access road and grading for rail siding in an attempt to attract businesses to the industrial park. The businesses locating in the park would purchase the land needed and construct their own facilities.

The idea for the industrial park was presented last week to the county commissioners who believed the idea should be pursued, but stopped short of approving any financial backing until they know more about the project.

There apparently are at least two prospective occupants for the industrial park, but Jones, nor the commissioners, were willing to release who the businesses were while negotiations were still underway.

The county recently was designated to receive $249,000 through federal emergency jobs bill funds for development of 15 acres at the site.

Both the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Development Corporation endorsed the concept of purchasing the entire 96 acres for a southern Garrett industrial park, Jones stated. The Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce also offered to help the county purchase the property with money it had left over from development of the Oakland Industrial Park.

Both groups also endorsed designating a site near Grantsville as a future northern county industrial park, viewing both parks as necessary for the future economic development of Garrett County, noted Jones.

Second Impression

Don't believe everything you read

by Harry Fox

The ad occupied a full page in one of the "pulp" magazines often sold over the counter in store check-out lines.

In the full-color illustration, a haggard fellow has just opened the door to a dingy apartment and is greeted by his wife, who nestles in her arms a tiny infant, as several toddlers play at her feet. There is no hope, no expectation in the man's eyes. They are dark with sleeplessness and worry.

The extra-bold, black type below the picture screams "I DIDN'T GET THE JOB . . ." As one continues reading, the real message in this dismal scene becomes clearer—"Maybe it was the razor blades. If only I'd used Gillette Super Blue . . ." It is only then that the reader zeros in on the gaunt face sporting a dense, somber five o'clock shadow on chin and cheek.

The magazine is from the 1930s, and the Gillette Company's guilt-ridden appeal to the unemployed breadwinner, desperate for work, is thinly veiled. All the odds are against you, chump—but, perhaps the product, that wonderful, magical answer, can come through in a pinch. Perhaps . . .

Pick up any popular magazine today, or read the "announcements" column in many newspapers, and any number of this "miracle" variety of ad can be found. The look is different, the idea is perhaps more up-to-date, a bit more sophisticated—but the bottom line is still the same. The advertiser is seeking to capitalize on people's fears, uncertainty and insecurity about the future.

Perhaps today's unemployed are too sophisticated to rush out and buy razor blades, but both those working and those seeking work can fall victim to slick, or not-so-slick, schemes that promise high wages, good paychecks, or security from unemployment.

Envelope stuffing rackets are nothing new, but this old standby of the mail-order con artist is still around, with a few new twists. Readers of this newspaper have stopped seeing such ads whenever they come to the attention of the staff. But, as Maryland Attorney General Stephen Sachs warns, they are getting harder to spot. Usually the person placing the ad is, like the reader, a victim. The actual product being promoted is merely information from a "company" which distributed packets of literature. These packets are then, in turn, sold to others who answer such ads.

Rarely, if ever, does anyone actually handle any mail, or get paid a nickel for doing so.

On a different level, but with the same intentions, are the phone order "investment" firms who call business and professional persons with offers of outstanding "opportunities" to reap big profits in jewels, precious metals, and the like. The vast bulk of such deals are quite literally not worth the time it takes to stay on the phone with the salesperson.

Responsible publishers and other media personnel try to screen out misleading or shady advertising before it reaches the reader. A few always get through. Of course, any advertising may try to convince us that the product is the one thing we need—or want—or should have. The costly difference is that "get rich quick" schemes often use false or incomplete information.

The choice is yours . . . so, think, BEFORE you spend any money.

The town of 1,500 is still the site of the Western Maryland Championships, one of the oldest tennis tournaments in the nation. And some town residents say they observe a shift toward historic preservation.

First Ruling Of Its Kind

From County Liquor Control Board Market Owner Cites Discrimination

Lowell Coddington, owner of Roy's Superette, Crellin, told The Republican on Monday that he does not intend to file an appeal in the second decision of the Garrett County Liquor Control Board to deny his request for an off sale beer license, even though he feels the decision was an unfair one.

Coddington applied for the license in April of this year, but was turned down by the board, which stated that there were presently three establishments near the supermarket which sold alcohol, and that a fourth was not necessary. The decision was appealed to the Garrett County Circuit Court, but Judge Fred Thayer found flaws in the hearing procedure, and ordered the LCB to rehear the case. Thayer noted that no proper records were kept of the proceedings, and that reliance on S19(m) (5) of Article 2 B in a beer only license application decision was misplaced, among other things mentioned, according to Coddington.

The case was reheard on August 25, and Coddington was again denied the right to obtain a license. The board again stated that there were already three license holders within a mile-and-a-half radius of the market, and that another was not prudent. According to one board member, this denial was the first of its kind in the board's recent history.

Coddington stated that "during the time between the first hearing in this case and the August 25 rehearing, new licenses were issued to two new operators in that area, namely Guy Fazenbaker, leasing Sereno's Tavern, and Willard Reckart, leasing Powles's Liquors." When questioned about that, according to Coddington, one board member said that "if no one shows up to oppose the license, the hands of the board are tied." Coddington feels he's been "discriminated against, and used as a 'guinea pig' to test the authority of the liquor board in court at his expense."

In a telephone interview Tuesday afternoon, board member Brenda Butscher stated that the licenses issued to Fazenbaker and Reckart were not new, but just transfers of previously held licenses issued to the former owners of Sereno's and Powles Liquors.

The board sent Coddington a letter stating reasons why the request was denied, naming such facts as the opposition of 22 residents in the neighborhood of the store, concern for the safety of children getting on and off the school bus in front of the store, and added litter caused by the sale of beer in the area.

Coddington voiced concern that his business would suffer from publicity of the case, and appear as something other than a family owned and operated convenience gas and grocery store, which he never intended to change.

State Police Note Weekend Activity

Two juveniles were arrested Sunday evening while in the process of breaking into a room of the Eastern Garrett Fire Department at Finzel, according to Maryland State Police, McHenry detachment.

Tfc. Chester Miller, Tcf. M.M. Tichnell, and Cpl. M.R. Mattingly, caught the two as they tried to enter the fire department beverage room after breaking into the hall itself.

Miller received a criminal information tip, according to the report, and staked out the building with the other officers. The pair was turned over to juvenile authorities for prosecution.

Another breaking and entering incident is being investigated which occurred at the Craig S. Miller residence, along old U.S. Route 219, south of Keyser's Ridge, on Saturday evening. The door to the residence had been pried open, and nearly $1000 worth of merchandise was removed. The items included a 19-inch portable color television, an AM-FM cassette player, a record turntable with two speakers, a telephone, and a strobe light. Tfc. Ron George is handling the investigation. No arrests have been made thus far.

The Garrett County Committee for Maryland's 350th Anniversary Celebration will meet Friday, September 30, at 2 p.m. in the conference room of the college center at Garrett Community College, McHenry.

CLOSE UP VIEW — Looking closely at Snyder's ultralight shows the various controls on the machine as well as how the machine, which comes in a kit, is assembled. Jason has his left hand on the lever which controls the ultralight's speed. The clear plastic cylinder attached to the frame is the speed gauge; air blowing through the gauge raises a lever to show the machine's speed. In front of Jason is the control stick which controls the altitude of the machine. Although Jason's feet are on the ground, while operating the machine, they rest on foot pedals which steer the ultralight left or right. The 28 horsepower engine and three and one-half gallon gas tank are attached high on the frame and can be seen above and behind Jason. The propeller is also visible and is located near the engine.

A BIRD IN FLIGHT — The shape of the ultralight resembles early designs of flying machines, tried before the Wright Brothers' successful flights at Kitty Hawk, which failed to fly. Dwight Snyder, owner of the ultralight, has flown as far away as Terra Alta and back without using all the gas in the three-and-one-half gallon gas tank.

If The Wrights Could See Us Now!

Ultralights Sail The Skies Of Garrett County

by Beverly J. Sincell

Orville and Wilbur Wright probably never dreamed what they had started on December 17, 1903, the day of their first successful airplane flight. Since then, man has designed amazing flying machines that perform immeasurable duties.

For the past year, a few Garrett Countians have been enjoying a device obviously made for leisure and which resembles some of the early flying contraptions, tried before the Wright brothers, which failed to fly.

It is called an ultralight and can be seen at various locations throughout the county in the evening after the wind dies down.

It is so simple, a 12-year-old can fly it. Just ask Dwight Snyder in Gortner. He owns one and his 12-year-old son, Jason, soloed in the 195-pound machine last week.

Snyder, who owns an airstrip in Gortner and is a certified flying instuctor, recently taught 10 people to fly the machine which when in the air looks like a go-cart that sprouted wings and a tail.

Each person solos in the machine when Snyder thinks he can handle the machine. His son was ready after 11 hours of flying time.

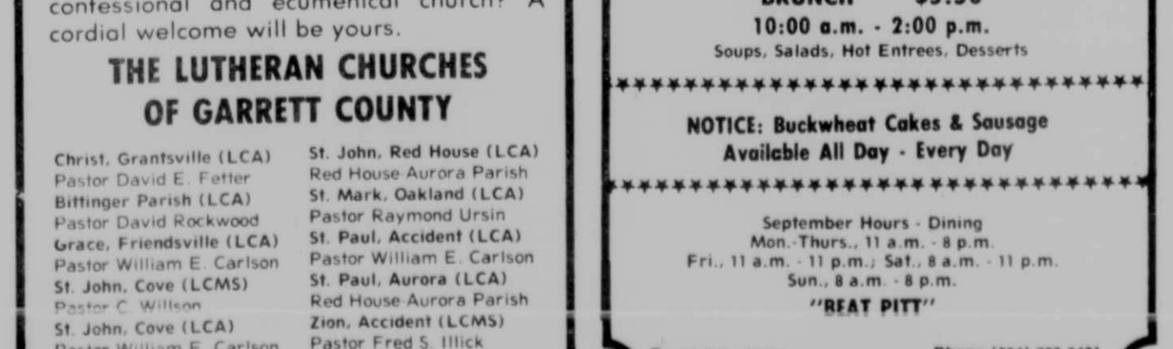
To prepare his students for their first solo flight, Snyder begins directing them as they ride up and down the airstrip. Then, they elevate about a foot, still traveling the airstrip, once they have mastered that, they travel 15 to 20 feet in the air.

When asked how it feels to be as high as 1,000 feet above the ground with relatively nothing around him and cruising at 30 m.p.h., Jason shyly says, "I don't know."

But, when he is up in the air operating the machine, there is no doubt how he feels: exhilarated! He reminds one of a child who has mastered his bike for the first time and rides back and forth over the same road, never tiring of it. His landings are so smooth, it is hard to tell when his wheels hit the ground, just like a bird.

Although the pride radiates from his parents, Dwight and Hallie, his mother says if she would have been the instructor, Jason probably would not have soloed quite so soon.

Dwight is holding back on allowing his son to take a cross-country ride in the machine. He has traveled as far as Terra Alta and back in the ultralight with no more than a full tank of gas, or a total of three-and-one-half gallons, and still didn't use all his fuel.



The ultralight operates on a 28 horsepower snowmobile engine. The wings are made of a type of nylon canvas and the frame is of aviation aluminum, a light, but sturdy metal.

The engine starts much like a grass mower, with a heavy cord which Dwight pulled several times. Foot pedals turn the tail rudder to steer the machine left and right, a control stick determines the altitude of the machine, and a small lever attached to a string on the frame controls the speed.

Although Dwight and his son wear helmets while in the machine, they acknowledged there is little protection if the ultralight crashes. However, Dwight also says the brand of ultralight he has, Teratorn, has no record of a single fatality from accidents.

Dwight is a little more willing to describe the sensation he gets when flying in his machine. "You don't have anything under you," he says, "It's like climbing a fire tower."

One thing for sure, the ultralight is rather close to man's dream to fly like a bird.

FLYING OVER PLEASANT VALLEY — Jason Snyder shows he has no fear of heights as he climbs up to an altitude of 800 to 1,000 feet above ground in an ultralight. Although ultralights can go as fast as 45 m.p.h., average cruising speed is 30 m.p.h. Jason's father, Dwight, believes in keeping up one's speed while in the air. "There is an old aviation saying," he says, " 'Keep up thy speed, or the ground will rise up and smite thee'."

Barthell Makes Governor's Visit To Local Lions

Lions International District Governor George J. Barthell made his annual governor's visitation to the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club Monday evening.

After dinner at the American Legion Post 217, District Governor Barthell discussed all aspects of Lionism. A member of the Middletown Club, Barthell had been a guest of the club here in July for installation of officers. He was introduced by local Lion president Joe White.

Monday's meeting was the group's first indoors since last spring, as the members gather at the Broadford Park pavilion during their summer meetings.

The original name for basketball was "indoor rugby."

PHONE MESSAGES

FOR MARYLANDERS

from Leroy W. Fisher, Community Relations Manager

Even Though We're Changing, You Can Still Count On Us.

That's because, on January 1st, C&P Telephone will no longer be a part of AT&T.

When that happens, some of the ways you do business with us will be a little different.

For instance, you'll still get local service from us. But you'll get long distance service and equipment from other companies.

So you may have as many as three companies providing your phone service.

And that might raise some questions in your mind. Like how to buy or lease your phone. How to understand your new phone bill. And how to get your phone repaired.

We'll be answering these and other questions in ads in your local paper. And in bulletins with your phone bill. It's information you'll want to read, and hang onto.

You see, we think you should know about changes before they happen.

And you can count on us to help.

That's one thing that will never change.

Our company is changing. If you would like to know more about how those changes will affect you, call us at 1 800 555-5000.

BPW Seeking Candidates For Young Careerist

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club is again seeking candidates to participate in the Young Career woman competition sponsored annually across the nation.

In order to be eligible for the Young Career Woman competition, a woman must be between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive, at the time of National Convention in July 1984. She must be or have been employed in business or in the professions with at least one year of full-time work experience in her career, and she must live in the area served by the Oakland Business and Professional Women's club, although she does not have to be a member of the BPW club.

The Young Career Woman competition will be held here November 10, and the winner will then compete against other young women chosen by the rest of the Maryland clubs at the annual state convention to be held in Frederick in May 1984. That winner will attend and compete with other state winners at the National Convention in Nashville, Tenn. next July.

Anyone interested in entering the competition or who may know of a young woman who is a suitable candidate may contact Pat White at 334-4174, Ann Wellham, 387-6666; or Leona Beckman, 334-2385. Several local employers, such as the hospital and local banks, have been given criteria forms should they want to nominate young women employed there.

The Young Career Woman Program is BPW's way of honoring successful young women while introducing them to the ideals and standards of the national federation. The program also allows BPW members to share ideas with and give young women the benefit of BPW expertise through social interaction and planned programs.

Garrett Adds SAT Test Date

Garrett Community Coliege, McHenry, will add January 28, 1984, to its calendar of testing dates for the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement Tests (SAT & ACH), college officials announced this week.

This supplementary date is designed primarily to accommodate seventh and eighth grade students participating in the Talent Search Program; however, January 28 will also accommodate other students who wish to register, namely juniors and seniors and others who need these scores as part of admission to academic institutions.

According to the Admissions Testing Program Staff, talent search programs find the SAT to be an efficient and nationally recognized measure of academic ability and potential. Students benefit from this testing by qualifying for special academic programs, by assessing strengths and weaknesses for planning high school course work, and by developing an awareness of potential and long-range educational goals.

The standard registration deadline for the January 28 testing is December 23.

The SAT and ACH Tests will also be administered on November 5 and May 5. Registration deadlines are September 30 and March 30, respectively. Late registrations are accepted.

Registration forms are available in school guidance offices. For more information persons should contact the Community Services Office of Garrett Community College at 387-6666, 245-4133, or 359-9520, Ext. 146.

Bambacus Tells Roper Committee Lobby Effective

In his address to the Allegany Chapter of the Stephanie Roper Committee Saturday, Sen. John Bambacus focused on the effective lobbying efforts undertaken by the committee. The local chapter forms a part of the network of citizens pledged to reform the system of criminal justice.

The meeting was part of a weekend of activities which included the naming of the Sephanie Ann Roper Gallery on the campus of Frostburg State College and a feature segment of "60 Minutes", the CBS-TV news magazine.

Noting that citizen action may take many forms, Bambacus stated that lobbying requires effective communication with elected officials. While the term lobbying has fallen into disfavor in recent years, the Senator reminded the group that it is nothing more than "an exercise of the constitutional right to petition one's government."

Bambacus ackowledged that the changes brought about by the Roper Committee and those it proposes for the upcoming legislature were born of a "shared horror." "But the response to the crying need for reform was not an emotional one. The work of this committee has been careful, controlled and well considered. Vince and Roberta Roper were right when they wrote, 'the fears, emotions and frustrations of concerned citizens throughout this state have been converted into effective political action.' "

Staying in close contact with the committee and with the Roper family itself, Bambacus looks forward to further reform in the areas of victim's rights and truth in sentencing.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Mrs. Retha Johnson, Horse Shoe Run, announces the engagement of her daughter, Teri Johnson, to Dr. Mark Walchman, of Los Angeles and Quebec, Canada. Both are in the U.S. Army stationed at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mullenax, Horse Shoe Run, became the parents of their first child, a son, on September 24. The baby weighed seven pounds, seven ounces at birth in Preston Memorial Hospital and has been named Christopher Michael. Mrs. Mullenax is the former Renee Stemple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stemple of Amboy. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mullenax of Horse Shoe Run.

Word was received here of the death on September 24 of Mrs. Katherine Abernathy Moreland of Parsons. She died in an Elkins hospital where she had recently been a patient and the body is at the Greenlief Funeral Home in Parsons where services are scheduled for September 28. Mrs. Moreland was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Abernathy of Aurora.

Mrs. Mildred Wilt of Eglon, was honored on her 80th birthday with an open house held in the Eglon Memorial Building on Saturday evening, September 24. Hosted by her daughters, about 80 attended the event including children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren and friends and neighbors. She also received about 60 cards.

An open house held on Sunday, September 25, at the Stemple Ridge Church, honored Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harsh of Aurora, on their 65th wedding anniversary. The affair was hosted by their seven children, all of whom were present.

The Aurora Homemakers met September 20 in the home of Mrs. Pearl Stemple at Aurora, with the hostess leading the opening devotions using meditation from The Upper Room, scripture from Isaiah and closing with prayer.

"Making the Most of Yourself" was the discussion topic led by Bonnylin Lantz who used colors, cuts of necklines, and other visuals to help each woman present choose how to enhance her good features and minimize those which are not. Modeling were Julie Adams, Ernestine Sisler and Martha Bolyard.

Selling tickets at the Buckwheat Festival will be Beverly Myers, Opal Myers and Bonnylin Lantz. Martha Bolyard read proposed changes in the Extension Homemaker's Constitution. Signs to be placed on the community signboard are to be ready this week. A donation of $25 was made to the Mental Health campaign. It was decided that litter bags will be purchased to give to visitors to the Health Fair planned for November 5. Refreshments will also be served.

Martha Crowe was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. Opal Myers presented each of the officers from last year with an Extension Homemakers pin and read some quotes from "Spice of Life." Mrs. Stemple showed a Cathedral Window quilt which she had made.

Refreshments were served to the following in attendance: Fern Jamison, Beulah Lipscomb, Ernestine Sisler, Olive Beckman, Martha Bolyard, Mildred Kovalck, Eva Wotring, Dean Sisler, Maxine Hauser, Beverly Myers, Vesta Stemple, Sadie Gnegy, Opal Myers, Martha Crowe, Betty Fint, Anita Lantz, Bonnie Lantz, Julie Adams, Wilda Wilt and six children.

The next meeting is planned for October 18 at the home of Dean Sisler. On October fourth the Aurora Homemakers will join the Eglon Homemakers for a covered dish luncheon at noon in the Eglon Memorial Building followed by a presentation by Preston County Extension Agent, Margaret Blagg, on Investment Sewing.

Lynn and Charlene Woodall and Stephanie of Atlanta, Ga., were Thursday to Monday visitors in Eglon with her brother, Tom Lewis and family, and with her father, Cecil Lewis, of Aurora and other area relatives. On Sunday evening a covered dish meal was held at the Eglon Memorial Building by members of her Evans family relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Simpson, Martins Ferry, Ohio, were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Mildred Wilt, at Eglon.

Alverda Kinney of Morgantown, is visiting in Eglon with Mrs. Elva Bland.

Mrs. Herbert (Susie) Winters of Vienna, W.Va., has been visiting with her sisters in Thomas and is spending sometime this week with Mrs. Jessie Bachtel at Horse Shoe Run.

Mrs. Lela Roth remains a patient in West Virginia University Medical Center awaiting surgery.

Harry Judy of Mt. Grove is a patient in the coronary care unit at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Jim and Patty Cox of Texas are visiting in Aurora and Amboy, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stemple.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Poling of Stemple Ridge visited last week with their daughters, Susan and Cyrus Snyder, in Harper's Ferry on Friday and Julie and Wayne Watson in Goochland, Va., on Saturday.

Eglon Mountaineer 4-H members in Photography I and II projects attended a workshop on Saturday at Jan's Studio in Kingwood. They were shown many procedures and each developed a print from a negative, learning to use the darkroom. Attending were Mark and John Utterback, Debra Rinehart, Emily and Julie Lewis, Julie Beckman, Stephanie Evans and Arlene Roth and Linda Lewis, leaders.

Marie Teets of Eglon, spent last week with her daughter and family, Merlin and Martha Reish, Micah and new baby, Marilyn, at Harrisonburg, and she and her husband, Ellis, then went to Roanoke, Va., where they helped another daughter, Don and "Bitsy" Shepherd and their sons, move to a new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Hartsell of Eglon have named their new son Allen Nelson.

Friendsville Topic Of "Municipal Maryland" Story

The town of Friendsville and its innovative solution to a wastewater infiltration problem is the subject of an article in the September issue of the "Municipal Maryland" magazine published by the Maryland Municipal League.

Friendsville was one of ten towns under wastewater moratoriums and had been assessed by the state health department as a priority town needing assistance. Others on the list included Grantsville and Accident. That town of 511 persons was selected by the Maryland Rural Development Corporation (MRDC) to be an example of its assistance to one small community, made possible by a grant provided by the Economic Development Administration.

The MRDC is a non-profit corporation assisting towns having a population of 10,000 or less in solving water, wastewater, economic development and housing problems.

The article noted that of Friendsville's 511 citizens, 15 percent are over age 60 and there is a per capita income of $4,355.

The town and MRDC agreed that a slipliner manufactured by NIPAK should be inserted in the trunk line to seal and close leaks under Bear Creek. The entire project took approximately two weeks, at a cost of about $4,000. Part of the project included redirecting rain spouts from the former elementary school into the storm drainage system rather than the wastewater system. The work was completed last March and it is hoped that the moratorium will soon be lifted for the town.

The "Municipal Maryland" article was written by Elaine Peiffer, executive director of the MRDC, and Jack Rogers, also of the MRDC.

Lung Association Meetings Slated

"Smoking Cessation Programs in the Workplace" will be discussed by Irene Williamson, program associate of the American Lung Association of Maryland, at the October 26 meeting of the Allegany/Garrett Regional Council.

"The council is made up of volunteers who plan and deliver Lung Association programs in Allegany and Garrett counties," according to Tom Cumiskey, council chairman. "Anyone who is interested in fighting chronic lung diseases through education and grassroots prevention activities, is welcome to join our group," he said.

Cumiskey was just recently elected council chairman and will be joining Noel White, recently hired Lung Association Program Associate assigned to the Allegany/Garrett Council in leading the group. They will assist the volunteers in the conduct of area needs assessment and important decision-making on programming for the coming year.

The council will meet at 3:30 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Hospital dining room in Cumberland. Area residents interested in joining the council should contact Noel White at the American Lung Association of Maryland, 11 E. Mt. Royal Avenue, Baltimore, 21202, or by calling toll free 1 (800) 492-7527.

Jobless Problem To Be Subject Of Conferences

Members of the Garrett County Development Corporation will be attending a series of conferences this week on the unemployment problem in Western Maryland.

Tom Jones, county development director, said Monday he will be accompanied by Col. J. Haig Jackson, corporation president, and Delegate George Edwards to two conferences in Hagerstown on Thursday and Friday.

The Thursday afternoon conference will be sponsored by Governor Harry Hughes who will discuss forms of state financing available to new and expanding businesses in the state. Hughes conducted similar workshops in three other sections of Maryland.

On Friday morning, the trio will attend a conference called by U.S. Congresswoman Beverly Byron who invited the federal, state and local officials as well as business and labor leaders in western Maryland to discuss the region's unemployment problem.

A third conference on the unemployment situation will be held October 4 with members of the Western Maryland Private Industry Council and the Western Maryland General Assembly delegation attending.

Jones stated he has received notice from U.S. Senator Charles McC. Mathias that he too will be holding a conference in the next month on the situation.

T.D. RAMS UPSET OAKLAND RAIDERS

For the second time in two weeks, the Thomas-Davis Rams have come from behind in the remaining minutes to earn victories by the pass. They defeated the Oakland Raiders Sunday in Terra Alta, 13-12.

The Raiders come out strong by taking their first possession to paydirt, with Zack Gibson capping the drive on a one-yard plunge at the 2:59 point of the first quarter.

Gibson's interception of a Ram pass three plays later set up a 14-yard touchdown strike from Chris Helbig to Bobby Horner on the last play of the first quarter.

The Raiders failed on both conversion attempts, which later cost them the game.

The Rams' first score came with 1:46 left in the half when Rob Bush scored from three yards out. Bush also ground out the three yards for the conversion to send the players to the lockers with the Raiders holding a 12-7 edge.

The Rams' winning TD came with 1:17 left in the game with Jim Drenning's 37-yard scoring strike to Bush to give the Rams their third victory in four starts.

Brian Quattro had a fumble recovery and Allen Paugh and John Qualls stood out on defense for the Tucker County squad.

The Raiders were led by Mike Hornyak and Gordon Savage.

The Raiders go to Northern this Sunday to tangle with the Steelers at 1:30 p.m.

The Rams travel to Parsons on Sunday for a 3 p.m. contest with the Vikes.

STEELERS CRUSH VIKINGS 19-6

The Northern Steelers notched their first win in the 1983 Mt. Top Youth Football League campaign with a 19-6 victory over the Parsons Vikings Saturday night at Northern.

Duane Campbell recorded the Steelers' first score on a 60-yard scamper to the end zone. The conversion attempt failed.

Eddie Tabor blasted 30 yards, also in the first quarter, to bulge the Steeler lead to 12-0.

The Steelers third TD came in the third quarter on a one-yard blast by Campbell. Eddie Lytle set up that score on a long run the play before. Tabor ran for the conversion to make the score 19-0.

The Vikes bounced back with a score in the fourth quarter when Rob Carr galloped 25 yards.

Eddie Carr and Richard Evick stood strong on defense for the Vikings, while Keith Grove and Jeff Reynolds led the Steelers.

The Steelers will host the Raiders next week on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. The Vikings will entertain the Rams at 3 p.m. in Parsons, also on Sunday.

JETS SHUTOUT DOLPHINS, 20-0

The Oakland Jets routed the Terra Alta Dolphins Sunday 20-0 at the Preston Countains' field.

The "Green Machine" got on the board with 7:16 remaining in the second quarter on a 12-yard blast by J.R. Bosley. The conversion failed to make it a 6-0 Jet lead at the half.

The Jets scored again in the fourth quarter when Bosley banged in from three yards. Bobby Bernard tossed to Bosley for the PAT to stretch the Jets' lead.

With 33 seconds remaining in the game, Jet tailback Tommy Ritchey reached paydirt from two yards out. Billy Martin's PAT attempt was good.

The Dolphins had good defensive play from Mike Rocha, Mike Markwood, Jimmy Freeland and Jim Farris. J.R. Bosley, Fred Glotfelty, Billy Martin, Jeff King and Shawn Eyler led the Jets' defense with 18 tackles.

The Jets are idle next week, while the Dolphins go to Parsons on Sunday for a 1:30 p.m. contest with the Browns.

GCC Volleyball Women's Team Boasts 4-1 Record

The Garrett Laker Volleyball Squad opened the second week of its season with a loss to a stronger Carnegie-Mellon University team by scores of 7-15 and 10-15.

Following the loss to Carnegie-Mellon, Garrett rebounded to crush Penn State Fayette Campus by scores of 15-3 and 15-2.

The Lakers returned home Saturday to host a re-match with the Fayette team as well as their first JUCO Conference match against Frederick Community College. Garrett won both matches to push its record to 4-1.

Fayette displayed an improved team but Garrett outscored with 15-7 and 15-12 victories. Susan Harper and Christy Fratz paced the Lakers, Harper with four spike points and Fratz with six points from the serve. Christy also led the defense with four digs. Mary Dougherty contributed four assists.

GCC completely dominated the Frederick Squad winning by scores of 15-4 and 15-1. Lani Dailey mesmerized Frederick with her serves, scoring 13 points on her serves alone. In the opening game, Dailey held serve for 13 straight points as the Lakers won the game in only three rotations. Sue Harper and Sue Snyder led the hitting attack with three spike points apiece.

The Lakers are on the road this week with a tri-match against Hagerstown Junior College and Montgomery-Germantown Community College followed by a return match at Frostburg State College.

GCC's next home match will be Thursday, October 6 against Howard Community College and Potomac State College at 6:00 p.m.

"Bowl For Life" Chairman Named

The Mid-Atlantic Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced the fall chairman for their "Bowl For Life" Bowl-A-Thon in Oakland. She is Eloise Ratliff, who will chair the event at Par-Matt Lanes, Oakland.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which affect children. It is a non-sectarian, non-discriminatory research and treatment center for cancers like leukemia and Hodgkin's disease, as well as sickle cell anemia, malnutrition and other fatal illnesses.

Patients are referred to the Hospital by their local physicians and no child has ever been turned away because of inability to pay. Currently 50 percent of newly diagnosed leukemia patients at St. Jude Hospital can be expected to be cured. Research and progress from the Memphis facility are shared freely with doctors and hospitals the world over.

Nearly 70% of St. Jude Hospital's operating budget comes from voluntary contributions. Bowlers for St. Jude's will be asking local citizens to sponsor them with a small contribution for participating in the event.

The date of the local Bowl-A-Thon will be announced later.

County Provided 3,000 Antlerless Deer Permits

The number of anterless permits available in Garrett County for the 1983 deer hunting season has been set at 3,000, according to Al Bourgeois, District Wildlife Manager, three times the number issued in the county last year. Allegany County will likewise issue 3,000 permits for the 1983 season, a significant increase over last year's 300 permits.

Bourgeois said the increased number of permits is related directly to the increasing deer populations in the two counties. The main reason for the increase is the fact that agricultural crop damage has increased significantly in recent years. In Garrett County during the three-year period 1979-1981, an average of 90 crop damage complaints were investigated annually, but in 1982 the number of complaints doubled to 178 and indications are that this year will be similar to, if not exceed, last year's total.

Another reason for harvesting more antlerless deer, he said, is that the increasing deer herd is starting to destroy its own habitat in some areas. Heavy browsing is evident in parts of the county, affecting forest regeneration and future food supplies for the deer. Habitat conditions in the wintering areas has also deteriorated and most likely will not support the present deer population in a severe winter.

Finally, the average weight of yearling bucks harvested in Garrett County in 1982 was 101.7 pounds, a decrease of 3.5 pounds from 1981 and the lowest average weight in the past five years. "Combined with the above factors this indicates that the deer herd is competing for a limited food supply and needs to be reduced somewhat to reduce damage problems and improve the physical condition of the herd," Bourgeois stated.

The Wildlife Administration realizes that doe hunting is very controversial and that increasing the number of permits to 3,000 seems high, but biologically, that figure could be nearly doubled to achieve the harvest of antlerless deer needed to reduce damage and maintain a healthy deer herd, according to Bourgeois. Key Huskies Fall

Roughing Penalty, Injuries Assist Beall In Defeat Of Huskies, 14-7

A roughing the kicker penalty and injuries to several key personnel of the Northern Huskies Friday evening were two big breaks for the Beall Mountaineers as they broke through the stingy Husky defense late in the game and defeated Northern 14-7 in Frostburg. It was the second loss in three starts by the rebuilding Huskies who now have half of their eight seniors on the sidelines with injuries.

The Yardstick

Beall		Northern
8	First Downs Rush	4
2	First Downs Pass	0
2	First Downs Penalty	1
12	Total First Downs	5
8	Passes Attempted	10
3	Passes Completed	1

4 27	Punts Average	4 32
7 45	Penalties Yards	3 35
2 1	Fumbles Lost	1 1
266	Total Offense	77

Another key to Beall's win was the running of Dave McCauley, who rolled up 164 yards on 33 carries and scored the winning touchdown. The Mountaioneers are now 2-0.

The first quarter was all defense, as the Huskies turned the ball over via the fumble on their own 33-yard line in the first offensive series, but then stopped the Mountaineers on downs. The next drives by both teams also failed to materialize.

Northern was on the move in the second quarter behind the running of Greg Diehl and Jeff Graham when Beall's Brad Eichorn picked off a Steve Zumpano pass and returned it to the Beall 43. Ten plays later, following a 22-yard pass completion from Dave Sween to Shevin Kuperman, Kuperman rambled in from 21 yards out to put the Mountaineers on the board. John Brewer booted the extra point.

The third quarter was almost a replay of the first, as both defenses allowed their opponents to get no closer than the other's 40-yard line. In the final moments of the period, Northern defensive tackle Jeff McClintock hit McCauley and forced him to fumble, which McClintock then recovered on the Beall 20. A few plays later, with 10:43 remaining in the contest, Graham carried the ball into the end zone on a one-yard dive. Dave George tied the score with his conversion kick.

The momentum was then clearly on the side of the Huskies as the defense stopped the Mountaineers cold on the ensuing series. However, on fourth and long, the Northern defenders tried to block the punt but instead knocked the Beall punter to the ground, which gave the Mountaineers the ball and a first down. On the very next play, another five yard was assessed against Northern for lining up off sides, which placed the ball on the Huskies' 37. Three plays later, McCauley crashed through the center of the Husky defense, which at that point had lost a number of starters because of injury, and raced 13 yards for the winning touchdown. Brewer added his second point-after kick.

The Northern offensive unit had two more opportunities with the ball, however one drive was stopped on downs and the final one was ended when Sween intercepted Zumpano's pass at the Husky 46.

Beall finished with 266 yards in total offense, compared to just 77 for Northern.

Defensive standouts for the Huskies were Dave George and McClintock. Dean Shriver, Chad Brode and Jeff Raley paced the Beall tacklers.

"Our defense kept us in this game," Coach Jack Settle said, "but they have been on the field so much lately that they are really taking a beating."

Already out of the lineup before the game were senior Roy Miller, an outstanding defensive back and receiver, who suffered a bruised knee two weeks ago, and senior Kevin McKenzie, who dislocated a knee just before the first game. Lost in the Beall contest for an indefinite period were seniors Phil Carr and Jim Swauger, both with knee injuries. Both were starters on the defensive and offensive lines and Carr is leading the team in tackles. Junior Jeff McClintock, who starts at defensive tackle and linebacker and played an outstanding game against Beall, was also lost with a severely strained ankle. Greg Diehl and Jeff Graham, also seniors, have been fighting nagging injuries for several weeks, Diehl with a thigh pull and Graham with a sore ankle

"We just had too many of our regulars out when Beall put together their winning drive in the fourth quarter," Settle said. "We also felt the momentum change and our spirit break on that roughing penalty. With so many changes in personnel late in the game, we lost our poise, especially on our last two drives."

However, Settle said that he didn't want to take anything away from Beall, calling them "a good, solid team" and labeling McCauley as an "outstanding athlete."

Re-grouping and finding a way to fill the many holes in the lines is the big task for Settle and his staff this week, plus finding a way to produce more offense. "Our offense just hasn't moved the ball real well yet this year," he said, "and it really concerns us."

Another formidable foe awaits the Huskies this week as they travel to Berkeley Springs, which is fielding one of its better teams in several seasons. The West Virginians are 3-1 on the season, having lost only to powerhouse Musselman.

Berkeley Springs is led offensively by aerials, throwing the ball over 30 times per contest. "Needless to say," Settle stated, "we're really concentrating on our secondary work this week."

Settle said that it is "highly unusual" to have to work around so many injuries. "But what is, is," he concluded, "and we will do the best we can to get ready and keep things going."

Deer Permits

ever, when doe seasons were reinitiated in Western Maryland in 1979, the Wildlife Administration told the public they would institute the antlerless seasons gradually, to gain the confidence of the public that antlerless seasons can work.

Figures from recent antlerless seasons show that hunter success during the antlerless season will be about 20 percent, which means that approximately 600 deer will be harvested during the two-day antlerless season. Last year 210 deer were taken in the doe season in Garrett County out of 1,000 permits issued. Landowners accounted for 32 percent of the deer killed (68), while hunters with permits took 68 percent (142).

Bourgeois said that the Maryland Wildlife Administration hopes that sportsmen in the county will cooperate with the Department in applying for the antlerless permits and using them. "But we don't want to foster the idea that deer are so plentiful that anyone can shoot one," he said. "The deer harvest needs to be controlled like any other game population in order to manage it wisely to maintain good populations for future years."

Applications can be found in the hunting guide issued with each license sold and must be received in Annapolis by October 19. Last year there were 2,707 applicants for Garrett County. As in the past, 75 percent of the applications will be available to county residents and 25 percent to out-of-county residents.

1.9 Million Fish Stocked In Area

The area's lakes are now home to some 40,000 additional large and smallmouth bass and some 1.5 million walleyes following the year's stocking program through the Department of Natural Resources Inland Fisheries Warmwater Program.

According to Ken Pavol, with the Warmwater Program, some 3,210 largemouth bass were received as fry from the Joseph Manning fish hatchery and grown out in two ponds on the Oakland Country Club property.

Now measuring between three and a half and seven inches in length, 2,560 of the fish went to Deep Creek Lake, 250 to Broad Ford Lake, and the other 450 to the lake at the Pleasant Valley 4-H Center near Bittinger last Thursday.

Since last spring, 6,600 largemouth bass fingerlings and 1.5 million walleye fry were placed in Deep Creek Lake; 12,850 smallmouth bass fingerlings were placed in Bloomington Reservoir; 5,000 smallmouth bass were sent to Rocky Gap Lake; and 5,000 smallmouth bass were stocked in the Casselman River. Some 3,000 striped bass hybrids were stocked at Broad Ford as well.

In announcing the stocking program for the various lakes, Pavol acknowledged the cooperative effort with the Oakland Country Club, saying that without this assistance, the county could not grow quality bass for the stocking program.

Competition will be three games across six lanes, with total pinfall to determine the champion of the scratch event.

Each of the 30 All-Stars will be presented awards. The winning team members will receive monogrammed jackets and a traveling trophy to be displayed in the champion's home bowling center throughout the year.

Rams Added To Musselman's List Of Victims By Being Shutout, 22-0

The Southern Rams suffered their first loss of the season Friday evening by becoming just one more victim of the streaking Musselman Applemen on the Bunker Hill gridiron. In picking up their 28th consecutive regular season win, not counting a 0-0 tie the previous week, the Applemen shutout the Rams, 22-0, by utilizing their tremendous speed and capitalizing on two major Southern miscues.

The Yardstick

Musselman		Southern
7	First Downs Rush	7
2	First Downs Pass	1
1	First Downs Penalty	0
10	Total First Downs	8
15	Passes Attempted	15
3	Passes Completed	4
3	Passes Intercepted By	1
36	Yards Passing	66
206	Net Yards Rushing	85

2-20	Penalties-Yards	1-5
0-0	Fumbles-Lost	2-2
242	Total Offense	151

The Southern defensive unit, which went into the game allowing an average of just over 20 yards on the ground, held Musselman to just six points until the third quarter when an interception and a fumble, both deep in Ram territory, resulted in two more touchdowns for the West Virginians.

Kevin Bane, one of three speedsters on the Musselman squad, reached paydirt first on a 51-yard gallop in the second period. The pass for the conversion failed.

Following a pass interception near the 10-yard line, Vince Owens rambled in from eight yards out for the Applemen's second touchdown. Allan Fiddler's conversion pass to Ted Schly was complete.

Moments later, the Ram offense fumbled the ball away on their 20-yard line and Beetle Robinson, an All-State selection last year, carried the ball in from the 15 for the final score. Fiddler connected with Doug Kirby for the conversion.

Bane led all rushers with 87 yards on nine carries, Robinson finished with 63 on 11 carries and Owens recorded 54 on 14 attempts.

The Applemen outgained the Rams in total offense by a 242 to 151 yard margin.

Ram Coach Tom Woods stated that the inability to tackle and poor coverage by the Southern defense were among the reasons for the loss, but he said the quickness of Musselmen's defense totally stymied the Southern offensive unit.

"Because of their quickness, our receivers had trouble breaking loose and our offensive line couldn't hold their blocks long enough for J.R. (Gibson) to get the pass away," Woods said. "They are a real good team," he said, "and it's tough to stop a team that has put together such a long string of wins. They have forgotten how to lose."

The more obvious problem for the Rams were the two third quarter turnovers. "Any time you turn the ball over that deep in your own territory against such a strong team, there is no question that they are going to score on you," Woods said.

The Rams hope to return to the win column this Friday evening when they host a young 1-3 Keyser team in the Southern Homecoming contest.

Keyser is starting a significant number of freshmen and sophomores, however two of their three losses have been by just a few points late in the game. "They could easily be 3-1 right now," Woods said.

Keyser is led offensively by Sean Hill, a 5-7, 140-pound sophomore speedster tailback, whose ability Woods compares to that of Kenny Barnett, an outstanding back for Central Preston in recent years. A freshman, Mike Smith, 5-10, 165 pounds, is the starting quarterback and anchoring the offensive line is 6-0, 208-pound senior Mike Lyon, who also is an accomplished kicker inside the 25-yard line. Shawn Vissman, another freshman at 5-10, 165 pounds, is the fullback.

Jeff Staggers, a 5-9, 150-pound junior defensive back, is one of the leaders of the Tornado defense.

Keyser uses a multiple-I offense and a multiple-50 defense.

"Keyser is young, but they are aggressive, they have good overall quickness and they are maturing with every game," Woods said. "A win is critical for us at this point, because two losses back-to-back for a senior dominated team can be devastating."

Woods said that the Rams are generally in good physical shape, although a few players are presently fighting the flu. Veteran center John Thayer, who has been out for two weeks with a bruised knee, is expected to play Friday.

Kick-off is slated for 8 p.m.

Forester Stresses Caution During Present Dry Spell

Garrett County Project Forester, Ernie Metz, recently back from the annual statewide cooperative forestry conference this year held in Carroll County, has issued a reminder to county residents to be especially careful with fire during this extended dry period. The extended weather forecast is for continued unseasonably dry and warm conditions.

"In times such as these, everyone must be extremely cautious with any outdoor burning," Metz said. Burning regulations in Maryland require that any burning must be done after 4:00 p.m., and not within 200 feet of woodland of flammable material that could carry fire to woodland. Due to the extremely dry conditions, the issuance of burning permits to contractors, etc., has been suspended.

A recent revision in the law now includes a provision whereby the state may charge persons for discarding burning material, such as cigarettes, in an area where they may start a fire.

"Containing fires during this dry time is more difficult than usual because the fire burns deep into the ground into the root systems of the trees as well as what you are burning above ground," Metz said. "Consequently, although a fire may seem to be out, the possibility exists that it is burning underground and may flare up in another place and create additional wildfire danger."

The Forest and Park Service urges all county residents to be on the lookout for fires or areas where fire danger is high. For further information they may contact the Maryland Forest and Park Service Office at Mt. Nebo, (301) 334-3296. Individuals reporting forest fires should contact Garrett Central Alarm by calling 911.

Lindsey Predicts Cost Of Natural Gas To Stabilize

The cost of natural gas to Columbia Gas of Maryland customers is beginning to stabilize after steep increases in the past three years, according to Thomas Lindsey, Jr., Cumberland manager for the company.

"Beginning next year, we expect gas cost increases to be quite moderate, less than 10 percent a year, including inflation," Lindsey said. "Without inflation, we project only single-digit increases in actual gas cost. We no longer see annual increases of 20 percent or more.

Lindsey said that steps taken by Columbia over the past two years to reduce gas costs will begin to reflect in customers' bills during the next few months and will continue in coming years. "At the same time, we have been able to assure abundant supplies for both the short-term and long-term needs of all customers."

Among improved gas equipment, Lindsey said newly-developed residential furnaces provide operating efficiencies up to 97 percent, even at subfreezing temperatures.

Improvements and advantages of new high-efficiency gas equipment include:

—Intermittent or spark ignition to eliminate the need for a continuously-burning pilot light.

—Vent dampers to eliminate loss of furnace or hot water heat up a chimney when equipment isn't operating.

—Induced draft or power venting which allows gas furnaces to be vented through a wall, eliminating the need for vents or chimneys through the roof.

—Recuperative exhaust systems to retain heat in the equipment for a longer period of time, thus maximizing the full BTU value of natural gas.

—Simplicity of conversion to gas from other heating systems, even in homes without chimneys.

—Pulse combustion systems which burn gas in rapid-fire succession in both warm air furnaces and hot water boilers for home heating.

PICTURE PERFECT PATCH POCKETS

All home sewers know that sometimes it's difficult to make a good-looking patch pocket. Try this technique, developed by Madaleine Greene of Montgomery County; I think you'll be pleased with the results.

1. Cut finished pocket shape out of light weight cardboard.
2. Place right side of fabric down on ironing board.
3. Position cardboard shape on fabric.
4. Press seam allowances back around cardboard shape.
5. Clip and trim as necessary.
6. Remove cardboard.
7. Glue stick the seam allowances inside and out.
8. Position 1 pocket on garment, matching markings glue should hold it in place.
9. Machine or hand stitch in place.
10. If garment has pockets on the right and left, do one entire side of garment at a time.
11. Side 2 pockets should be positioned by pinning side 2 pocket to right side of finished pocket on side 1.
12. Place side 2 of garment on top of side 1 matching front closing and bottom edges.
13. Carefully roll back top side to just expose edge of unfinished pocket that is pinned to finished pocket.
14. Carefully unpin edge of pocket and repin to unfinished garment continue roll back process till entire pocket is pinned in place.
15. You are ready to sew on pocket knowing that the right matches the left and vice versa.
16. Pockets can be lined or unlined.

FOOD NOTES

Here's a tasty recipe I think you'll enjoy trying using acorn squash:

CUP O'GOLD BAKED ACORN SQUASH

3 acorn or table queen squash
6 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
3 oranges, peeled, sectioned, seeded (1½ cups)

Cut squash in half, scoop out seeds. Place cut side down in shallow baking pan filled with ¼ inch water. Bake at 375°F for 40 minutes. Turn squash, fill each center with 1 tablespoon brown sugar, ½ tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon grated peel and 4 to 5 orange sections. Add more water to pan, if necessary. Continue baking until tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Baste occasionally as butter melts and juice forms. Serves 6.

EXTENSION HAPPENINGS

Deputies Arrest Four This Week

Four men were arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on various charges ranging from disorderly conduct and destruction of property to theft.

Donald Ray Filsinger, 25, Route 5, Oakland, was arrested September 24 at 11:17 p.m. after he had refused to leave Doc Holiday's Deli and Bar when requested. Assistant Chief Deputy Paul Pratt and Deputies Larry Gnegy and Richard Kutchman responded and arrested Filsinger when he became disorderly with the officers. After he was taken to jail, the subject again became disorderly, according to the report, and smashed an ashtray on the holding cell floor.

Charges against Filsinger are trespassing, disorderly conduct and destruction of property. He was released the following day on his own recognizance pending trial.

James Willard Stemple, Oakland, was charged by Deputy Charles Nolan September 24 with the theft of a jacket belonging to John Sharpless September 9. According to Sharpless, the jacket was in a truck parked at Doc Holidays at the time of the theft.

Stemple was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Robert Allen Hanlette, 24, no address given, was arrested September 24 by Deputy William Thomas and charged with vagrancy. Hanlette remains in jail in lieu of $100 bond.

Deputy Kutchman arrested Robert Rhodes of Deer Park, September 23 on charges of disorderly conduct and alcoholic beverage intoxication. Rhodes is jailed in lieu of $200 bond.

Theft Reported

My-O-Tire reported that on September 22 at 11 p.m., two employees chased two men carrying a white gas can after the two had stolen gasoline from a company boom truck. The employees were unable to catch the suspects, however. Deputy Larry Gnegy is continuing the investigation.

The Garrett County sheriff's department welcomes information on these or any unsolved crimes in the area. Callers need not identify themselves. Information may be given to the sheriff's department, 334-2141, or Garrett County Crime Solvers, 334-3111.

Byron Calls For Economic Summit September 30

Sixth District Congresswoman Beverly Byron announced late last week that she has called for a Western Maryland economic summit meeting on September 30 in her Hagerstown district office.

Representative Byron said, "The need for an economic strategy meeting became imperative after Fairchild closed, and after the Celanese announcement last week, we can not afford to wait any longer. I want to gather all the federal, state, and local officials, business and labor leaders, and economic development experts together, so we can discuss a unified strategy for attracting business to Western Maryland. A united front will be much more effective than many individuals striking out on their own."

Among local officials attending the summit will be Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg and members of the Garrett County Development Corporation.

In a related development, Byron announced that the Economic Development Administration (EDA) field office would submit an economic profile of Western Maryland to the EDA Regional Office. This is the first step toward getting a Strategy and Development Grant under Title 9 of the Public Works and Economic Development Act. Mrs. Byron said that the EDA grant would help pay for the initial process of formulating an economic strategy. "In order to be effective, though, federal, state, and local resources will have to be used together to get the economy of Western Maryland on a sound footing," she said.

Representative Byron remarked, "Western Maryland has absorbed a series of economic blows, but I am very confident that they will be overcome. We have skilled, dedicated people in the area that are ready to work, and we must start now to prepare for the future."

months of this year. The Southern Maryland Region recorded a 16 percent decrease, the Washington Metropolitan Region showed a 15 percent decrease, the Baltimore Metropolitan Region decreased by five percent and the Eastern Shore and Western Maryland Regions logged a four percent drop.

The three categories showing significant decreases were murder, rape and breaking or entering, which decreased 21 percent, 14 percent and 13 percent respectively. The only offense to show an increase was robbery which increased one percent.

State Police Superintendent, Colonel W.T. Travers, Jr., pointed to the work of state, local and municipal police departments in regards to heightening public awareness in crime prevention programs and assisting local communities in starting crime watch programs as one contributing factor to the decrease in crime.

Of the 23 Maryland counties and Baltimore City, all but four showed a drop in crime.

look at the salary and benefits of the liquor board, he also wants them to take a look at the amount of authority invested in that board.

Braskey commented that the liquor board is the highest paid board in Garrett County, with an annual salary of $2,000 per member. This is the only board covered by the county's benefits including group medical insurance, dental and vision benefits. The members also receive reimbursement for all travel expenses. Total cost for the board and administrator is $41,096.18, with $12,886.20 for the benefit package excluding travel.

"I feel that when you have a school board that receives $200 salary a year and many other boards who are not compensated as much, or a group like the board of directors at Garrett County Memorial Hospital who receive no compensation, this type of difference in benefits and salaries must be scrutinized by Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus," Braskey concluded Tuesday.

Springs Folk Festival Set For October 7-8

The mountain village of Springs, Pa., will celebrate the 26th annual Springs Folk Festival on October 7 and 8. Again this year crafts people from Springs and surrounding communities will gather to present authentic pioneer and mountain crafts.

In a large heated building will be nearly 60 exhibits including spinning and weaving, glass blowing, rug hooking and braiding, quilling, tatting, and basketry. There will be rocking horses, leather crafts, wooden toys, a potter, a violin-maker and various forms of painting.

Among the pioneer craftsmen at work on the outdoor trails will be the beekeeper, tinsmith, rope maker, blacksmith and sauerkraut maker. Old timers will demonstrate the arts of log hewing, rail splitting, and flailing grain. New this year will be a maker of corn brooms using old equipment. In addition there will be horse-drawn hayrides and a team of oxen.

Live performances will feature the banjo and fiddle tunes of bluegrass musicians, the acappella singing of local Mennonites, and the melodies of the hammered dulcimer.

A family-style dinner including sausage, Dutch fried potatoes, and dried corn will highlight the Pennsylvania Dutch food. Concession stands will serve funnel cakes, apple-butter bread, Dutch bean soup and other items.

The Springs Museum, also on the festival grounds, houses a collection of artifacts from the pioneer farm, home and shop. The miniature train display portrays the life of a fading era.

The festival will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Admission is free to children six and under, $1.00 for children seven to 12, and $3.00 for adults, which includes entrance to the museum and train display. Parking is free.

Springs is located on Route 669 between Salisbury, Pa., and Grantsville.
